Value Of Dollar Under King Government.

When the Mackenzie King government came into power the Canadian dollar was worth eighty cents in New York. Today it is worth just a little more than an American dollar. That is worth a lot to the country.

Today a Canadian is not ashamed to travel and to offer his money for he knows it is good. He has a prosperous country back of him.

When Mackenzie King came into power there were bread lines in Vancouver and doles in Prince Rupert. Today there is nothing of the sort. Yet the Conservatives will tell you the country is going to the dogs and they wail and moan and howl and demand that the tariff will be built higher so that a few may become rich.

Interesting To See Confidence Of Speakers.

The speakers at the Conservative meeting the other night expressed the opinion that Arthur Meighen would be the next premier of Canada and that George Bushby would be elected. Either they were professional optimists or they were deluding themselves and the people. If they have sized up the whole situation fairly and well they must know that the Conservatives have no chance of being returned to power at this election and that George Bushby, good man as he is, will have to take second place when the votes are counted.

Possibly when reference is made by Meighenites to Arthur Meighen being the next premier they are meaning after some future election. Today people are not prepared to risk a change of government with a dangerous policy.

Possible Trouble In Balkan States.

Perhaps by the time this is in print news will come that there is war in Bulgaria or it may be that the smaller state will step down. In any case the fact that there is serious friction in the Balkans is a danger to the world.

Narrow Outlook Of Balkan People.

The Balkan states have been a source of worry to Europe for many a year. It was there that the Great War started and as long as the present wrangling goes on there is always danger of other countries being embroiled.

The people of the Balkans lack education and the world outlook. They do not see beyond their own borders and lack that tolerance which is necessary to the best life. People who live on an eminence and look out over an expanse of country tend to become broadminded whereas those cooped up in narrow valleys become cramped in their ideas. So it is with nations. The world outlook is necessary. Even in Canada, especially in the villages and in places like Prince Rupert where we are cut off from the rest of the world, we are apt to become introspective and lose broad sympathies which are necessary to civilization.

FAREWELL TO ROTARY CLUB

Rev. H. R. Grant Gives Final Address to Members at Luncheon

At the Rotary Club yesterday afternoon Dr. H. R. Grant, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, who is leaving soon for Fort William, gave his farewell address to the members, urging upon them the value of fellowship in advancing any cause. He said that he was sorry to leave the good fellowship of Rotary, one of the most important aids in the way of service, an aid in carrying out the aims and objects of Rotary.

The doctor spoke of the harmony that had prevailed. The spirit of good will was latent in the community before the advent of Rotary but the reserves had been broken down and a great change had taken place among the members.

Divergent as Waves

Opinions held by Rotarians were as divergent as the waves. Were there not differences, conversation would be dull. The man who never made a foe never made a friend.

Dr. Grant spoke of various friendships and incidents in his Rotary experience and referred feelingly to an address, one of the best he had ever heard delivered by the late Archbishop Du Vernet on "Democracy and Industry." He told several stories and called upon Consul Wakefield to repeat the famous Gettysburg speech.

In concluding Dr. Grant said he was leaving splendid friends, and he felt very keenly the going away. He was leaving just at a time when Prince Rupert was developing as a port of the future. Perhaps it would become greater than any port in Canada. Perhaps it was a mistake to leave just now. If he were a young man and were going into business he would locate at Prince Rupert and grow up with the town. However he was getting on in years and would make room for others.

Man First

The Doctor said he had been a pioneer for thirty years and he knew he was taking a risk in going east but he intended to be there as he had been in Prince Rupert. He wanted to be a man rather than a minister. He had always liked to play games and take part in the activities of other men. He had never stood on the dignity of his profession if he was not respected as a man he did not want to be respected as a minister.

In leaving Dr. Grant said he sincerely believed he was following the path of duty. He could not carry his Rotary membership with him but it would be a pleasant memory. On Thursday afternoons he would still see the men gathered around the board and think of them in their places. It was impossible to live among men here without their having a large part in one's heart.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

says:

BABE Ruth came very near joining the ranks of deposed monarchs a short time before the end of the season.

THE pendulum is swinging both ways at once, according to the political speakers.

HIS stock is up

He's making votes

All round the town.

He's losing out

'Tis plainly seen

He can't win now

When backing Meighen.

THE Conservatives in town are quite sure all the Liberal speakers are liars of the first water and the Liberals are just as confident that every Conservative orator is a modern Ananias.

THE candidate goes into the village. "Now boys, what do you want? Whatever it is I am with you as long as it's not free beer or anything I shall have to pay for myself."

I WONDER if the courses for salesmen include those rather colorful stories that all drummers learn to tell when they go on the road.

JAKE says he feels like an auto tire. A girl gave him the air the other night.

TRUTH is stranger than fiction and much more lurid.

ONE of the aviators at Digby Island station this summer said his machine could do anything a bird could do except lay an egg.

UNITED GRAIN GROWERS' DIRECTOR VISITS THE INTERIOR AND TELLS OF SPLENDID PROGRESS OF FARMERS.

the wheat grown in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba is offered for sale through the wheat pools, said the director, and these wheat pools are in turn controlled by a central board of management.

It was his opinion that the wheat pools had come to stay as the co-operative marketing on this system had proved very beneficial to individual grain growers. Several thousand new members had already been signed up for the wheat pools this year as a result of the success of the 1924 pool operations.

Must Come West

A considerable quantity of the grain controlled by the pools must come west and Prince Rupert should get its share" stated Mr. Whitney-Griffiths, and it is his intention to make a recommendation at the annual convention of the U.G.G., to be held in Winnipeg next month, that a share of the pool wheat shipment be sent via this port. The director was much impressed with the excellence of the situation for shipping grain through here owing to the lack of congestion of shipping.

The U.G.G. organization is working in close co-operation with the wheat pools and have already loaned them a number of trapped officials and leased them elevator space, three-quarters of which the U.G.G. controls on the prairies.
