WORLD SERIES STAR PLAYERS

Babe Adams is 43 Years Old and Was Dropped But Came Back

PITTSBURG, Sept. 30. — Sixteen years ago, on a cold October day, there came into everlasting baseball fame a bulky Missouri ploughman, for the moment one of the great moundmen of the day—Charles (Babe) Adams.

Detroit had won the American League pennant that year, 1909, and Pittsburg the National, but the Pirates' pitching staff had crumpled at the last—with one exception, Adams, a first year man, had won two games and stood on the mound at Detroit in the final struggle, facing another famous righthander of that day—the late "Wild Bill" Donovan, who was killed in the Twentieth Century Limited wreck while on his way to attend the baseball league meetings in 1923.

Ty Cobb There

With Detroit was the great Tyrus Raymond Cobb of Georgia, still great after 20 years; the powerful Sam Crawford and a string of other dangerous batsmen. But Adams carried the series and the world's championship to Pittsburg by permitting only six hits, materially aided by bow-legged, fighting Hans Wagner who seemed to be everywhere at once. Pittsburg scored eight runs for a decisive conquest in this seventh and final game.

Today Babe Adams, now 43 years old, stands ready to pitch his heart out for another Pittsburg triumph in world's series combat and the sentiment of the Pirate fans very likely will draw him into action in at least one of the games. His arm has not the stamina of old but his courage and skill remain.

Notable Record

Babe has had a notable career. Born in Tipton, Ind., in 1882. He went with his father to Mt. Moriah, Mo., in early life. His father was a tiller of the soil and so was Babe until his work as pitcher for his home town Haymakers came to notice. The Parsons team of the Missouri Valley League picked him up in 1905 and he won 30 out of 49 games, enough to attract the attention of the St. Louis Cardinals. After spending half of the season on a St. Louis bench he was sent to Louisville and thence to Denver. In the Colorado capital he became a hero, with 38 victories out of 50 games and Pittsburg snatched him away for a short trial in 1908. Then again he went to Louisville and pitched so well that he came back to the Pirates to stay.

After his remarkable work in the world's series of 1909, Adams remained for a long time in Pittsburg, but finally failed in 1917 and departed for the lower leagues. But he pitched remarkably well for Hutchinson of the Western and Kansas City offered him an opportunity. It was the road back to fame, a road few major leaguers have traveled. The veteran conquered Columbus twice in the season of 1918, allowing one hit each time, to show he was back in form.

Returned to Fold

The latter part of the season saw him return to the Pirate fold and remain there. In his career in the majors he has pitched in 2,476 innings, equal to 275 full games. This season he has participated in the credit for a dozen contests, winning as many as he has lost.

SPORT CHAT

The Anyox Rifle Club wound up the 1925 season last week with a prize competition in which J. Humphreys won first prize and J. Beckett, second. A novel feature about the rifle shooting season in the smelter town this year has been that ladies and men alike have participated. Miss R. Champion and Mrs. M. D. McTaggart averaged 85.428 and 85.235 in the aggregate of all shoots. Three medals, gold, silver and bronze, were put up by J. J. Beckett for the best averages during the season and the respective winners were A. W. McTaggart 88.343; R. O. Cutler, 87.964; and L. F. Champion 86.031.

One of the most important things done at the annual meeting of the Dominion Football Association in Winnipeg recently was to reach the decision that association football in Canada does not need Sunday games to keep up its popular interest. In regard to the refusal to allow Sunday games, it was felt by some that this might tend to give impetus to the professional movement in the Dominion. John Easton was re-elected president of the Association and Sam Davidson, secretary. Jimmie Adams of Victoria was the British Columbia member chosen on the provincial council.

STORK OPENED CAMPAIGN WITH SPEECH DEFENDING PARLIAMENTARY RECORD.

of Mr. Mackenzie-King had been tremendously increased though it was possible that Mr. Meighen, too, might make a few gains as a result of the dissolution of the Progressives. Coming West, the Conservatives might gain a member or so but the prairie provinces could never be expected to support Mr. Meighen and his high tariff policies. It was difficult indeed to find where Mr. Meighen was going to get the 75 additional members he would require to gain power.

Progressive Party

Referring to the Progressive party, Mr. Stork stated that in 1924 they had nominated 120 candidates and elected 65. Now they had practically disappeared in Ontario and to date, there were only 54 Progressives in the field in the whole of Canada. Last session the Progressives had had a smash up. A group of ten members in Ontario had broken away entirely. The party had attempted to discipline its members who had supported the government on the budget and in caucus, the resignation of all officers had been called for and they had all been replaced with the exception of the leader, Robert Forke, who held his position on the casting vote of the chairman. Could anyone imagine Mr. King retaining his leadership in that manner.

Mr. King had already stated that he would refuse to carry on unless he was given an adequate majority in the House of Commons but would take his case back to the people. He had had enough of the gun being held to his head by the Progressives. The situation had been intolerable with the Progressives in the position of being able to dictate on all policies. Mr. King had come to the conclusion that it was utterly impossible to carry on the government without a good working majority.

Nickerson's Credentials

Mr. Stork then dealt with the candidature of Mr. Nickerson who had come out as a Progressive candidate with the endorsement of Robert Forke, the leader of that party. "Mr. Bushby and myself come before you with our credentials having been duly nominated by the two parties. Has anyone seen the credentials that Mr. Nickerson declares he has received from Mr. Forke. If he actually had those credentials would they not have been published? I am inclined to doubt if that endorsement is actually forthcoming."

Mr. Stork stated that a great deal might be said about taxation, finance and other matters during the last parliament but he would leave the wider field for a future occasion. It was his intention at this time to give an account of his stewardship during the past four years and talk in an intimate manner about local conditions. Mr. Stork then read a partial statement of various items that he had been instrumental in securing for the district during the period of his membership. This list contained a multitude of lesser items such as post offices, foals, wharves, lights, increases in mail grants, etc.

Secured Tie Contracts

In 1921 he had found that very few ties had been cut for the Canadian National Railway in the district between Terrace and McBride. The great majority, it was said, were being cut on Mackenzie-Mann limits between Red Pass Junction and Kamloops. Such a matter affecting the railways had not come entirely in his province but he had taken it up with railway headquarters pointing out that settlers on this end of the line were in need of such assistance as might be forthcoming through tie cutting. The result was that in 1922 the contracts in this district had been increased from 600,000 to 1,600,000 and in 1923 to 2,000,000. Subsequently it had been found that the production of ties had been greater than the railway's requirements.

Another benefit to the district had been realized as a result of the fisheries investigation carried out by the Duff commission of which he had been an active member. Mr. Stork declared. Contrary to what seemed to be the custom as far as the most of royal commissions were concerned, the report of the Duff commission had been instantly adopted. It provided for a reduction of 40 per cent in gill net licenses to Orientals in 1923 and a further reduction of fifteen per cent in 1924. The use of skeinets for fishing on the Skeena River had been permitted and further, with reference to gasboats, the last budget had provided for a reduction of duty on gas engines to be used for fishing purposes of 12 1/2 per cent.

Nautical School

The Halibut Fishermen's Union had asked that a nautical school be established in Prince Rupert for the benefit of fishermen during the close season. The department had sent an official here to make arrangements for the school which it was now announced would open on October 1.

Regarding dry salteries, formerly controlled almost exclusively by Orientals, legislation had been enacted whereby the first twenty-five per cent of the staff in such operations must be
