All Dressed Up And Nowhere To Go.

Prince Rupert is a city that is all dressed up and nowhere to go, according to some visitors. Rev. E. W. Mackay told the Rotary Club yesterday that he had heard this of the city.

The phrase is a bright one and there is some truth in it, as in most bright sayings. There is nowhere to go for a drive at present but this is rapidly being cured. The road to the other side of the island is rapidly taking shape and as soon as the city has completed its end, it will be possible to drive several miles, even if the road is not yet of the very best.

Prince Rupert's highway is the water. That is where people usually go for recreation. They cross the harbor to the Salt Lakes or they go off to the hundred and one beautiful resorts in the neighborhood. What can be finer than a cruise on the harbor in the evening or a day at the beach or at one of the lakes or streams that abound in the district?

Objectionable Person Is To Be Pitied.

It was the same person, Mr. Mackay, who yesterday gave another insight into life. He said that while he might object to some people we did not have to live with them, whereas they were bound to live with themselves. If there were one or two points in a person we did not like, doubtless there were many the person himself knew about.

The person who is weak or vicious is to be pitied because he has to be encumbered with those weaknesses or vices all the time. He may annoy his neighbors, as doubtless he does, but he is more of an annoyance to himself.

Boys' Band Is Excellent Thing.

A boys' band is an excellent thing. There is to be one organized in this city and doubtless it will receive the support and encouragement of everyone. Colonel Nicholls of the First B.C. Regiment, backed by the Rotary Club, is fostering the movement. The Colonel states clearly that it is not to be a regimental band although the Regiment will loan some of its instruments and if necessary will loan the use of the rooms for practices.

Music is a great thing and learning to play or sing in harmony is always beneficial and enjoyable. A band is an excellent means of enjoyment to the whole community as well as to the members. It would be a great thing to have a band of thirty pieces with the lads all in band uniform, well trained and able to play together.

Alaskan Newspaper Averse To Spread-eagleism.

London newspapers have been criticizing a recent speech of President Coolidge. Mentioning this, the Juneau Empire says: "These London newspapers ought not to be too harsh with the President on account of what they discover as a note of American exclusiveness in that Cambridge speech. The occasion was just in advance of the Fourth of July, and the American people just as a matter of habit must hear the eagle scream on the Fourth of July. That means, of course, that the gallant old bird must have some preliminary training and when one is called upon to make a speech on a patriotic or historic subject just before the Fourth of July he ought to be excused if he speaks particularly to the American people in Fourth of July language rather than those of the rest of the world in world-wide words.

"However, American statesmen too often discuss world affairs in terms that are intended exclusively for American consumption, and the President is an occasional offender in that line. If this country is to do the best that she is capable of doing for humanity her statesmen must talk in terms that are understandable in other countries as well as at home. Our people must not assume that democracy, humanitarianism, love of freedom and peace, honor in business and politics, etc., exist solely in the United States, because they also exist in other countries.

"If the United States is to be a spiritual and material leader among nations she must understand other peoples, and boastfulness and spread-eagleism do not always promote understanding however pleasant their appeal might be. Yet, as said, some allowances ought to be made in England of all countries on account of Fourth of July week."

HERETICS IN EARLIER DAYS

Scopes Case Starting Today Revives Memories of Long Gone Similar Events

MODERNIST MOVEMENT

Theologians Who Were Tried or Threatened; Witches Hanged; One Smiled in Church

NEW YORK, July 10.—(Associated Press)—The age-old effort to define truth will be revived when Professor John T. Scopes, Tennessee evolutionist, has his day in court.

His indictment for teaching the Darwinian theory in public schools contrary to the statute has precedents which reach back for centuries. In America they date virtually from Plymouth Rock; in the world at large, from the dawn of the Christian era.

"The now nationally known 'Scopes case' is recognizably akin to prevailing differences between Modernists and Fundamentalists which have increased with the rise of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

Other Cases

The last actual trial occurred in Cleveland, O., in May, 1924, when William Montgomery Brown, former Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Arkansas, was pronounced guilty by a church court of holding beliefs at odds with the accepted doctrine of his denomination. He publicly avowed communism and so-called atheism.

In the '90s, Professor Charles A. Briggs, a Presbyterian seminarian of New York City, was charged with having expressed himself at variance with the Westminster Confession. The New York Presbytery cleared him, but the General Assembly of the church reversed the decision and pronounced a verdict of suspension.

Dr. Richard Heber Newton, a New York Episcopalian, of the same period, cut short charges against his "broad churchmanship" by demanding a formal trial. His demand was met but the plaintiffs failed to appear.

Alleged Heresy

David Swing of Chicago left the Presbyterian faith to preach independently in the '70s when those citing him for alleged heresy refused to abide by his acquittal at the hands of the Chicago Presbytery and threatened to appeal to the Synod.

Mrs. Sarah B. Cooper, Sunday school worker, was haled before the Presbyterian authorities in San Francisco about 1870.

Theologians to survive heresy proceedings and gain what was reported as a firmer position were Horace Bushnell, Congregationalist of Hartford, Conn., in 1849; Prof. Philip Schaff, whose acquittal in the German Reformed Church in 1845 was echoed for thirty-five years in the "Merseburg controversy"; Lyman Beecher, father of Henry Ward Beecher, and Presbyterian pastor in Cincinnati, in 1835; and Rev. Albert Barnes, Presbyterian of Philadelphia, 1837.

Hanged For Witchcraft

The witchcraft delusion in Salem village was the tragic climax of controversialism in colonial days when nineteen were hanged and one "pressed to death" in 1692.

Henry Dunster was forced to resign as the first president of Harvard College in 1654 after he publicly doubted validity of infant baptism. He was also indicted by a grand jury as a heretic and sentenced to "a public admonition" and placed under bond for good behavior.

Smiled in Church

Samuel Gorton, religionist about 1610 was virtually deported to England because of the unpopularity of his temperament and views. He returned to America under letter of safe conduct issued by the Earl of Warwick to the Massachusetts magistrates. Gorton's trouble started in Plymouth Colony when he came to the defense of his wife's servant who had smiled in church. He suffered successive banishments from Plymouth, Newport, Rhode Island and Boston. A sect which adopted his antinomianism survived him one hundred years, records show.

England was stirred in 1407 when Master William Thorpe, priest, was "examined of heresy" before Thomas Arundel, Archbishop of Canterbury and Lord

Chancellor.

Simon Magus

The first heretic of Christian times was Simon Magus, the Magician, of Samaria, according to the writings of St. Alphonsus M. Liguori. Simon was cited in Acts of the Apostles as having attempted to buy the secret of laying on of hands from the Apostles Peter and Paul. The sale of holy things ever afterward became known as "simony."

The Man in the Moon SAYS—

THE department of agriculture is continually sending to the press of Prince Rupert material dealing with the feeding of hogs. I hope there is no imputation in this.

A RECKLESS man is the raw material for an accident.

Pepsin comes from a hog's stomach but there's little pep in a man that makes a hog of himself.

OH to be a hobo— That's the thing, To lounge about a place, Then take wing.

It's oh, to be a hobo I'd like to live just so, Bo, With no duties to chain Any my only work to ramble As I sing a refrain And with fate to daily gamble.

THE girls are jealous. They have been wearing as little clothes as possible and now they read about a man who was "clothed with brief authority."

CRAPS seem to be vying with poker as to which shall become the national game of Canada.

JAKE says he thinks there's enough of a gamble in going into business, in getting married or in crossing the street without shooting craps.

ADVERTISING is the life of business just as the spark is the life of a gas engine.

THIS is said to be the temperate zone but in the matter moisture it is a little intemperate.

THIS country is no great shakes compared with California.

I double you, double you, Said the gambler playing cards, But no matter how they bid, He never a chance discards.

THE lady explained that she was much taken with a gown she wore last season. She was married in it twice.

LIGHTER SIDE ROTARY LIFE

Speaker at Luncheon Emphasizes Value of Stunts and Community Singing

The lighter side of Rotary Club life was emphasized by Rev. E. W. Mackay in an address at the Rotary luncheon yesterday. Before coming to Prince Rupert Mr. Mackay was a member of the Cranbrook Club and was delegated last year to the big international convention at Toronto. He told of the value of some stunts that were put on by the club at that convention which succeeded in bringing the members together and breaking the ice. He urged strongly that when members went to a luncheon they should leave their businesses outside and forget it. He said he had found that in any club where the light side of Rotary was featured that club flourished. If they did not learn to be free and easy they would not accomplish their purpose.

Value of Singing Together

Mr. Mackay emphasized the value of learning to sing together as a first step toward co-operation in which all would work together. In dealing with individuals it had to be remembered that while there were certain things about a person, perhaps, that they did not like, that person had to live with himself all the time whereas they had to live with him but an hour a week. While his fellows knew one weakness doubtless the person himself was conscious of many.

Speaking of Prince Rupert, Mr. Mackay suggested that while they thought they had bad weather, he could take them to places much

The Mining Laws of this Province are more liberal and the fees lower than those of any other Province in the Dominion, or any colony in the British Empire. Mineral locations are granted to discoverers for nominal fees. Absolute Titles are obtained by developing such properties, the security of which is guaranteed by Crown Grants. Full information together with Mining Reports and Maps, may be obtained gratis by addressing—

THE HON. THE MINISTER OF MINES Victoria, British Columbia.

N.B. — Practically all British Columbia Mineral Properties upon which development work has been done are described in some one of the Annual Reports of the Minister of Mines. Those considering mining investments should refer to such reports. They are available without charge on application to the Department of Mines, Victoria, B.C. Reports of the Geological Survey of Canada, Pacific Building, Vancouver, are recommended as valuable sources of information.

worse where they would be all dried out and scorched up. It was easy to let weather conditions dampen the ardor and chill the enthusiasm. He told the club the story of the two frogs in the milk pail, one of which gave up and was drowned and the other by constant kicking made a pat of butter on which he was able to sit.

Secret of Success

The speaker also urged the development of the hinterland as far back as to and including Alberta and the Peace River country and that businessmen take an interest in and help to solve the problems of the farmers. There was everything here, mines, forests, ocean and river wealth, and agriculture and he knew of no place the future of which was as well assured as was Prince Rupert.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

The city is asking for applications for the position of Market Clerk.

The Anglican mission boat Northern Cross, carried a number of people from Prince Rupert yesterday at noon to attend the funeral of the late Miss Gurd whose body was conveyed to the Indian village for interment.

There reached the city last evening F. W. Wallace, of Montreal, editor of the Canadian Fisherman, a monthly publication representing the interests of that industry in all its aspects. He has come to the Pacific to study the industry as it is on this coast. He will visit the fishing banks before returning.

There is a rapidly increasing amount of travel over the G.T.P. line. The train from the east last evening came in with three standard sleepers made necessary by the amount of travel.

Morley Donaldson, vice-president and general manager of the G.T.P., arrived in the city last evening, his private car "Transcontinental" being attached to the regular train from the east. He left again a few hours later, having his car attached to the special fish train of express cars which left at 9.20.
