MANY ATTEND BUSHBY RALLY

Three Speakers Addressed Meeting in Empress Theatre Last Night

George G. Bushby, Conservative candidate, George W. Nickerson, Progressive, and R. L. Maitland of Vancouver were the speakers at the final Conservative meeting of the federal election campaign which was held last evening in the Empress Theatre. An attentive hearing was given by an audience which, before the meeting ended, had taken up pretty well all the seating accommodation in the hall. The only disturbance was the ill-timed howling of a large wolfhound dog which visibly annoyed Mr. Bushby in the course of his address and which he had to ask his ushers to remove from the hall.

C. H. Orme presided and, in his opening remarks, expressed gratitude for the fact that a fair and above board campaign had been carried on by all parties concerned. It had been a pleasure for him to participate in it. Mr. Bushby was the first speaker. After declaring that, if elected, he would not go to Ottawa with a flourish of trumpets and with his list of demands in his hand but would sit and listen and talk where necessary in the interests of his district, he dealt at some length with the government railways and ships.

Mr. Nickerson opened by thanking the Conservatives for giving him another opportunity to speak on their platform. They were not afraid of his criticisms like the Liberals were. He said he had just come from the Liberal meeting where he had only been allowed to speak five minutes although he had been promised twenty. Mr. Nickerson then proceeded to deal with local matters such as the fishermen's wharf which the board of trade had been urging, the elevator which he said Mr. Stork had had to point a gun at the head of Premier King to obtain, and the contracts which he charged were given to favorites of the government. He spoke in favor of Old Age Pensions and, referring to the tariff, said that it was necessary for Canada to sell her raw resources to the world until such time as population came when industries could be embarked upon. A tariff on lumber entering the United States, for instance, would be fatal to the business in British Columbia.

R. L. Maitland spoke in a humorous and entertaining vein. Referring to Mr. Nickerson, Mr. Maitland wondered if he would have been running as a Progressive candidate if he had been offered the Liberal nomination. Mr. Maitland devoted considerable time contradicting statements made in the riding by Mr. Manson and again urged the advisability of a high tariff. He

He charged mismanagement in connection with both and, in speaking of coast service, pointed to the efficiency and reliability of the Union Steamship Co. which the government lines might well emulate. He urged the development of the Alaska business through Prince Rupert and greater use of the Canadian National line from Jasper to Prince Rupert. Coasting freight rates came in for criticism and Mr. Bushby said it was high time they were looked into. Referring to the remark that had been made that he was too old for the job, Mr. Bushby remarked: "I may not be as young as I used to be but I think I am still a pretty lively corpse."

Mr. Bushby admitted that the elevator would be a great benefit to Prince Rupert and district and credit was due those who had caused it to be built here. In connection with the shipping of grain through Prince Rupert, Mr. Bushby stated that it was necessary that other miscellaneous freight business should be developed such as the carrying of silk. The entrance to the harbor required further improvements.

Dealing with the tariff, Mr. Bushby ridiculed the idea of United States retaliation. He referred to reduction of train service, the fishermen's wharf, Digby Island picnic grounds, dredging of Meliakalla bar for the benefit of small boats and concluded by dealing with mining and suggesting that the building of a smelter at tide-water and a customs mill in the interior should be encouraged.

Mr. Nickerson opened by thanking the Conservatives for giving him another opportunity to speak on their platform. They were not afraid of his criticisms like the Liberals were. He said he had just come from the Liberal meeting where he had only been allowed to speak five minutes although he had been promised twenty. Mr. Nickerson then proceeded to deal with local matters such as the fishermen's wharf which the board of trade had been urging, the elevator which he said Mr. Stork had had to point a gun at the head of Premier King to obtain, and the contracts which he charged were given to favorites of the government. Referring to Mr. Nickerson, Mr. Maitland wondered if he would have been running as a Progressive candidate if he had been offered the Liberal nomination. Mr. Maitland devoted considerable time contradicting statements made in the riding by Mr. Manson and again urged the advisability of a high tariff. He questioned the sincerity of the Liberal party and suggested that Vancouver Liberals were pulling against Prince Rupert. It would have been better to spend two million dollars building a tourist hotel at Prince Rupert than buying the Scribe Hotel in Paris. He concluded by stating that Mr. Bushby, if elected, would carry dignity, foresight, determination and reasoned and seasoned judgment to Ottawa on behalf of this district.

The meeting closed with three cheers for Mr. Bushby, the audience, regardless of political color, joining in the tribute.

ADDRESS BY REV. BAISLER

Pastor of Lutheran Church Spoke to Gyro Club Yesterday on Subject of Service

A thoughtful address on the subject of service was delivered before the Gyro Club yesterday afternoon by Rev. P. E. Baisler, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Mr. Baisler stressed the importance of measuring success in life from the standpoint of service given to one's fellowmen rather than the viewpoint of accumulation of material wealth. Many lives eminently successful from one viewpoint were utterly devoid in the other respect.

Two important duties of service clubs, Mr. Baisler opined, were the making of communities better places to live and the favorable advertising of those communities to the world at large. While endeavoring to place in the city facilities for physical, moral development of the young people, moral development should not be forgotten Mr. Baisler urged. He deplored the vices of intoxication and gambling and suggested that much effective work might be done if the service clubs offered their co-operation to the churches in their work.

The speaker dealt with the importance in every day business life of putting value and industry into one's work rather than seeking to get "something for nothing." Gambling through raffles he thought should be discouraged. Good associates and congeniality with the work in hand were necessary factors, he said, to the success in life.

The club also heard violin solos by Gyro Billie Balagno, Howard White, recently elected to membership in the club, was initiated by President Roy McNaughton. Guests were Robert Wilson of Vancouver, J. W. Scott of Prince Rupert; Norman McLean, purser of the steamer Prince Rupert, and Jack Crawford, purser of the steamer Prince George.

Railway Company Agrees to Lease Line for Thirty Years from Company

MONTREAL, October 29.—The following statement was issued by Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the C.N.R. from the headquarters of the system here.

"There has been more or less discussion in the press with respect to the construction of a railway from O'Brien on the National Transcontinental to Rouyn, Quebec, for the purpose of serving a large mining development which important interests propose to make. An investigation made some time ago by the experts of the C.N.R. disclosed the importance of the district and the necessity for the provision of transportation facilities for new enterprises and the development of the traffic interests of the Canadian National Railway system.

Keep Out of the Puddles

COURTLY Sir Walter Raleigh—cynic savant and first-class fighting man—desired a favor from good Queen Bess. A puddle in the queen's path made his opportunity. Across it he flung his costly cloak. Her majesty, smiling at his devotion, trod on, dry shod, and Sir Walter's unique self-advertising produced results.

Though most advertising is less spectacular to-day, it is far more serviceable. It smooths out the every-day pathways of each one of us.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once would have been worth a king's ransom are yours at little cost. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, manufacturer against manufacturer. This competition brings out the best there is in everything for your personal benefit.

You wouldn't know about many boons of modern life were it not for advertising. That is why you are not taking full advantage of the better things in life to-day if you overlook ADVERTISEMENTS.

Read advertising and keep abreast of the times
