EXCLUSION OF ORIENTALS IS UNDER DEBATE

Resolution Passed at Victoria Asks That Head Tax Be Re-fund to Chinese

VARIOUS OPINIONS

"Fairplay for our own people and the Yellow Man," was the keynote struck by Chairman Clem Davies at a strongly attended meeting of the Oriental Exclusion League, held at the Knights of Pythias Hall, which advocated ridding British Columbia of Chinese able-bodied workers by deportation. Over one hundred delegates and members were present.

A strongly worded resolution favoring refund to Chinamen of head tax, as an inducement to leave the country, was adopted unanimously. It was pointed out that many Orientals had come here as a result of misrepresentation of conditions by shipping agents and their own wealthy mercantile people, the latter having generally paid the $500 head tax and reduced the immigrants to virtual slavery.

As adopted, the resolution advocated full refund for Chinamen under 40 years of age, and a sliding scale of refund for others, depending upon the length of stay in Canada. This was favored to prevent exportation of elderly Chinamen, no longer of economic value, to secure for the local merchants repayment of the head tax on such men.

Must Stir First

Chairman Dr. Clem Davies opened proceedings with the reminder, "This Oriental question is peculiarly our affair in British Columbia. Ottawa will not move until we make them. They will do nothing before our Legislature acts, and the Legislature will do nothing until we make an emphatic and practical move."

Resolutions advocating operation of a shingle sawing and packing school, and legislation to prevent sale or leasing of agricultural land to Orientals being passed was urged, in addition to the exclusion scheme.

James Onson, Prairie Club delegate, started the league with the query, "What will you do if these resolutions are ignored?" He declared that, some years ago, a mining community had ordered Chinese miners to leave the district, and failing to get action, had "strung two to every telegraph pole along the railway." Mr. Onson denied suggesting such practices in Victoria, but feared that ordinary resolutions would have little effect, either with Government bodies or the Orientals concerned.

Dr. Davies broke the surprised silence with the comment, "We shall move in the usual British way. I do not know that we shall have to use telephone poles."

All Pockets Pinched

"When it was a worker's problem of competition for a living, nobody cared. Now these Chinese are in commerce, are doctors, dentists and even ministers. They pinch everyone's purse and conscience. When these Orientals threaten to get into the Legislature we shall see real action."

Narcotics Scandal

The league unanimously condemned the existing terms of the Narcotic Drugs Act of 1923, which refuses right of appeal to persons convicted of selling "dope." Recent defaults sustained by the Crown, in habeas corpus proceedings, were retailed. Being assured that restoration of right of appeal would better conditions, the league unanimously supported amendments of the act.

Minimum Wage

A minimum wage for an eight-hour day was strongly advocated, and a resolution in support of a scale according with the cost of living was unanimously adopted. The institution of a minimum wage would, the league considered, automatically eliminate the Chinaman from many industries, because of the superior labor production of white men.

It was pointed out that while wages are reduced by Chinese competition to a point where $72,000 monthly is lost to Victoria in lessened pay for white mill workers, while the whole of the wages paid to Chinese workers is taken from circulation. "If we had this money in circulation
