Elections Over So What Is Next?

The elections are practically over and there is nothing left to do but cheer the victor. Who the victor will be, no one can tell, although we all have our guesses to make. Before midnight tonight we should be pretty well able to gauge the outlook.

The general conduct of the election has been most satisfactory and the result will be that everyone will be in a position to carry on in a neighborly and friendly manner. There should be no hard feelings over the result, no matter who wins.

What we now have to consider is the future. What is there of interest ahead of us? Some will say let us get back to business. Others prefer to think of Christmas preparations. It seems necessary these days that we should have some interest outside our regular work. Possibly a rest and a devotion of our time and attention to work for a short season may be beneficial.

Dividing Interests Then Re-uniting.

During an election the community becomes divided. Those on the same side of the political fence tend to draw together and others to draw away. When an election is bitter it is difficult to return to normal but when the election is looked upon somewhat in the light of a sport event and everybody keeps his temper and behaves like a gentleman, the election leaves no scars. We are able to go on as before.

That is the case here today. We have all enjoyed the fight. We have given and taken and the losers will lose like men.

Don't Be Licked Before You Start.

Without any reference to the parliamentary contest now going on, it is interesting to note the views of Sir Henry Thornton on success. He says that many people are licked before they go into the fight. They think defeat instead of thinking victory.

Whatever we may think of Sir Henry's treatment of Prince Rupert, we must all acknowledge that he is a big man and has held many big jobs. The very fact that he was centre forward on his college football team stamps him as a man of somewhat outstanding ability. He has had much experience, having fought his way up from the bottom and his suggestion is that defeat is largely mental.

We all know something of the influence of mind over matter. We are aware that as a man thinks, so he is. Courage is a great factor in life and the mental attitude affects everything we do. If we cultivate a spirit of optimism, adopt the courageous attitude, cultivate cordiality, geniality and success, we shall get much more out of life.

LIBERALS HELD BIG MEETING

Hon. T. D. Pattullo and Fred Stork Give Addresses and Nickerson also Speaks

ELEVATOR IS MENTIONED

"Many of the people of Prince Rupert do not yet believe that the elevator is there," declared Hon. T. D. Pattullo amid much merriment at the big meeting in the Westholme Theatre last night. "Others do not believe grain will go through it. The erection of the elevator has made this a world port rather than a coast port. The development is the most important thing that could have happened to Prince Rupert and with it is bound up the freight rates question, for without equal freight rates the elevator will be of no value. Equality of the west with the East is what we want, nothing more."

Mr. Pattullo and Fred Stork were the chief speakers at the meeting but twenty minutes was also allowed to G. W. Nickerson and was taken full advantage of by him.

Alderman Casey presided and introduced the speakers. Mr. Nickerson did not make any new points but reiterated and emphasized some of the things said before.

Fred Stork

Fred Stork spoke of the policy of misrepresentation which had been carried on. He told of what had happened to the railway during the ten years from the time the Liberals relinquished control until they again took charge and prophesied that if the Conservatives were again returned there would be a reversion to the old policy. He spoke at some length on trade matters and took pride in the recovery of the value of the Canadian dollar until it was now above par. This had been made possible through increase in Canadian exports.

Mr. Stork said he still believed in the Laurier policy and the elevator was the first fruits of this. Prince Rupert today had the elevator and the same terminal rates as Vancouver, and he prophesied that great results would follow. While at Ottawa he had given the best that was in him.

Here Since Early Days

Mr. Pattullo took exception to being spoken of as a stranger. He and Alex Manson had been here before the city was started and had worked ever since in the interests of the place. He spoke of the need of unity in Canada and a spirit of toleration among all the people in a country with such diversified interests.

Hon. Arthur Meighen was opposed to the British preference which had been granted by the Liberals. Had the Liberals opposed such a measure they would have been hounded as rebels.

The speaker went on to discuss the trade treaties which he claimed were a great benefit to Canada. He claimed that the United States was great in spite of the tariff and not because of it. Allowing for the number of articles on the free list the U.S. tariff was only fifteen and a half per cent on an average whereas the Canadian tariff was sixteen and a half per cent. The United States was not in any better position today than Canada.

The meeting was responsive to the speakers and everyone was given a good hearing.

TERACE NOTES

E. J. Conway of the Granby Co., Anyox, returned home on Monday after a short business trip to Terrace.

A. Y. Wilson, Remo, who accompanied a number of timber cruisers to Kalam Lake on Sunday, returned home on Tuesday.

Dr. H. R. Grant, Prince Rupert, spent a short holiday in Terrace this week, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Gilbert. He returned to Prince Rupert on Wednesday.

Jas. Turnbull, Hazelton, arrived in town on Tuesday.

Chris Haugland who has spent two months at his farm at Yorkton, Sask., returned home on Sunday. He reports crops in that district as very good but bad weather conditions were seriously holding up threshing operations. En route home he stopped off at Hazelton to visit his brother Emil who has been in the hospital there for several months and who is very slowly recovering from his serious accident in the woods here.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

says:

SHE was a flapper gay
And dresses short she wore
And if you crossed her wishes she Just up and at you swore.

TODAY people are voting and I should like to know just how many know what they are voting about.

SHE lightly asked a ballot blank
And made her cross so neat,
She voted for the man who combed.

His hair so sleek and neat.

A LOT of people who vote today will lose their votes and a lot of those who think they have won may find they have really lost.

AMONG the things that are fleeting are the permanent wave, the honeymoon and popularity.

JAKE says that's all rot. The only thing that's really fleeting is the pay check.

THESE are the days when a son on each foot is worth any number on the jaw.

DOWN in Nova Scotia they are having a real election celebration. Fifty barrels of rum was washed ashore there the other day.

AFTER ELECTION SALLY IS COMING

Musical Comedy Play Shown In Picture Friday and Saturday This Week

Directly following the election "Sally" the musical comedy success is to be reproduced in picture at the Westholme Friday and Saturday of this week.

Sally is a colorful and delightful story, beautifully photographed and "staged," and the direction of Alfred E. Green is worthy of the highest praise.

Colleen Moore established herself beyond question with such successes as "Flaming Youth" and "So Big," but in "Sally" she rises to even greater heights.

Her role of the forlorn little drudge in the orphanage, who through sheer force of her own character rises to the fame of a great dancer, affords the star wide opportunities for the exercise of her talents.

Miss Moore has long shown a decided penchant for hoydenish comedy, and this she indulges in to the fullest.

She also takes advantage of those moments of poignant pathos which are provided her and likewise reveals an ability to "get her teeth into" a bit of real drama when the plot tosses her way.

First National has not stinted in the least on either cast or production. The sets are truly lavish, notably those showing the Elm Tree Inn and the lawn fete of a multi-millionaire. The photography also stirs one to high praise.

In the cast Miss Moore has Lloyd Hughes as her leading man while the chief comedy role is in the hands of Leon Errol, who created the same part in Ziegfeld's stage version. Errol is at his funniest on the screen.
