LITTLE PLANE MYSTERY SHIP

Speculation Rife as to What Expedition That Left Here Last Month is Really Doing

Apparently referring to the aerial expedition which left here under Archibald Little, Detroit mining engineer, on June 1, a special writer in the Vancouver Province pens as following:

Mystery surrounds the operations of a large airplane in Northern British Columbia, from which district I have just arrived after taking part in the Cassiar gold rush.

A huge Vickers-Vimy flying boat, equipped with a four-hundred-horsepower Napier engine is engaged in relaying vast quantities of supplies from Dease Lake to the Liard River, while tractors and pack trains are busily engaged in freighting from Telegraph to the Lake. It is estimated that the gas and oil bill of the expedition alone will run to a figure well over one hundred thousand dollars, and food supplies for three years have been placed in various caches.

At Telegraph Creek it is rumored that the expedition is bound for a mysterious tropical valley situated in the Liard River country, but old-timers are inclined to believe that a new placer country of fabulous wealth lying somewhere north of the Liard and east of the Mackenzie Rivers is the Mecca sought. More prosaic is the supposition that the party is searching for a practical railway route running from Spirit River, the terminus of an existing road that connects with Edmonton, Alberta, and tremendous deposit of potash said to exist in the Liard River region.

In any event, funds behind the venture seem unlimited, and according to talk heard in the North, the financing is being done by a syndicate of Americans, of which Edsel Ford of Detroit, is a member.

DEFIANCE WON STEWARD'S CUP

J. B. Joel's Horse Captured Honors on "Glorious Goodwood" Course Today

LONDON, July 28.—The four day meet at "Glorious Goodwood" which ranks with the outstanding events of the British racing season, opened today when J. B. Joel's Defiance won the Steward's Cup for one thousand sovereigns. The meet will close on Friday. Goodwood is the most exclusive race course in England, and the meet is the season's most exclusive, more so even than Royal Ascot. Several races of recognized and long established importance are on the program, chief among them the Steward's Cup handicap, the Goodwood Stakes, Goodwood Cup and Chesterfield Stakes.

The popular feature of the meet is the Steward's Cup, a handicap run over the six-furlongs course, established in 1840. Priory Park, the Duke of Richmond's three-year -old colt, was a favorite by virtue of the fact that he has been trained hard. Also to be reckoned with were the five-year-old Compiler, winner of the cup last year, the three-year-old Silent Guard and S. W. Beer's crack three-year-old sprinter Diomedes.

Important Races

Of the other important races the Goodwood Cup, established in 1812, is the oldest. It is run over a course of two miles, five furlongs. The Goodwood Stakes, a handicap of two miles, three furlongs, and the Chesterfield Cup, a mile and a quarter handicap, are the other valued races for the older classics.

The course at Goodwood has one of the most beautiful settings in the kingdom. Placed high in the hills of the Sussex South Downs, with wooded uplands to the north, there is a stretch of open country to the waters of the English channel on the south and in the distance the purple hills of the Isle of White. Behind the stands is a magnificient plantation of beeches. The third Duke of Richmond established the meet for the public in 1735, and the present Duke of Richmond, who occupies Goodwood House, is responsible for the stands erected a few years back. The King and Queen or other members of the Royal Family are usually present at Goodwood during the meet.

GEORGE NADEN VISITING CITY

Deputy Minister of Lands Comes from Jasper in Course of Vacation

George R. Naden, deputy minister of lands, was an arrival in the city last evening from Jasper where he has been spending a holiday with his daughter, Miss Esther Naden. Miss Naden, who is a graduate of U.B.C. and from the Vancouver General Hospital, is connected with the Cowichan Health Centre.

Jack Naden, a former pupil in the public schools of Prince Rupert graduated last year from the University of Toronto in medicine and is now at the Moses Taylor Hospital in Lackawana, New York.

Mr. Naden and Miss Naden will sail on the Prince Charles tomorrow afternoon for the south. The deputy minister, when seen by the Daily News, said that he was on a holiday and was forgetting for the time being as much as possible all about the work in his department. When asked as to the fire situation throughout the province, he said that there was nothing practically in Northern and Central B.C. but that in the southern interior the situation had been really bad.
