Record Season of Concerts Forecast by Ticket Sales

More than 300 seats already reserved for concert Wednesday, a record season appears shaping up for the Alaska Music Trail series.

A proportion of seats sold has proved enough to the Alaska Music Trail which reports that the series is now subscribed for more than 80 per cent of the seats planned to attend the season tickets. The series reports that it is much easier to sell season tickets than in previous years and that, due to the opening concert, there is considerable interest in the reception and which are also scheduled for the first night.

One hundred and six children of pre-school and Grade 1 ages visited dentists' offices during the first year of the Prince Rupert Preventive Dental Clinic has been in operation. Frank Derry, reporting to the meeting, also stated that an average of three visits was made by each child resulting in more than 300 sessions with dentists. Each of the three city dentists gives three hours Wednesday forenoon to the clinic.

At present, each child is charged $4 a school year for preventive dental work. The provincial department of preventive dentistry pays a similar amount, but announced recently that it would not be able to pay for dental treatment for children beyond Grade III.

The local dental clinic committee has met its share due to "generous donations" received from a few local organizations and hope was expressed that the same contributing organizations would renew their subscriptions for the coming year.

Chairman J. E. Wilson expressed confidence that needed funds would be forthcoming and thanked the Parent-Teacher Associations for their financial contributions, and Dr. Duncan Black, city health officer, for his assistance.

Present at the meeting, including the Mesdames O. R. Green, A. H. Ogilvie, Mr. Leslie Murdoch, Father Rayner, N. R. Young and J. D. Robertson.

Girls Should Learn Appeal Says Doctor

LONDON (CP)—A school course in the art of love-making and greater stress on other womanly pursuits, is what the doctors have prescribed for the modern bobby-soxers.

The formula is offered by Dr. Winifred Kok, assistant county medical officer for Essex, in the September issue of "Family Doctor," published by the British Medical Association.

Dr. de Kok, author of books on the upbringing and care of children, says that most girls efforts to look attractive, too often lapse into an attitude of defeatism. They pretended to despise pretty frocks and looked down on other girls who tried to enhance their appearance.

STRESS APPEARANCE

"If I had a daughter like that, I should be far more perturbed than if I had a daughter considered vain," Dr. de Kok confides. "I should make every effort to interest her in dress. I think I should even encourage her to use lipstick. For there is no doubt that from time immemorial the function of women has been to provide beauty."

The doctor warns that a mother might become jealous of her daughter. Many readily acknowledged this but the wise flirt almost before they can talk and that all instinctively make the best of themselves except when they are discouraged or led to think that in doing so they are being vain and silly.

SPORTS OVERDONE

"The majority of girls' schools aim at turning out sporting, games-playing amazons who don't pander to vanity, but I think that is a mistake," the doctor writes.

"It would be far better if some of the games were cut out in favor of dress-making, domestic science, the art of home-making and above all, the art of love."

Some girls whose mothers could not or would not provide pretty clothes and resisted their ones merely laughed it off. However, other mothers not so wise, tried to keep their attractive daughters in the background and made their lives miserable.

She concludes: "Some few mothers see themselves in their daughters and get as much pleasure out of their triumphs as if they were their own. Whatever happens, youth must have its day and if daughters should learn the art of being attractive, mothers should also learn the art of growing old gracefully."

Annual CNIB Drive Gets Underway Here

The annual appeal for voluntary contributions to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is now in full swing across Canada and the Prince Rupert Branch of the CNIB is sending out appeal letters in order to raise its share for the national organization.

Fourteen volunteer workers, nine of them members of the Business and Professional Women's Club, spent considerable time during the past week getting the appeal letters ready for local distribution.

Those helping included Miss Phyllis Harrison, Miss Norma Irving, Miss Frances Partridge, Miss Joy Bryenton, Miss Frances Cross, Miss Joan Cross, Miss Netta McLeod, Mrs. Chris. Worsley, and Mrs. Bekaton, all of the Business and Professional Women's Club. Others assisting were Mr. E. Boulter, Miss Audrey Wrathall, Mr. and Mrs. St. John Madeley and Miss Sue Madeley.

The CNIB aims to improve the social and economic condition of blind Canadians in addition to sponsoring preventative treatment for blindness. The organization's program offers social services to blind people: home teaching, library service, employment.

Lien-Hill Nuptials at St. Peter's

A pretty wedding took place at St. Peter's Church, Seal Cove, Saturday afternoon when the Rev. Twining united in marriage Elaine, youngest daughter of Mrs. H. Lien, and Mark Mill, Jr., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hill.

The radiant bride entered the church on the arm of her stepfather, Mr. Harold Lien, to the strains of the Wedding March, played by Mr. Dyke McMillan.

Mrs. Gordon Carlson was matron of honor and Mr. Carlson was best man.

The bride chose a beautiful dress of white satin and lace and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. The matron of honor was gowned in apple-green taffeta and carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

A reception was held at the future home of the bridal couple, 921 Tenth Avenue East. Master of ceremonies Mr. Gordon Bate-man proposed a toast to the bride and groom responded suitably. The best man proposed a toast to the matron of honor. A beautiful three-tiered wedding cake, made by the bride's mother and iced by Mrs. Andrew Thompson, was cut by the bride and groom.

Serviteurs were the Misses Georgia Bate-man, Pat Wilson and Verla McKay.

Canadian Attends German YWCA Camp

TORONTO (CP)—Eggs cost 86 cents a dozen in West Germany, says Reta E. Horner of Hamilton, who has just returned from a summer in Europe where she attended an international Y.W.C.A. camp at Burkhardthaus, West German Y.W.C.A. headquarters in Gelnhausen.

"Y" members from 16 countries attended the two-week conference, the first international meeting sponsored by Burkhardthaus since the war.

"Not many of us spoke German and English fluently, but we managed," says the Hamilton "Y" program director in a letter to Y.W.C.A. headquarters in Toronto.

If Canadian housewives think they have budget problems they should pity the poor German women, she said.

IN LUXURY CLASS

"Tea and coffee are luxuries as the cost is four times what it is in Canada," said Miss Horner. "And when we consider that the German salary is about one-quarter of ours we realize that tea and coffee cannot be a regular commodity in an average home."

Eggs are 86 cents a dozen, she said. An orange costs 15 cents.

A German housewife almost must be diligent with her clothing budget as well as with the food, "because prices are high here too."

Miss Horner found that many Germans wear national costume. Leather shorts, or "Lederhosen," worn by men and boys were interesting.

"Even tiny boys wear them and we thought that here the German mother has it a little easier than the Canadian mother—because there is no washing," said Miss Horner. No ironing, no mending either. "They need only be hung out to air," she wrote.

ECONOMICAL TOO

Lederhosen cost $8 to $10 for small sizes. One youth had had only four pairs in his 18 years and when he outgrew them they were handed down to his younger brothers.

Camp delegates discussed tensions in their home countries "not as learned politicians but as ordinary people see them and we saw how closely linked our problems are."

"Our theme was 'My Contribution to Peace' and in our workshops we discussed this in relation to poverty and wealth, the refugee, the worker and the family."

Miss Horner described the German Y.W.C.A. as a church movement, in many ways comparable to the organizations of women and girls in Canadian churches with a program centered on Bible study.

"Our 'Y' has the same Christian basis but our program is more extensive and more social and recreation," said Miss Horner.

She recalled that the German Y.W.C.A. was founded by a Pastor Burkhard of the Lutheran Church and it has continued as an organization of that church. The president is still a man.
