Local Member In Defence Of North.

The other day one of those periodic slurs on the north was made in the Legislature by one of the opposition members, who suggested that the people should be moved down from the north closer to the larger centres of population. Hon. T. D. Pattullo at once took up the cudgels for the north pointing out the favorable position which the port of Prince Rupert occupied for Oriental trade, stating that a vessel operating out of the part of Prince Rupert could make at least ten per cent on operation over and above a similar vessel operating out of a southern port.

Powerful Address Of Mr. Justice Murphy.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Justice Murphy delivered a very powerful address to the Women's Canadian Club of this city, urging the influence of the people and especially of the women of the world to prevent future war. He outlined briefly the present condition of that part of the world where conflict seemed possible and pictured the horrors of war in a manner to make one shudder. He ascribed war as being due to an exaggerated sense of nationality.

Possibly We May Settle Cow Bay Controversy.

Since the Cow Bay controversy has been with us for at least seven years and probably much longer, it might be wise for us to settle it now. Apparently there is an effort being made to have the matter closed with advantage to the port. If that is so, why delay? The people have voted in favor of closing Cow Bay and all that is awaiting is the final decision of the city council. At any rate a decision should be arrived at. If the present council find themselves unable to function successfully in regard to this matter, there will soon be another and they may be able to settle it, but not in time for possible action by the federal department of marine at the coming session.

No Money Yet For P.G.E. Railway.

No money is to be provided this year for extension of the P.G.E. Railway, it was announced Friday, but it is probable provision may be made for the making of land grants in case of a sale of the property.

While it does not seem likely that anyone will wish to buy the P.G.E. just now at a price which would be considered reasonable by the Province of British Columbia, no stone should be left unturned in efforts to get some private concern to take it over and operate it. If it could be made to pay by the use of an oil-electric car, someone might be able to make it pay.

Why Unload It On To Englishman.

Charles Woodward, the doughty Liberal member for Vancouver, head of the Woodward stores, thinks it would be good business to unload the P.G.E. on some gullible Englishman. He would give him some land which anybody could have for the asking at any time, as a further inducement to take over the road.

There may be people in the Old Country who would fall for a deal of that kind without investigating but we doubt if Honest John would be justified in putting through such a deal. If he made it a bargain sale and gave it for half price, we still should not have much opinion of the Englishman who would undertake such a proposition, but the deal in that case would not be unequal, and British Columbia would certainly be the gainer.

RIOT OF ROMANCE BEAUTY AND COLOR

Blanche Sweet and Ronald Colman are Chief Actors in "His Supreme Moment"

Blanche Sweet and Ronald Colman are the leading characters in George Fitzmaurice's latest production "His Supreme Moment" which will be shown at the Westholme Theatre tonight and tomorrow.

It is a riot of romance, beauty, color, drama and fine acting by the featured players and a cast of notable actors including Jane Winton, Belle Bennett, Cyril Chadwick, Ned Sparks, Nick de Ruiz, Anna May Wong and Kalla Pasha.

From a new novel by May Edginton, Frances Marion, who has adapted all of the recent Goldwyn - Fitzmaurice productions, has evolved a screen story which centres around the platonic trial marriage in the wilds of South Aremica of a young mining engineer and a beautiful New York actress. A selfish and designing heiress who is in love with the engineer provokes a series of complications which bring the principals back to New York face to face with a series of unusual dramatic situations.

"STREET OF FORGOTTEN MEN" IS ROMANCE OF NEW YORK UNDERWORLD

From a professional beggar, strapping on his fake arm in the back room of a Bowery "cripple factory," to a gentleman of fashion, an outstanding figure in the famous Easter Parade on Fifth Avenue, this is the amazing range covered by Percy Marmont in the unusual story of dual personality, "The Street of Forgotten Men," which comes to the Westholme Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. As usual in such cases, a woman is the reason; but the remarkable thing about it is that she doesn't know it. George Kibbe Turner has fashioned a powerful drama out of material which is decidedly different.

Mary Brian is the girl, and Neil Hamilton completes the trio of players featured in the leading roles of the production.

Marmont, the Mark Sabre of "If Winter Comes," is "Easy Money" Charlie, a fake beggar. In the cripple factory he is disguised each day as a man with but one arm.

Then one day he inherits a baby girl. Fancy (Miss Brian) falls in love with Hamilton and everything looks fine until "Bridgeport White-eye," played by John Harrington, threatens to "squal" on Charlie. That is the dramatic frame-work of Herbert Brenon's new Paramount production.

"SEVEN DAYS" IS FULL OF ACTION

Offering at Westholme Theatre This Week End Gives Promise of Being Very Popular

A novel play, "Seven Days," is the offering for the week-end at Westholme Theatre. It is full of action and gives promise of being popular with movie patrons.

The synopsis of the story is as follows:

James Wilson has conceived the unique idea of giving a party to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. Among the arriving guests are Kit Eclair, in whom Jim is beginning to take an interest, and Mr. and Mrs. Brown, the latter a confirmed believer in psychic phenomena.

At the psychological moment when Jim has a house full of guests on his hands, the servants flee, frightened by the fact that the butler has been stricken by a mysterious malady which they think is contagious. The house also shelters a burglar who has seized the opportunity for an easy job and Officer Flannigan, who is enjoying a deep slumber as the result of a too sumptuous meal prepared for him by the cook.

House Quarantined

Final arrivals are Aunt Selina, Jim's moneyed relative, who believes in the sanctity of marriage and is still unaware of Jim's divorce and Bella, Jim's former wife and Tom Harbison, one of Kit's former suitors. Supposing that Aunt Selina can be easily disposed of, Jim persuades Kit to pose as his wife to safeguard his expected inheritance; but just as Aunt Selina is about to depart the police step in and announce that the house is quarantined as the result of the butler's suspicious illness.

Complications ensue in fast order. Aunt Selina is shocked when she sees Tom Harbison and Kit (supposedly Jim's wife) in a romantic scene and almost has hysterics when she catches Jim and Bella (whom he is beginning to flirt with again) in a similar situation. At bed time Aunt Selina personally supervises the sleeping arrangements, quite unaware that she is mis-mating people about as effectively as could be done.

Burglar and Officer

Meanwhile on the ground floor the burglar and Officer Flannigan have found each other and do a game of hide and seek that is aided by a mysterious hand dumb waiter and Mrs. Anne Brown, who sees, in a moving table, full confirmation of her belief in a spirit world.

The complications increase into riotous comedy with each day of the quarantine until seven days have elapsed. By that time the entire company, from Jim to Officer Flannigan is worn out by the game of deception. At the very last moment of their endurance the police department anounces that the quarantine has been raised; but there are still explanations to be made.

Diplomacy wins the day. By a clear presentation of the truth Jim wins Aunt Selina over to seeing the humorous side of the situation and insures his inheritance and also the rewinning of his former wife, Kit, on the other hand, finds happiness with Tom as the last scene dims into a fade out.

A Few Doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup May Stop That Cough

Mr. Frank D. Comeau, West Bathurst, N.B., writes:—"I had a very bad cold and cough that settled on my lungs, and I thought that I would never get rid of it.

One day a friend spoke to me about your wonderful remedy, so I sent and got a bottle of it, and after the first dose I took I got relief, and by the time I had finished the bottle I was completely relieved of all my trouble."

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

December 7, 1915.

According to a wire received by G. W. Nickerson, the department of marine and fisheries has approved for the extension of the area for herring licenses from the north end of Dundas Island to the south end of Campania Island and from Farrant Island to Prince Rupert.

Capt. J. O. Williams, old timer of the Yukon River, has arrived in the city and will spend a week here. He is satisfied that Prince Rupert will support a large population from its fishing alone.

A report from the superintendent of utilities recommending the putting in of a large arc light at Cow Bay for the benefit of the fishermen's float was adopted by the city council last night.
