Invention And Future Wars.

While descriptions of terrible inventions designed to revolutionize warfare may strike the average person with uncanny feelings of dread, there is nothing more certain than that such inventions, if they can be put to practical use, will tend to shorten future wars even though the first blows may result in terrible mortality. With recent developments in the way of offensive and defensive armaments and also in the air, the old method of long fighting in ditches under cover of guns will disappear just as bows and arrows gave place to guns and group fighting displaced smaller individual engagements.

The progress of human invention along these lines may mean that future fighting will be prevented. The highly scientific nation may be in a position to dictate to one less developed along these lines. It may constitute might as right but it will at least be less brutal.

Local Business Political Campaign.

"It would be good newspaper business as well as good service to Canada for all of the newspapers to stress election news and try and work up such a local interest in the matter as would get every voter to go to the polls, says the Sault Ste Marie Star. Publishers would be doing something for themselves and their towns as well as discharging a patriotic responsibility.

The next general election should be made a local matter, each paper endeavoring to get its readers interested and thoroughly informed as to local business conditions, and what might be done to improve them, insofar as political action can.

Many excellent editors believe in the time honored method of discussing only "national" questions in a campaign. The Star has been found fault with for frankly taking the ground that the welfare and development of Algoma is its first consideration as well as its last. This attitude has been adopted because this paper has come to believe that if a local newspaper has a duty at all to discharge, it is to see that its own district's case is properly presented. Until Algoma's needs and problems are understood by its own people as well as by outsiders, the Star thinks it shouldn't put in much time on the League of Nations or the problem of evolution. Local matters that press for attention are thought by the Star to need its earnest attention before the general problems of the world which have so many able men to decide them.

The Star believes that not alone should it specialize on Algoma's local problems as touched by a federal election, but that it would not be doing its duty to its readers if it did not do so. It believes that members of parliament's first care should be to exhaust local topics before going on to show how Canada can be saved by a particular party. It believes that if each community will decide what is best for itself, the result will be a prosperous Canada.

GRANBY BIGGEST COPPER CONCERN

Most Important Enterprise of Its Kind in Canada Says Mining Review

Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Company, Ltd., has been, and still is, the largest and most important copper mining enterprise in Canada, says an analysis of the copper situation by the Copper Exploration Co. of New York. The company is about 24 years old, but most of the property and equipment, etc., is of comparatively recent acquisition and installation. The principal properties today consist of the Hidden Creek mine at Anyox, and the Allenby properties which are situated near Princeton. Granby, in addition, owns coal lands, and an interest in the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company Ltd. Present day production and earning prospects for Granby Consolidated are predicted on an entirely different set of conditions than those obtaining prior to 1920, and which gave the company its past dividend record.

At the end of 1924, the Hidden Creek property had developed ore reserves amounting to 8,469,870 tons 2 per cent copper, in addition to which there was developed 1,587,070 tons of 1 per cent copper and 500,000 tons of probable ore carrying 2½ per cent copper. The Allenby properties have developed about 5,640,000 tons of ore averaging 1.84 per cent copper, and it is estimated that the property will be found to contain upwards of four times this amount.

In 1924, Granby Consolidated made the best showing of any year since the close of the world war, despite the fact that the average price realized for copper was 1.8c a pound less than the average for 1923. The company earned, in 1924, $2.41 a share before depreciation and depletion. After charging off $1,604,765 in 1924 for depreciation and depletion there was a deficit of $772,373. The company closed the year with a net surplus of cash and quick assets amounting to $1,636,440, equal to $4.74 a share. Since the end of 1924 Granby has reduced its bank loans, and, taking account of current earnings, a much stronger treasury position is now in evidence.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ARE COMING HERE

Princess Charlotte, Due on Monday, Will Have 160 Aboard Enroute to Alaska

Almost the entire accommodation of the C.P.R. steamer Princess Charlotte, when she calls here next Monday on her way to Skagway, will be taken up with a party of 160 members of the Pittsburg Commandery Knights Templar and a smaller group of New Jersey Templars from Frankford who are to make the trip down the Yukon River to Dawson.

The Pittsburg party, which represents the premier commandery of Knights Templar in the United States, and includes a great many millionaire templars, will leave the Charlotte at Skagway for the ten day trip through the interior of Alaska.

A special White Pass and Yukon train will carry them 110 miles inland to White Horse, and two boats will be requisitioned for the seven day trip down the river to Dawson and back to White Horse. On the return to White Horse, the party will go by special train to Carcross and then across Tagish Lake on the ss. Tutshi to West Taku. They will return south on the Princess Louise.

TONIGHT'S PICTURE IS MASTERPIECE OF MIRTH

"Introduce Me" is Said to Show Douglas McLean at his Best Yet

"Introduce Me," Douglas MacLean's new screen comedy which comes to the Westholme theatre tonight and Saturday, cannot be compared with any other MacLean picture. The story has a delicious vein of humor, laughs which come with gasping suddenness, a beauty of background and a finish in its technique. It is tensely and comicly dramatic and it has a lilt of clean romance as fresh as a sea breeze.

The story opens with scenes along the fashionable boulevards of Paris and drifts with startling suddenness to a little chalet high in the Swiss Alps where an international mountain climbing contest is being held.

Douglas plays the role of a young American tourist who falls in love with a beautiful American girl he chances to see in a Paris railway station. His friend manages to meet the girl but refuses to introduce the youthful hero, who is therefore forced to pose as a great American Alpinist that he may follow his sweetheart to the Alps.

The picture breezes merrily along through romance, fun and thrills to the climax, when Doug is compelled to climb the mountain, or lose the girl. He scales sheer precipices, braves an avalanche, is chased across bottomless chasms by a bear and finally arrives at the summit far ahead of his competitors. But the descent of the peak tops all. Accidently rolling himself into a tremendous snowball, Douglas crashes downwards — splintering trees, tumbling over cliffs and—but to tell the rest would spoil the picture.

Anne Cornwall plays opposite the star and is a very attractive leading lady.

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

July 31, 1915.

F. Wallace, the editor of the Canadian Fisherman, published in Montreal, has returned to the city after a trip to the fishing banks made in one of the trawlers of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company. Mr. Wallace said that, in his mind, there was no doubt that this port would become the Grimsby of the Pacific.

Hon. C. W. Cross, attorney general of Alberta, was an arrival in the city last evening on the train. He reports that the crop prospects on the prairies are very good. He is on his way to Victoria where his family is at present and will return this way with them in the course of a couple of weeks time.

Hugh Munro, who represents the County of Glengarry in the Provincial House of Ontario, was an arrival in the city by last evening's train. He has been making a business trip to the prairies and came on to the coast for a holiday. He will return east from here over the G.T.P.

Both Bylaws submitted to the electors yesterday carried. One bylaw was for an extension of the road to the Cold Storage and the other one provided for the re-planking of certain streets.
