Forgot To Take His Gloves Off.

In his address in the Empress Theatre the other evening G. W. Nickerson, Progressive candidate, forgot to take his gloves off as advertised. Many people went out expecting to see something smash or hear it rip, but they were disappointed. Nothing happened. The candidate was mostly on the defensive, though why he should have to defend himself that early in the game seemed odd. How much defense would he need if he were at Ottawa for four or five years? The meeting made it clear to any impartial observer, that he would not be there.

Must Practice Economy
But Not At Prince Rupert.

Mr. Nickerson strongly urged that the utmost economy should be practiced in order to reduce taxation and, almost in the same breath, urged greater expenditures here and berated the member for not securing larger appropriations.

Everyone knows that we cannot have our money and spend it. If there is to be economy in the country it will have to be here as elsewhere. Of course we want things and we shall do our utmost to get them, but it is useless to be unreasonable. Prince Rupert has just got a million and a quarter dollar expenditure here and it would hardly be reasonable to expect anything else under the present financial condition of the country.

All Are Wanting Things Done Here.

No one has fought more persistently than the Daily News for things required here and this paper has been outspoken in regard to the action of the railway and government on many matters. We have to speak up plainly sometimes. Still, though we are often disappointed at the results and we should like to see greater progress along many lines, we have to face facts as we find them. Today we have three courses open to us. We can send Mr. Bushby to Ottawa to support Sir Henry Drayton and the others who fought tooth and nail against Prince Rupert. We can send Mr. Nickerson to Ottawa to be a voice crying in the wilderness tagged on to the tail of Robert Forke and his few followers. The other alternative is to again return Fred Stork to Ottawa to carry on the good work that he has commenced. If he has been able to secure an elevator when the government he supported had not even a majority in parliament, what may he not do when he goes back this time to join a government with a good majority over all.

If it was a matter of voting for the man, choosing would be much more difficult than it is. All three men are able in their several ways. All have plenty of courage and are able to express themselves. All are men who do credit to the constituency. But that is not the question. What we need to consider is the effect at Ottawa that the election will have.

Vote For Ourselves
In This Election.

In this election let us vote for ourselves. We, the people, are the ones who have the say. We can support whom we will. We might even have nominated a dummy and elected him if enough of us thought well of it. However, it is too late to consider more nominations. We have three men before us and what we, as more or less sensible people, have to consider is, which will be of most use to the community? We have no hesitation in saying we think that to elect Stork will serve our purpose best. We can use him to advantage. He has the ear of the government and can fight our battles where they are most likely to be won. As citizens of Prince Rupert or residents in the other parts of the Skeena riding we cannot well afford to indulge in the pleasures of sending an opposition member to parliament on this occasion.

POLICE REPORT
A HEAVY MONTH

Copy of Record to be Sent Attorney General to Show Effect of Beer Parlors

MANY NATIVE CASES.

September was the heaviest month in years as far as police records in Prince Rupert were concerned it was announced by Chief Vickers at the regular monthly meeting of the police commission yesterday afternoon. There were 74 cases dealt with in court resulting in 67 convictions, four dismissals, two withdrawn and one pending. Revenue for the month totalled $1,698.50 including $1,663.50 collected as fines and $35 for keep of provincial prisoners in the city jail. The heavy number of cases, the chief suggested, was due to the large number of Indians in town during Fair Week. There were 51 cases of drunkenness, 19 of them Indians. Five suppliers were arraigned and convicted. The report for the month stated that weights of coal and bread had been tested and found correct.

Commissioner Montgomery regretted that the list was so large and suggested that the report be forwarded to the attorney general to show the effect of the beer parlors in Prince Rupert and also to show that the commission was attempting to enforce the law and control the situation. It was decided to do so.

Commissioner Montgomery also inquired if there had been any reply to a letter recently sent to the attorney general's department regarding the recent activities of "stool pigeons" here. City Solicitor Jones stated that no reply had been received. It was decided, at the suggestion of Mayor Newton, that the department should be again communicated with on the matter. In not replying to the letter, His Worship felt that the attorney general was treating the police commission with contempt.

The payroll for September totalled $1,187 and accounts were passed.

Parking Bylaw

Mayor Newton said it had been drawn to his attention that it was difficult for cars to find the silent policeman at the corner of Third Avenue and Second Street when cars were parked end on to premises on the north side of the Third Avenue at that location. It was pointed out by City Solicitor Jones that the Parking Bylaw now awaiting attention at the hands of the council would prevent the parking of cars end to the sidewalk. The commission felt that drivers should observe care to avoid accidents at such points as these which are well known. The chief offered to take the matter up with business people having premises at the point complained of.

The roof of the women's jail which is leaking was referred to, the chief stating that steps were being taken to have repairs made.

Attending the meeting were Chief Vickers, Commissioner Montgomery and City Solicitor Jones.

Com. Coombs is still in Vancouver where he is a patient at the Shaughnessy Military Hospital receiving treatment for severe wounds received while overseas.

C. W. Hamley who, during the war, was sent by the U.S. government to Europe to teach American soldiers to cultivate accurate and faultless memory, will give a free entertainment on Monday evening in the Empress Theatre. The entertainment promises to be highly educational and interesting.

Mr. Hamley has Indian ancestry and has adapted some of his methods to our Anglo-Saxon mental processes with amazing results. Mr. Hamley has such a fund of original stories that he was much sought after during the war as a Red Cross entertainer in addition to his other work.

He has appeared before many educational gatherings, Rotary Clubs, Elks, etc. Those who have heard him pronounce him one of

Waltham
WatchwordsHe Missed
the Train

IF Robinson could have caught the 8:45 he would have landed a four-thousand-dollar order. But he trusted to an untrustworthy time-piece, thus missing the train and losing the business. A Waltham would have cost him a little more money than the obscure make of watch he carried, but in the long run he would be money ahead. That's why we say that the Waltham is an inexpensive watch. Spread its cost over years of good service and its price comes mighty reasonable. You can't develop the habit of being "on time" unless your watch is reliable. Carry a Waltham and you'll always have the real truth about the time.

Waltham Watches in a great variety of styles for ladies and gentlemen always in stock. Prices from $25.00 upward.

VISITORS AT ROTARY LUNCH

Members of Grain Commission, Deputy Minister and Elevator Manager Attend

The deputy minister of trade and commerce, the grain commissioners, the general manager of government elevators and the elevator architect who were visiting the city yesterday were the guests of the Rotary Club at their luncheon yesterday afternoon. They made some short remarks about the elevator and told some stories with the result that the event proved most enjoyable.

Deputy Minister O'Hara expressed the hope that grain would be pouring through the elevator soon but suggested that if it should not come as fast as was expected Prince Rupert people should not feel disappointed. Leslie Boyd, chairman of the commission, said he had been a member of the Rotary Club two years at Fort William. He had found that his duties as a commissioner made it impossible to attend meetings so had dropped out. He appreciated the fact that at this luncheon he was enabled to meet a number of the businessmen of the city. It was the first time the deputy minister had visited the whole chain of elevators with the commission. It would give him a picture of the situation and the result should be that when Prince Rupert came to ask for an extension of the elevator facilities they would be granted.

As good Canadians they all wanted to see the development of Canadian seaports. At present they all knew that 65 per cent of the Canadian grain went out of the country at Buffalo and an effort was being made to divert it to Canadian ports. He had come to feel confident that Prince Rupert would be one of the big Canadian exporting ports. It had equal facilities with Vancouver now and he felt sure that if the city of Prince Rupert did its part they would bring the grain this way. They now had something to sell in the way of facilities. It had been suggested that the Canadian National Railways should extend aid in shipping this way. He illustrated the neutral position of the railway by means of a story.

Commissioner Robinson said the members of the grain commission did very little talking but a whole lot of work. This was their first visit to Prince Rupert. He hoped to see the day, and he believed it would not be far distant when they would be forced to visit the city often because of the large volume of grain going through the elevator. General Manager Heatherington said he appreciated the hospitality of the Prince Rupert people and hoped to visit the port frequently.

Teachers' rooms had been furnished by the teachers. Supplementary books costing $60 had been purchased, payment being made from the concert fund. Requests that 40 Highroads of History be purchased, that hot plates in the domestic science be repaired and that windows on the ground floor of the school be screened were met. The matter of further improving the school grounds was left to the school committee. Fuel consumption for the month at the school was reported at 5,300 pounds of coal and four cords of wood.

Principal Brady asked for more chemicals at the High School and it was decided to order them as well as hurry up a previous order not yet arrived. The matter of keeping the typewriters in the commercial department in repair was laid over for further consideration.

It was reported that what seemed to be ringworm was epidemic in the schools. Dr. Tremayne was asked to make an investigation.
