Big Contest in the Nomination Today for Mayor of New York; Hearst Press Backs Mayor Hylan

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(By Canadian Press).—This is primary election day in the largest city on the continent, with more than a million voters eligible to cast their ballots to designate mayoralty nominees to carry the party standards at the municipal election on November 3. The polls open at 3 p.m. (daylight saving time) and close at 9 o'clock tonight.

Not in many years has there been such keen interest in a mayoralty fight on account of the bitter internecine warfare in both the Democratic and Republican parties.

Another fight underneath the surface is the battle between New York's popular governor, Alfred E. Smith, and William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, who has frequently attempted to assume the role of dictator in the Democratic party. If the Governor wins it will place him in the national limelight once more as a possible candidate for the Presidency. If he loses, he faces oblivion.

Giant Project Endorsed to Harness Big Tides in Bay of Fundy by Maine

PORTLAND, Maine, Sept. 15.—The hundred million dollar project for harnessing the great tides in the Bay of Fundy to generate from 500,000 to 700,000 horsepower and supply power to the eastern sections of the United States and Canada was endorsed yesterday by Maine voters, the vote in favor being nine to one.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(By Canadian Press)—Hydraulic engineers of New York are quoted by the Herald-Tribune as saying that the project of Dexter P. Cooper to generate 500,000 to 700,000 horsepower by harnessing the tides in two inlets of the Bay of Fundy near Eastport, Maine, is not only feasible from an engineering point of view, but is "the most promising development in the electrical world in a decade."

The paper points out, however, that Canada will likely have something to say regarding the project, saying the sanction of the Canadian and United States governments will have to be secured.

According to the Herald-Tribune, Frederick Darlington, engineering expert for the Westinghouse Electric Company, who recently inspected the Passamaquoddy and Cobscook bays, in the Bay of Fundy, where for four years Mr. Cooper has been making preliminary surveys for his project, said he was convinced the plan will be carried through.
