Argument Against Protection Given in Letter to the Editor in Answer to Hon. H. H. Stevens

At his meeting in the Westholme Theatre the other night Hon. H. H. Stevens spent much time in expounding his high tariff theory. He strongly urged that the Conservatives be returned to power in order that the tariff be raised.

The prosperity of the United States results from the sale of billions of dollars worth of oil yearly and not from any tariffs just as free trade Great Britain prospered through the sale yearly of millions of pounds worth of coal. In former days any nation which had good coal at tide water flourished, and today Canada would flourish exceedingly if there were a billion dollars distributed yearly throughout the country for oil.

Under high tariffs the manufacturing interests fight each other to the death for control, and on monopoly being effected the price of goods bear absolutely no relation to their value. It is estimated that in the seasons when the owners of the United States—the farmers, mine operators, cotton growers, lumbermen and so on have a prosperous year, the manufacturing interests counterfeit American dollars to the extent of millions upon millions—as witness their income returns—and pass them on to the people in the shape of over-priced goods. Thus seasons of apparent prosperity are found very onerous by the great body of the public.

In order to make the nation tolerate this, the manufacturing interests create and foment a clap atmosphere—that is prejudices are created instead of true patriotism.

Owing to the largesse of advertising the great newspapers and periodicals, become subsidised by the great manufacturing interests.

High tariffs reduce the value of farm lands, mines, fisheries and so on, because of increased cost of clothes, shoes and machinery. All these adjacent farms and mines could be operated if their owners and employees could split between them, the fifty cents in every dollar the manufacturer receives over and above the value of his goods.

High tariffs are unfair to the owners of the country—the farmers and so on because they have to sell in the open—the cheapest market—and buy in the dearest—the home market—whereas the manufacturer buys his raw material in the cheapest market and sells in the dearest. In spite of the millions spent by the world in the United States for oil, Alaska, and the farming districts are no more prosperous than Canada.

Finally, I would point out to Mr. Bushby—to give a point to the discussion—that fifty men could not row a tow boat with a scow load of lumber from Georgetown mill in the time taken by one of his own tow boats. The wages which he would have to pay for the men would be at least fifty times what he pays for the oil, so can we wonder at the flourishing condition of the United States domestic trade in comparison to Canada's because Canada has to import her energy.

I would say that I have nothing but admiration for the people of the United States, and for their constitution my only reason for bringing in the United States into this discussion was in answer to the wild assertions of the Conservatives.

pire, is largely to blame for this, and it will be the duty of whoever is elected to represent this constituency to use his influence to see that some consideration is given to the problem of where Canada is drifting from a national standpoint.

Besides a Canadian National Railway, we want a Canadian national flag, we want an official Canadian national anthem, we want the word "Canadian" accepted in all matters of naturalization and registration and we want more Canadian history taught in our public schools.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space.

H. A. BREEN, Pres. Sons of Canada.

FARMERS AND ELEVATOR.

Editor, Daily News. There seems to be a lot of inconsistency creeping into the Conservative ranks already in this election campaign.

On the one hand Mr. Bushby says he is in favor of the local elevator and that now it is here it has got to be made to pay, while on the other hand he said on Wednesday night that all the farmers he had spoken to in the interior country had stated that they would not be shipping grain for at least three years.

It does not sound reasonable to suppose that farmers would import chicken feed, also intimidated by Mr. Bushby, when the by-product from the elevator after it gets into operation, will be available for this express purpose.

Undoubtedly the farmers approached by the Conservative candidate had stated they would not be growing grain but it would have seemed more to the point for a budding representative of the district to have urged upon them the advisability of so doing, and thus in a measure insuring the successful operation of the new grain plant.

ADVERTISE PRINCE RUPERT.

Vancouver, B.C. October 1, 1925

Editor, Daily News. Hoy about a little publicity for Prince Rupert, she is on the up grade, keep her going. There are many opportunities here, which should interest capital.

We must look upon our city as a big business, and a business to succeed now-a-days must advertise. The following ventures should succeed in Prince Rupert, for instance: A modern flour mill, laminated wood veneer plant, great quantities of cotton-wool along the Skeena river and adjacent lands about the city are going to waste for lack of a market, this is an industry that would furnish employment to many men.

A smelter located there would be in an ideal position to handle the ore from the north and east, and be a great incentive to mineral production, many could develop their claims, if they could dispose of their ore.

Power development is another big proposition which should appeal to large capital. The water power which could be harnessed is almost unlimited.

There are openings for other industries, especially in connection with the fish business, some good use should be made of the meat on halibut heads, which at present is used only to make fish meal, could be preserved for human food.

Now one way to get publicity, would be to secure permanent space in a few of the leading papers of the U.S. and Canada, including Prince Rupert papers, which the subscribers could send to their friends, who are scattered all over the world. Enclose a newspaper wrapper with each paper, an adv. on the inside of each will pay for them.

Yours resp., BRUCE BROWN.

When I mentioned fish, I was thinking of a company here in Vancouver, who are manufacturing fish balls and canning them, they use salmon, I thought perhaps the same could be done with halibut.
