NEW GRADUATE OF HOSPITAL

Miss Mary Hebden Completes Training at General Hospital —Exercises Last Night

Miss Mary Hebden, R.N., 1925 graduate from the Prince Rupert General Hospital training school for nurses, received her diploma and the Nightingale Pledge at formal graduation exercises which were held last evening in the Nurses' Home. Members of the medical and nursing professions and friends of the new graduate foregathered to witness the ceremonies and offered their congratulations to Miss Hebden.

S. K. Campbell, chairman of the Hospital Board, opened the exercises and, in a fitting address, referred to the faithful and efficient work of Miss Hebden during her three years of training and extended best wishes to her for future success.

Miss Edith McCaul, R.N., lady superintendent, then presented Miss Hebden with a beautiful bouquet of flowers on behalf of the graduate nursing staff and Miss Betty Weller, R.N. presented the class pin. The diploma was presented to Miss Hebden by Miss Lee, senior pupil nurse. The Nightingale Pledge was administered by Miss McCaul after which bouquets from Miss Weller and "The Boys' were presented.

At the conclusion of the exercises, Mr. Campbell, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Thompson, sang, "Out Where the West Begins." Dancing was then enjoyed until midnight, music being furnished by Miss Irene Morroson and Harvey Hanson. In the course of the evening delightful refreshments were served.

Included among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Campbell, Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Kergin, Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Kergin, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Little, Dr. J. A. West, Miss Margaret Kergin, Miss Dorothy Gillingham, R.N., and Miss Ralphena Wrinch of Hazelton.

On Monday night, the pupil nurses gave a party in honor of Miss Hebden. In the course of the festivities, Miss Hebden was presented with a gold bar pin set with sapphires and pearls.

BILL CRAWFORD STORY SUBJECT

Vancouver Sunday Province Tells About Pioneer Packer of Portland Canal District

(Vancouver Sunday Province)

In the development of mines and mining regions, there is, probably, no man so important as the one responsible for getting supplies to the faraway places. This is doubly true in the case of the Portland Canal district, which is thick with difficult mountain passes, roaring torrents and, not the least, hazardous ice fields and glaciers.

Vancouver has a visitor, William J. Crawford, "packer." It was Mr. Crawford's pack trains which took the greater amount of supplies to the mining operations in the Portland Canal.

An idea of the expense attached to packing in that country—previous to the road and trail developments of the present—may be gained when it is recalled that one season Mr. Crawford started with forty-four pack horses and the following season this string had been reduced, by accident principally, to a mere thirteen.

Mr. Crawford's last hazardous undertaking was getting the machinery and supplies over the top of the Big Missouri mine to the Forty-Nine now being explored by diamond drills by the Guggenheim interests which control the wonder mine—the Premier.

Horse Followed Owner

Mr. Crawford, in the early days of the development of the Portland Canal region, rode a large white horse that was not much for looks but was as sure footed as a mountain goat. This horse used to follow its master like a dog.

One day Mr. Crawford was late getting ready to start for the hills with his pack train and when the time arrived to depart the other men gave the word and started off. Crawford's white horse waited awhile, then returned to the main street where he discovered his master in one of the stores completing some unfinished business. So the horse just walked in and waited.

Much of the Crawford packing business today is done by heavy trucks.

chain and provide a regular radio service to the people of Canada and the United States, as well as to passengers on the Company's radio equipped transcontinental trains.

Policy Justified

The company's radio policy had been more than justified, Sir Henry declared, by the tens of thousands of letters, telegrams and other messages which the company received from Canada, United States and other countries, and a considerable amount of revenue traffic, which the company now received, could be traced as at least partly due to the dissemination of information by radio. The maintenance of a friendly spirit between officers and employees of the road, made possible by this newest science of communication, was also of tremendous benefit to the moral of the organization and helped to promote a splendid espirit de corps which could but be beneficial in the getting of more business.

Radio broadcasting also enabled the company to keep before the people of Canada and other countries the advantages of the passenger, freight, express, telegraph and other services offered them by the company and further served the purpose of providing a means of acquainting the Canadian public with the affairs of the Canadian National system, of which all are shareholders.

Remote Control

Sir Henry informed his audience that the new station was the first to meet the requirements of the new radio law which provides for remote control in broadcasting. This had been done by locating the antennae and operating room on Lulu Island, a distance of ten miles from the studio which is in the Canadian National Railways Depot. Regular programs of the highest standard, which have characterized the Canadian National broadcasts from other cities, would be broadcast from the new station and he hoped it would be the means of interesting people of outside countries in the affairs of Canada, as well as providing for Canadians a source of entertainment and a means of acquiring much information concerning their own country and its advantages, both in the way of natural resources, scenic advantages, national parks and other splendid holiday and tourist resorts.

The new station broadcasting on a long wave length will go on the air at 7:30 Tuesday evenings and 8.00 o'clock Friday evenings, with a program of market reports, studio and dance orchestra and kiddies stories in addition to local numbers and instructive addresses.
