Whispers Of Death Injuring Canada.

Every time a politician tries to make it out that conditions in Canada are bad, he is injuring the country. One of the most active of the blue ruin orators is the Conservative leader who is trying to show that higher tariff is necessary.

In spite of the howling politicians and the newspapers that support them, the credit of Canada is better today than it ever has been, her securities and the securities of her industrial concerns are growing in value. People are anxious to lend money to the country and it is noteworthy that the recent bond issue was snapped up almost at once by Canadians.

What we want today instead of whispers of death is a little more life and enthusiasm.

Big Power Scheme May Not Be Visionary.

The people of the state of Maine have set themselves the task of carrying out a huge power scheme, which it is thought will revitalize the whole of the state and also bring prosperity to the part of Canada bordering on the Bay of Fundy. The plan is to dam Passamaquoddy Bay and Cobscook Bay and to form a pool with 100 square miles of water with a dam 4,000 feet long and 70 feet high. The wall will be provided with three gates. Another lower pool will have 50 square miles of water and will be enclosed by a wall 2,400 feet long. The power houses are to be on a dividing wall, which is 3,600 feet long.

The gates of the upper pool are to be opened only during rising tide while those of the lower pool are to open only during falling tides. This will keep a supply of water in the upper pool while the lower will be constantly emptied. The fall of the water from the upper pool through turbines into the lower pool will afford a continuous downfall, whether the tides are rising or falling.

Similar Condition Exists Right Here.

While there is little similarity in the location of the pools a similar scheme might be carried out here. A dam would be built across the Shawatlans narrows just beyond the sawmill. Other dams would be built at Butze and Zenardi rapids, all having gates to admit or stop water passing through. At high tide the big pool behind Butze rapids would be filled from the Zenardi end and at low tide the basin between Butze rapids and the sawmill would be emptied and the gates closed. Then the water from the big inner pool would flow into the outer and provide a continuous flow one way at Butze rapids where the power house would be.

Glacier Bay Important To Canada.

A short item which appeared in the press a few days ago escaped the attention that it deserved, says the Vancouver Star. It was the announcement by an engineer of the B.C. provincial government that by the gradual recession of a great icefield at the back of Glacier Bay, the panhandle of Alaska had been cut, and Canada had acquired a new ocean port, on her own soil to the northern interior.

Had such a discovery followed closely the Alaska boundary award, it would have been hailed with national jubilation. Had it transpired during the Klondike and Allin rushes, its significance would have been widely appreciated. Yet its importance to Canada is still of the first order. Coming at a time when the gold placers of Cassiar are promising a revival of old activities on the creeks of that district, the discovery mentioned is most opportune. If duly authenticated, and taken advantage of, it permits Canada an independence in gaining access to her own fields which will rob Wrangel of its tactical value and Alverstone's decision of its sting.

Whatever Canada may have to complain of in the past in regard to the lack of co-operation of arbitrators, she can have nothing but praise for Nature. The latter, in her noiseless, relentless, but ceaseless processes has been gently mocking the deliberations of the pundits, and the high sounding deliverances of puppetmen. She has heard our lament. She has brought relief. Nature is with us. Canada is on the side of the angels.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

PITY there are not some more political parties so we could have some more federal candidates in this riding.

IF there were only more cherries, there would not be so many birds after the one.

CHAUNCEY Depew says reading newspapers keeps him young. Now please don't all come in with your subscriptions at the same time. The office is small.

SOME people paint the town red and others put carmine on their cheeks.

THE way to reform the Senate would be to send newspapermen there.

JAKE says "How do you get that way?"

IF playing cards were just a matter of holding hands, I know several shiks who would be gambling all the time.

I WAS remarking that a dollar did not go very far just now, when Jake speaks up and says it goes a darn sight farther because he notices that it never comes back.

At the municipal tax sale yesterday only 43 lots reverted to the city, sixteen of these being owned by men serving at the front to whom they will be returned. The sale realized $18,165.53.

Ambling Along With the Trail Riders

1. Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance. 2. Lunch on the Wolverine Plateau. 3. One of the Guides. 4. On the Wolverine Plateau with Tumbling Glacier in the background. 5. Chief Louis Arbel with his Kootenay Indians.

The Official Ride of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, commenced this year on the morning of August 8th and ended at Wapta Camp on the night of the tenth. Over a hundred members participated. They rode across country between Marble Canyon, on the Banff-Windermere Highway, to the Bungalow Camp at Lake Wapta.

The Riders, among them a number of prominent society people, scientists and artists, all travelling on horse-back, blazed a new passage across the Wolverine Plateau. Six countries were represented: Canada, the United States, Australia, France, the West Indies and England. The artists, of whom there were six, made sketches of the virgin scenery along the route of the newly discovered trail.

Seven Indians were in the party, six being Kootenays under Chief Louis Arbel, while the seventh was Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance who gave a lecture on the Indian Races of Canada to the Canadian Club of Montreal during the winter, and is rapidly becoming famous as an authority upon Indian affairs.

The artists included Leonard Richmond, R.B.A., and A. L. Leighton of England; Carl Rungius, Belmore Browne and Richard M. Kimbel, of New York, and R. Palenske of Chicago. Paris was represented by the Duc de Nemours, who recently purchased a ranch near Calgary.

This was the second annual Ride and Pow-wow of the organization. On the morning of August the eighth, motor cars conveyed the Riders from Lake Louise and Banff to the point of departure on the Banff-Windermere Highway. There guides and horses were in readiness and the party immediately mounted and the Ride commenced. The trail led up Tumbling Creek, past Tumbling Glacier and on the Wolverine Plateau where lunch was served. The ride then proceeded along the Plateau with the Wolverine Palisades, Mount Helmet and the Washmawapta Icefield and Waterfalls on the left, giving the riders a view of the Ten Peaks on the right.

That night camp was pitched on the Goodski Plateau and before retiring the campers gathered around the fire for the usual sing-song, in the shadow of the cliff which rises sheer six thousand, five hundred feet above its valley.

On the second day the ride led down to Goodski Creek and up McArthur Creek, past Lake McArthur. That night was spent of the shores of Lake O'Hara, the camp there being placed at the disposal of the Trail Riders by the Alpine Club of Canada. The day ended again with a sing-song.

On the third day, August 10th, the final ride was made from Lake O'Hara to Wapta Lake, where the expedition was concluded with a Pow-wow, sing-song and pale-face dance at Tippi Camp. It is expected that another ride of a similar nature will take place next year as the undertaking impressed those who took part as one of the most enjoyable outings they have experienced. Not only does the Ride provide an uncommonly pleasant holiday for sportsmen from Canada and the United States, but it also serves the excellent purpose of making the scenery and the fishing and hunting facilities of the Rockies known abroad.

SKATING CARNIVAL AT RINK LAST NIGHT

There was a large crowd at the Auditorium last night when the first of the winter season roller skating carnivals was held. Expert instructors were on hand to teach beginners and quite a number of people joined the rink classes to learn the exhilarating art. Music was furnished, and judging from the large number participating in the sport last night roller skating has again become very popular.

Fred Coram Received Wire Last Night that Son was Born in Vancouver Yesterday.

Fred Coram, the popular purser of the steamer Prince John, never felt belted in his life since receiving a telegram from Vancouver when he arrived here with his steamer last night to the effect that yesterday he had become the father of a bouncing, baby boy—his first. Fred is receiving congratulations from the local shipping fraternity and his many Prince Rupert friends.
