BRITISH LABOR MEMBERS LEFT HOUSE AS PROTEST RUSH MOSUL APPROVAL

Laborites Left House of Commons as Protest to Rushing Mosul Approval

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The House of Commons approved the Government's Mosul policy "in principle" last night with only four adverse votes.

The debate was acrimonious early in the evening when the Laborites left the House in a body, abstaining from voting when Premier Baldwin asked the House to approve the British delegates action in accepting the League of Nations settlement of the Mosul dispute before adjournment for the Christmas holidays.

The Laborites claimed that this gave them no opportunity to consider whether they should frame amendments.

CONFERRING ON OPENING PEACE RIVER

Premiers Oliver and Brownlee Meeting in Victoria Today re Railway

VICTORIA, Dec. 22.—Premier Oliver confers with Premier Brownlee of Alberta here today on the general railway situation in the northern part of each province, especially with a view to giving the Peace River country a railway that will open up the country and provide a western outlet.

Dual co-operation in handling the problems is sought with a view to having the federal government take such action as may be beneficial to both provinces.

Mr. Brownlee is known to be keen on railway development for the Peace River country and it has been suggested that he would probably take over the E.D. & B.C. Railway from the C.P.R. and operate it on behalf of the province of Alberta which owns it.

Men Tried to Face Northern Wilds but Failed and Bodies Found Tell Story of Hardship

VICTORIA, Dec. 22.—How Samuel Timmons and Leonard Stevens perished early this year while attempting for some unknown reason to penetrate the wilds north of Fort St. John, was learned today. According to the reports received by the provincial police who, working in co-operation with the Alberta authorities, investigated the case.

The men came from Alberta nearly a year ago and then proceeded north with insufficient supplies. They were seen by Indians who tried to persuade them from proceeding under the conditions. A second band of Indians who met the couple later and also attempted to discourage them believe that the men were demented as they shot the remaining two of eight horses they started out with and proceeded north on foot.

Recently the body of one man was found in what evidently was their last attempt, while the remains of the other was discovered on the return trail.

James N. Kelly will sail this afternoon on the Cardena for Vancouver.

Over Six Thousand Autos in Street Accidents Reported at Vancouver During Year 1925

VANCOUVER, Dec. 22.—Six thousand traffic crashes were reported to the police in this city during the year just about closing and as a result over seven hundred persons were injured while 19 lives were crushed out. Many of those injured were little children.

It is intimated by the authorities here that much of the trouble is due to inexperience and carelessness, while undoubtedly the use of alcoholic drinks had its effect. Often pedestrians caused the trouble by not remembering the rules of the road.

During the coming year there is to be a tightening up of the regulations, much stricter enforcement and a campaign of education. The following are said to be the chief dangers on the streets:

The intoxicated driver.
The man who flies past standing street cars.
The speeder.
The one headlight expert.
The man who takes a chance when children are in the road.
The advocate of traffic by-laws—for the other fellow.
The man who speeds around street corners.
The glare headlight owner.
The man who allows his passengers to distract his attention.
The man who thinks it smart to butt in ahead of another car.
Brakeless Bill. He believes in four wheels—no brakes.
The man who hits and runs.
