CO-OPERATION OF PARENTS IN SCHOOL STUDY

Dr. Grant Speaks of Disadvantages of a Rigid Curriculum at Parent-Teacher Meeting

The need of co-operation between parent and teacher in the education of the children and the disadvantages of a rigid curriculum were emphasized at the meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association last night in The Booth School auditorium. Mrs. Arnott presided in the absence of the president. In addition to giving an address, Dr. Grant presented the medals and prizes won by various students for woodwork, domestic science and drawing at the recent exhibition.

Dr. Grant pointed out that parents and teachers had a common object in the development of boys and girls. It was a great responsibility to be in charge of the education and mental development of children and the home, and the school should be complimentary to each other. The parent should supplement the work of the teacher by helping to inculcate a love of good reading and a desire for study. The parent should always back up the teacher as being the friend of the child.

Rigid Curriculum

The teacher has a great part in the mental development of children, but it is well to remember that education is not a pouring-in of knowledge but rather a leading-out of the latent faculties of the child. Often when a child is backward in certain subjects it is not so much the fault of the teacher as of the curriculum. A course of study is laid down by the department of education and a teacher must follow it. Sometimes this following of a rigid curriculum meant that children are forced along lines for which they have no aptitude. Many boys and girls finding certain subjects beyond their comprehension drift away from school after passing the entrance grade or first year high school and maybe in consequence feel themselves inferior to students who successfully complete their course. On the other hand these seemingly unsuccessful students may be far superior in manual occupations as shown by their work in the domestic science or manual training classes, and if their education along these lines could be continued they would become skilled technical workers instead of drifting into "blind alley" occupations. Thus the need for a technical school course, for while the ranks of students for the professions were filled to overflowing there was a dearth of apprentices in many skilled trades.

A vote of thanks was extended to Dr. Grant at the close and refreshments were served by a committee of ladies.

Ten Years Ago
in Prince Rupert

October 22, 1915.

A. J. Prudhomme has purchased a 300 acre farm near Telkwa from Bourgan and Hoops. He announced that it is his intention to devote a good deal of his personal attention to the ranch.

Efforts are still being made with a view to having the Prince Rupert dry dock used for the purpose of manufacturing shells and other wartime requirements. William Grant, local plumber, has been advised by an eastern concern that it cannot fill an order for stove parts as its factory is working 22½ hours per day producing shells.

A concert was held in the Westholme Theatre last night by the Daughters of the Empire in aid of the Red Cross fund. Among those contributing to the program were Miss Barnsley, Mrs. Jarvis McLeod, Mrs. Norman Mackintosh and C. A. G. Armstrong.

GOES TO HOSPITAL FOR EYE TREATMENT FOLLOWING ACCIDENT

Mrs. Myhill-Jones Hurt While Visiting at Lewis Island Ranch

A simple accident, which may cause the loss of sight in the left eye, befell Mrs. Myhill-Jones yesterday morning at the Lambly ranch, Lewis Island, and necessitated her rapid removal by launch to the city for immediate medical attention.

While opening a tin of molasses at the breakfast table the lid flew off and striking Mrs. Myhill-Jones in the left eye, broke her eye glasses, a piece of the glass entering the eye and puncturing the pupil.

Mrs. Myhill-Jones was admitted to the General Hospital upon arrival yesterday afternoon.

UNCLE FROM AMERICA GAVE HIM THE MONEY

Strage Story of Youth was not Believed but Proved to be True

ROME, Oct. 22.—A youth of 16 was arrested in a train at Turin on a charge of intended burglary. A timid lady seated in his compartment suspected designs upon her purse and proceeded to scream. The police arrived, and, finding the boy's pockets stuffed with banknotes and a valuable piece of jewellery lying among them, marched him off to the police station.

Asked where this wealth came from, the boy answered that his uncle, just home from America, had given it him. (Loud laughter). Where was the uncle? At Potenza. (Louder laughter: Potenza is to Turin as the Isle of Skye to London.)

However, the police dutifully telegraphed to their colleagues at Potenza to make inquiries, in response to which, to their amazement, there appeared shortly in Turin a prosperous gentleman who was the boy's uncle, had come back from America, and had given him, besides a large sum of money, a tiepin worth about £250, which he kept loose in his not very elegant coat pocket! The boy was released with almost abject apologizes.

A LOT of people will lose their votes next week. Others will lose some cash. I'd hate to tell them which to vote for and bet on in order to win. Ten to one they know already.

IN a political argument, the truth often loses.

SPOUTING is all right for a few days but what we want to see is the elevator spouts working overtime.

A POLITICAL opponent paints a picture of Fred Stork sitting astride the top of the elevator, dangling his legs and looking down as he remarks: "My work, all my work." And he is not far wrong at that.

SCOTCHMEN do not often lose anything but the other day I saw one who had been having a few too many lose his balance.

A SCOTCHMAN may lose his balance occasionally, Jake says, but he does not lose his bank balance or letters of the alphabet, like an Englishman.

IT was at a recent meeting a jovial personage in the rear who was evidently a Stork supporter heard them sing "God Save our gracious King" and remarked: "I knew they's soon see it my way."

IT was reported around the Bushby rooms last night that a man went out looking for Progressives with the idea of converting any he might find. He found himself out of a job and went home to bed.

I MET a Tory on the street
And passed him with a smile.
Alas, Alack, he wore a grouch
You'd see for half a mile.

SPORT CHAT

The Great War Veterans and the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. will meet tonight in the second tournament of the second division billiard league. The Prince Rupert Billiard Parlor got away to a good start in the first tournament of the season with the Grotto on Tuesday night and it will be the objective of both teams tonight to make a good showing. Indications are that as keen an interest is to be taken this year in the billiard game as there has been in past seasons.

The second group of games of the men's section of the Fraternal Whist League will take place this evening, teams being scheduled to meet as follows: Moose vs. Great War Veterans; Elks vs. Knights of Pythias; Knights of Columbus vs. St. Andrews; Oddfellows vs. Loyal Orange Lodge; Sons of Canada vs. Sons of England. The Oddfellows, Knights of Columbus Knights of Pythias and Sons of Canada will be out to retain league leadership which they gained by winning in the first games last week.

One of the outstanding events in the social life of Anyox was the annual sports banquet which was held last week in the smelter town. There was an elaborate and complete musical program and a fine bill-of-fare. F. M. Buck was chairman. In the course of the evening the silver cup emblematic of soccer championship of the town was presented to the Beach Club, the trophy being received by Eddie Craggs. The baseball cup was presented to the Elks team and received by H. Kirk, manager. The Elks baseball team and the Mine football team were also presented with sweaters they won during the season.

Teams in the second division billiard league tournament between the Great War Veterans and Cold Storage tonight will meet as follows:

Jack Judge vs. John May 6.30 p.m.
W. J. Nelson vs. W. Long, 8 p.m.
E. R. Pierce vs. A. Harvey 8 pm.
Dr. J. A. West vs. A. McDonald 9 p.m.
Joe Howe vs. H. Parr 8 p.m.
