CATHEDRAL CLUB WAS ORGANIZED

Rev. W. Allen Heads New Centre of Activity at St. Andrews

A representative gathering of St. Andrew's Cathedral congregation spent a most enjoyable evening last night under the chairmanship of the Ven. Archdeacon Rix and organized their activities for the winter months. After some discussion it was decided to have a central and comprehensive body to be called the Anglican Cathedral Club. The following officers were elected:

President, Rev. W. Allen.
Vice.-Pres., W. C. Orchard.
Sec.-Treas. Bate.

With the above the undernoted, as leaders of the various sections form the Executive committee.

Sports.—J. M. Collison.
Music.—Mrs. Woodland.
Dramatics.—Miss Dalby.
Literary.—S. Bazett-Jones.
Boy Scouts.—Mr. Wootton.
Girl Guides and Brotherhood of St. Andrew's leaders to be appointed.

The entertainment was most varied and pleasant. From community singing and kitchen orchestra the items ranged to solos and instrumental duets. The contributors were members of the choir with Miss Ellett at the piano and Monsieur Blanc Mane conducting. Mrs. Cullen, Mrs. Wilton, Miss Dalby, the Misses Cross, the Misses Lawrence, J. W. Gawthorn, and Rev. W. Allen. Each number was warmly encored. Refreshments were amply provided by the ladies. Mrs. Woodland and her committee had cheerfully decorated the Cathedral Hall.

Speaking for the Executive Committee the President said the whole evening was a happy inauguration of what is hoped will be a much needed outlet of activity. "We call upon every member of the Cathedral congregation to see to it that he or she supplies the driving force without which all schemes become empty of the obsession of a few."

Opals

October Birthstones

The old superstition about Opals bringing bad luck seems to be somewhat dying out.

This belief originated in one of Sir Walter Scott's novels but in Mexico, where many beautiful Opals are found, they are worn for good luck.

We have some beautiful Opals just received in different sizes and prices and invite you to see them.

BERNARD SHAW ON SOCIALISM

Impossibility of Freedom to be Subject of Lecture Which He Outlines in Brief

Giving a brief outline of a lecture "Impossibility of Freedom," he is to deliver under the auspices of the Fabian Socialists in London, England, George Bernhard Shaw says:

Political agitation will therefore be carried on under Socialism by a party clamouring for longer hours and harder work for their own sweek sake as against a Weary Willie party complaining that the hours are already intolerably long, the work intolerably hard, and the free and soaring human spirit degraded to that of a bee.

It is pretty clear that the practical compromise arrived at will leave a section of the community underworked and a section overworked. And, anynow, production under Socialism will be so prodigiously increased and facilitated that it will be impossible for the government to impose enough compulsory labor to exhaust the energy of the underworked section.

Weary Willies

Obviously then, the first result of the solution will be a general truancy by the Weary Willies, leaving the work-gluttons to do their share and do it better. The Scots and Germans have, or used to have, an excellent institution called the privileged beggar, or gaberlunzie. The gaberlunzie figures in Walter Scott's 'Antiquary" as a delightful person, and I have never doubted that Socialism will adopt him with enthusiasm. Only he will not be a beggar from necessity. He will receive exactly the same share of the national income as the work-gluttons, and he will probably be useful as a naturalist, a weather prophet, a saxophone player by ear, and walking partner corresponding to our dancing partners, or pisteurs, and an entertaining liar. He will be an important element in the Socialist intelligentsia.

But the work-gluttons will be as underworked as ever when they have snatched the task of the Weary Willies in addition to their own, for they will do that little bit in their heads. And it is their leisure that will transfigure the world for good or evil. The prospect is really alarming. They cannot take it out in golf, for if they did nobody could go out of doors without being hit by a golf ball. Probably golf will be made a criminal offence, if it does not perish for lack of caddies. As they will have no pecuniary motive to keep them within bounds they will try all sorts of experiments and launch the most fantastic and hazardous enterprises in the madly wasteful way, which is Nature's way, and which alone produces great results, instead of the prudent paying way which makes capitalism so sterile. They may even solve the population question by immolating themselves like the bees on the altar of incessant activity.

It will be interesting to note how the women, with their tradition of special work that cannot be hurried or exaggerated, will take all this.

The bearing of these remarks on the subject of the present course of lectures is that leisure is' freedom, that Socialism will produce on unprecedented quantity of leisure, that Satan will find mischief still for idle hands to do, and that he alone knows what will come of it when all our days except the whole holidays will be half-holidays. This is the real problem of freedom.

An outstanding journalistic achievement for British Columbia is the special October edition of the British Columbia Lumberman, published in Vancouver, which devotes a large and profusely illustrated supplement to the description of the new sawmill of the Victoria Lumber & Manufacturing Co. at Chemainus which is about to be opened. The same journal carries a special review of the Sitka Spruce industry of Prince Rupert district with special reference to the Prince Rupert Spruce Mills.

Miss Dorothy Gosse of Victoria reached the city on the Calal last night and will spend a month or so visiting here with her brother-in-law and sister, Dr and Mrs. H. L. Alexander, Graham Avenue.

CHILD BORN WHITE IS AN ALBINO SAYS VISITOR TO FAR EAST

SEATTLE, Oct. 16. — Curtis King, a Memphis manufacturer, in Seattle this summer, returning from the Far East, told of an albino child that had been born to parents of the Mois race, a savage tribe wearing brass rings on ankles and wrists and whose ears are pierced with strange ornaments. King said he travelled hundreds of miles out of his way to the settlement of Djiring, French Indo-China, to take pictures of the youngster.

When the baby was born the parents and the rest of the jungle community were so amazed that they feared some evil was descending upon them, King related. The child is now four years old.

"THE MERRY WIDOW"

The picturization of the greatest musical play success of modern times. The picture that brings to the screen the adventures of the vivacious lady whose name and fame spread to the remotest corners of the earth; whose renditions of Franz Lehar's tuneful melodies delighted millions. The charming romance of a chorus-girl who married a Prince. A photo-play which possesses a real heart interest and features the splendors of a court with glimpses of Parisian night life in pleasing contrast. Gorgeous gowns and costumes. Glittering gaiety. Magnificent scenery and settings. Unrivalled cast.
