VARIOUS MATTERS PERTAINING TO FUR AND GAME TAKEN UP AT CONSERVATION MEETING.

on the Indians of the Ulcatcho tribe, some 130 in number, who lived in the interior about 40 miles from Bella Coola. He thought that something might be done to relieve them by permitting them still to trap.

Mr. Jackson asked for further information regarding the district in question and was told by William Goldbloom that whites there produced perhaps not more than $2,000 worth of furs while Indians brought out perhaps $7,000 or $8,000 worth. The most of these furs were brought out to Burns Lake. They consisted of beaver, mink, marten, fisher, rats and muskrats.

Mr. Collison also supported the policy of trap line registration. It would be an improvement in a system which at present was not altogether satisfactory to the Indians.

Pat Phillipson

A. J. Phillipson had some criticisms to make of the policy of closing practically the entire province. The government could not possibly afford to effectively police the areas that had been closed. He was of the opinion that a more effective plan would be to make preserves on such Islands as Kaien and Dundas Islands and place good men on them to see that they were actually maintained as game sanctuaries. The rest of the district might then be opened and there would be effective distribution of game from the properly maintained close areas. The way things were now, there was really no protection. It was like telling people they could not do a thing and then turning one's back on them. Kaien Island was supposed to be a game sanctuary but there were few deer to be seen on the Island. If it was properly policed there would be plenty of deer, Mr. Phillipson said. He suggested that Dundas Island be made a preserve and that two wardens be placed on it. One warden could handle Kaien Island. Further expanding on his theory, Mr. Phillipson said it was the successful practice in Alberta and England to preserve the game in certain areas and allow it to spread to other parts of the country. It had been found impossible to protect the whole country. The policy suggested, he felt sure, would increase the game. The government derived a great deal of revenue from this district and he felt that it could well afford to have two or three full time game wardens here. Kaien Island as a game reserve was at present a joke.

Mr. Jackson said that it was already the broad policy of the board to select game sanctuaries from which to have a continual distribution of game.

Mr. Phillipson was asked by members of the board as to the fur trade in this district. The quality and quantity of fur was about the same as it was ten years ago, Mr. Phillipson declared. He told of the various districts he visited in buying game. William Goldbloom concurred with his remarks.

Regarding game sanctuaries, Indian Agent Collison informed the board that the Kitkatla Indians were desirous of having Bonilla Island declared a reserve. These Indians had placed several deer on this island and would like to see them protected.

Telegraph Creek

Stating that he had been asked to appear before the board on behalf of Telegraph Creek people, H. F. Glessey said that the people there desired the close season in that district kept on. Alaskan trappers should also be prevented from taking fur there as they had been doing. Mr. Jackson said that the board had already received requests directly at variance with Mr. Glassey's regarding the Telegraph Creek reserve.

Later in the meeting Jarvis McLeod said that the people of the Cassiar district did not want the Stikine and Taku River reserves continued. This was what he had gathered from conversation with northern trappers. It was not right that there should be reserve on the Canadian side and none on the American.

Local Resolutions

J. W. Scott wanted to know what had happened to resolutions from this district that had been forwarded some months ago to the Game Board. One of these resolutions had requested that the migratory bird season be advanced one month as there were practically no birds in the first month of the present season. The same season as that in the south would be satisfactory here.

T. B. Booth of Nanaimo said he was in accord with this idea. He was in favor of a universal game season throughout the province. Then there would be no misunderstandings.

John Buckham pointed out that the interior districts must be taken into consideration. The freeze-up there was earlier than on the coast. Of course Prince Rupert could be given the same season as the south coast and a new division be made for the interior.

No Change this Year

Mr. Jackson stated that it would hardly be possible to make any changes in the migratory bird season this year. It had already been set by the federal authorities and was governed by international agreement. Mr. Scott felt that the local resolution had been submitted in plenty of time to have been dealt with. Mr. Butler, secretary of the board, said that the local resolutions had been received but no reasons had been given for them and, therefore, they had not been acted upon.

Mr. Scott also expressed the opinion that the use of pump guns should be allowed in British Columbia until Washington and other states banned them. In reply to this, Mr. Jackson said there was no chance of the pump gun being restored. The board was using its influence to having pump guns banned in the States and he felt that success would be achieved along this line.

Sporting Fish

J. F. Ritchie, Jr. brought up the matter of trout fishing and suggested that something be done to have the open season changed so that it would not interfere with spawning fish. The season now opened in March whereas the streams were black with spawn fish up to June 15. If something were not done, there would be a scarcity of trout near Prince Rupert before long. The discussion resulted in the putting of a resolution asking that the control of sporting fish be transferred from the Dominion to the provincial game board.

Mr. Jackson said that steps were already being taken with this change of administration in view. He did not think that it was ever intended that sporting and commercial fish should come under the same control as was now the case.

Dr. MacSween of New Westminster, while not in opposition to a change of administration of sporting fish, pointed out that the federal government was already spending money on sporting fish such as conducting a hatchery. The provincial government was not contributing a cent. He suggested that the local request, in the meantime, be placed before Major Motherwell for consideration. He could give assurance that it would be acted upon.

Male Preponderance

Robert Blance spoke in favor of a change of open season for migratory birds. He referred to preponderance of drakes and bucks in recent years and scarcity of ducks and does. This did not point to a future abundance of game.

Dr. MacSween said that it was hoped, before long, to have the administration of game divorced from the police department. There was some discussion as to the advisability of this between Pat Phillipson, who did not favor the change, and J. F. Ritchie, Jr., who did.

Mr. Phillipson also asked that the system of stamping B.C. fur be discontinued as it greatly reduced the value of skins. He suggested that, instead, police officers could check the skins when they were being shipped.

About 10 o'clock the meeting adjourned, Mr. Jackson stating that the local recommendations and suggestions would have the consideration of the board and, where deemed advisable, changes would be made. He urged that local organizations keep in touch with the board in a spirit of co-operation.

WESTHOLME THEATRE

TONIGHT ONLY at 7 and 9

"HER HUSBAND'S SECRET"

Adapted from May Edginton's "Saturday Evening Post" story. A picture that mirrors marriage boldly, courageously, unforgettably, and was made especially for husbands and wives and folk who hope to be married some day. A tale of youth and romance and of a man's past that marred a happy future. Should husbands tell? Maybe she wouldn't care if he did tell her, but then there's a chance that she might—and conscience strikes when love is the strongest and the past threatens the future. Sweethearts! There are many marriage mysteries this film explains—many things you must know! Four big stars and prominent supporting cast.
