What Seasons Mean?

It seems to us that very many people have no realization of what is meant by the various holidays we keep. Take the last from the old Irish, and the Scotas an instance. It was May 24, but what did it mean? The holi-tish ballad "Afton Water." day was first established because it was the birthday of Queen Victoria. On her death it was still called Victoria Day and the uated from the College of Music employees of the wholesale last day of school preceding it was known as Empire Day. The in London, England, sang well houses. In one of them there is whole idea is for us to consider our position as a member of the British Empire.

The word "Empire," as we have mentioned before, is rather Dwell in Marble Hails." an unfortunate one because we associate with it all that goes with Imperialism. It brings to mind the imperialism of Rome, fective in "My Dear Soul" and the water, especially on holidays. of France under Napoleon, and of Germany under the Kaiser. especially in "Calling Me Home They should borrow Handsom?" When it is considered, however, that the British Empire is not to imperialistic but is a commonwealth of free and independent sang well "Asleep in the Deep," use after the sun goes down. dominions, the word loses its sting and we can celebrate Empire Day without losing any of our self-respect.

Next Holiday Is Dominion Day.

The next important public holiday is Dominion Day, which comes on July 1. It celebrates the birthday of the Canadian confederation although at that time the Dominion was not by any means complete. It was the beginning of the confederation idea under which the Canadian nation came into being. is celebrated here with more show of patriotism than any other holiday and rightly so. It is the largest governmental entity to which we belong. There is no government of the British Empire. The British commonwealth is just beginning to develop and no one can say what its final form will be. Possibly there will be no finality about it but just a steady evolution just teller and kept the audience as the British nation evolved.

Startled By Crime At Port Essington.

The whole west country was startled yesterday by news of the crime at Port Essington when a girl was horribly murdered by some brute in human form. It is difficult for the normal person to understand the attitade of mind of a man who would commit such a crime. It strikes the average person with horror and possibly so reacted on the criminal as soon as the deed was done.

Complain Because No Music Here.

It is rather a common thing to hear complaints that in Prince Rupert there are no opportunities to hear good music or to go to good theatres. All we have is movies. This week! there has been such an opportunity and the music given has been strictly high class. Yet the people have not taken advantage of the opportunity to hear it. Tonight is the last on which the Lyric quartette will appear and those who have not yet heard them should do so. They are well worth it.

The new Orthophonic Victrola has been doing it since December 2nd

THE music of great orchestras, of famous artists, of that almost endless and ever growing host of Victor entertainers keeps its true beauty when heard upon the Orthophonic Victrola.

A demonstration is a remarkable experience. So truthful is this performance that at first you will disbelieve your earsuntil you have become accustomed to the miracle.

You hear the giant anger of the storming kettledrums, the amorous cooing of the clarinets, the soft and sunny laughter of the piccolo. You close your eyes and wonder where will wonders cease. Your first query will be, "How soon can I have one?"

Any "His Master's Voice" dealer will do his best to give you delivery as early as the present supply permits him.
