Don't think of Mustard merely as a spicy relish to enjoy with cold meat.

Mustard is a seasoning to be used as widely as you use salt and pepper.

Mustard brings out the natural hidden flavours of cooked dishes and, adding its own flavour, gives them a new zest and relish.

SEAL HUNTING IS GOOD SPORT

Arthur Einarsen Urges Killing of These Mammals Order to Save Salmon

BOUNTY IN STATES
OLYMPIC, Wash., Oct. 2.—Hair seals have increased in recent years to such numbers that they are becoming a serious menace to the salmon fishing industry in the Northwest. As a means of getting rid of the menace, Arthur S. Einarsen, formerly with the Washington state fisheries department, has suggested that the aid of American sportsmen be enlisted in a drive against the animals. Sportsmen, he declares, would find seal hunting a game worthy of their skill and one which would enable them to fill in July and August when the season on big game is closed in most localities.

Increase of Late
Puget Sound Indians formerly hunted the seals for food and material for moccasins and since the white man makes no use of them whatever, the seals consequently have greatly increased since the disappearance of the Indians. In a recent check Mr. Einarsen reports that he counted 7,600 of the hair seals sunning themselves on the beaches at low tide. Rookeries invariably are established at the mouths of salmon streams and the seal-take heavy toll of this food fish. Feeding tests have shown that an adult seal requires about 30 pounds of fish for a meal.

At present the only checks on the increase of the seals are the operations of the few professional hunters who pursue them for the $3 bounty offered by the state and the occasional forays of local sportsmen.

Aid of Sportsmen
"In view of these facts, unless the state wishes to subsidize the extermination, the most logical solution of the problem lies in soliciting the aid of interested sportsmen," Mr. Einarsen declared. The sport is a very keen, one and requires skill and returns a greater thrill than anything we have with the exception of big game hunting. The seal is a sagacious animal and persecution leads to extreme wariness on their part. The fact that there is such an element of chance in seal hunting discourages any great effort to exterminate them by professional seal hunters.

While the original method of hunting seals was to approach them from the shore at low tide and shoot them with a heavy rifle of buckshot, the use of a semi-speed boat by sportsmen has added zest to the chase.

DRIVING YOUNG PEOPLE AWAY

Conservative Campaign Doing Untold Harm to Canada Says Eastern Paper

(Montreal Herald)
We wonder if the Conservative orators who talk so much about the emigration of Canadians to the United States ever pause to wonder what the effect of their speeches is on the younger generation in Canada?

They paint the United States as a land of opportunity and Canada as a land of decaying trade, and they picture a constant flow of enterprising and ambitious Canadians into the Republic to the south.
The result is to create a tendency towards the very thing which they deplore. The younger generation, listening to speeches of this character by a former Prime Minister and his supporters, wonder if they are not wasting their time by staying in a country which these leaders speak of in such doleful terms.

Inspiration Needed
How much better it would be if they were to inspire the younger generation of Canadians with faith in their country, and demonstrate to them the opportunities for expansion and enterprise which exist right here. Canada is a beautiful country, a country richly endowed with everything that makes for prosperity, a country which has made and is making great strides in modern progress and development. It is a land that will richly reward perseverance and enterprise; a land that will provide worthy careers for everyone of its sons. Furthermore, the United States provide no paradise in contrast with Canada, and mute evidence of this is the fact that in fifteen months ending June 30, 1925, no fewer than 52,946 Canadians domiciled in the United States returned to their own country.

Kind of Leaders
We need leaders in both political parties who will be a source of inspiration to their fellow countrymen, and it is greatly to be regretted that the leaders of one of our two great parties should have so lost the patriotic view of their responsibilities that by their zeal in efforts to belittle their opponents they have become recruiting agents for the United States.

INDIAN LEADER NOT CHRISTIAN

Tells Missionary Conference He Finds More in Hinduism Than in Sermon on Mount

ARE NOT HEATHENS
Temporal Power Creates Impossible Barrier Against Success of Missionary Effort

At a recent conference of Calcutta missionaries Mahatma Gandhi, the great Hindu leader, addressed them, explaining why he was not a Christian.

Mr. Gandhi said that it was not generally known that his association with Christians—"not Christians so-called, but real Christians"—dated from 1888 or 1889, when as a lad he found himself in London. "That association," he continued, "has grown riper as years have rolled on. There was a time in my life when very sincere and intimate friends of mine had designs upon me, one of them a great and good Quaker, thinking that I was too good not to become a Christian. I was sorry to have disappointed him, but I know that he never left off praying for me. One missionary to South Africa writes every six months to me and asks 'How is it with you?' I have always told these friends that, so far as I felt, it was all well with me."

Not Convinced
In 1905, Mr. Gandhi said he had sought out one of the greatest Indian Christians, the late Kali Churn Banerjee. I told him "I have come to you as a seeker. . . but I came away not sorry, not dejected, not disappointed. But in one way I was sorry. I do not profess Christianity today—and I am here to tell you in all humility that for me Hinduism, as I find it, entirely satisfies my soul, fills my whole being and I find a solace in the Bhagavad-Gita, in the Upanishads, that I miss even in the Sermon on the Mount. When disappointment stares me in the face and all alone I see not one ray of light, I go back to the Bhagavad-Gita. I find a verse here and a verse there and I immediately begin to smile in the midst of overwhelming tragedies—and my life has been full of external tragedies—and if they have left no visible or no indelible scar upon me, I owe it all to the teachings of the Bhagavad-Gita."

Not Idolators
Turning from the story of his own spiritual pilgrimage, Mr. Gandhi directly addressed the missionaries present. "You, the missionaries," he said, "come to India thinking that you come to a land of heathens, of idolators, of men who do not know the true meaning of religion. One of the greatest of Christian divines, Bishop Heber, allowed himself to write those two lines, which have always left a sting upon me—'Every prospect pleases, man alone is vile.' I wish he had not written those lines. From my experience of the masses of India he is not vile, he is just as much a seeker after God as you and I are, possibly more so."

EDITORIAL WRITER HAS WRONG SLANT ON COAST
(Juneau Empire)
A Vancouver paper sees on account of the recent development in the Cassiar country, great good to come to Canada through the circumstance that receding ice has caused Glacier Bay to penetrate into Canadian territory. Which means that there is one Vancouver newspaper writer who ought to make a trip up the coast. The fact that Vancouver is a Canadian port is more closely association with Cassiar potentialities than the circumstance that Glacier Bay now extends into Canada, and Prince Rupert is not nearly as remote from Cassiar as Glacier Bay.
Notwithstanding that it was never contemplated when the English-Russian treaty was made a hundred years ago that Canada should have a seaport on the Pacific north of Dixon Entrance, Alaskans would be more than pleased if the Canadians would develop a large seaport at Glacier Bay. Under the terms of the boundary decision the waters of that estuary enter Canada and it would be a fine thing for the country if Canada would use them—if development were practicable.

Salisbury's Answer
"I think Lord Salisbury was literally true. The relevance of what I have just told you is that the Christians, the missionaries, who come today to India come also under the shadow, or, if you like, the protection of a temporal power; and it creates an impossible bar. If you give me statistics to show that so many orphans have been brought to Christianity, so many grown-up people, I will accept them, but I do not feel convinced thereby that that is your mission. In my humble opinion your mission is infinitely superior. You want to find the man in India and if

LONG MOTORBOAT TRIP ACROSS THE CONTINENT

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. — With only one portage of 400 miles across the continental divide, John Edwin Hoag and Frank S. Wilson have completed a trip across the continent by motorboat. The trip took almost exactly four months.

From Oregon the motorboat headed up the Columbia River was shipped over the northern range of the Rockies to Fort Benton, Mont., and there resumed the journey down the Missouri River into the Mississippi at St. Louis. Up the Missouri and the Illinois rivers to Ottawa, Ill., the motor boat chugged, then through the Chicago Drainage Canal into Lake Michigan, from where it was plain sailing to Montreal. The trip concluded down the Hudson.
