And, in return for all these benefits, General Hertzog asks the Cape natives to give up the franchise - the only weapon they possess for self-defence. To gild the pill he offers them-and with a bountiful gesture he includes the voiceless natives of the other provinces in his offer-the limited Parliamentary representation of seven members, who confidence debate unless it is a matter specifically included in the narrow schedule attached to the bill. Seven members to represent four and a half million natives as against the 134 members who represent one and a half million whites! And these seven men will be elected to Parliament by an electorate nominated by the Government. The full personal direct vote granted to civilised natives in the Cape disappears in nominated, restricted, and Governmentdirected franchise. It is inconceivable that the people of the Union of South Africa will tolerate these measures. And yet, by iteration "courageous solution of the native procent acquiescence.
