EXPERT OPINION OF KING CABINET.

We admit that we know little about the new men who have joined the the season there is a guest day when Mackenzie King cabinet. However, others do, and here is the opinion of the Free members may invite their friends. Press of Winnipeg in regard to them:

The cabinet slate, announced on Saturday by Mr. King, appears to have more balance and vitality than any government presented to the country since Union government. It has elements of strength that were missing from Mr. Kings selections in 1921 and it is greatly superior to the King government that Ross, Mrs. George Woodland, Mrs. Kenwas brought to defeat at the beginning of July. The new cabinet has a national nv. Mrs. A. T. Parkin and Mrs. Fraser. complexion lacking in the cabinet with which Mr. Meighen went to the country. It looks like a better cabinet for the mass of the people than that which Mr. Meighen offered. It looks like a cabinet that will have a fair admixture of common sense, which is something that should recommend it to the people of Canada. It should have more decision and driving force than any cabinet with which Mr. King previously surrounded himself. These elements were needed.

Of the new men, the outstanding are Hon. James Malcolm of North Bruce and Hon. W. D. Euler of North Waterloo. The ability of these two men has been recognized by those in touch with affairs at Ottawa, Mr. Euler is a manufacturer and newspaper owner at Kitchener, Ont., and has extensive business interests. He is regarded as a thoroughly competent business man and his honor and integrity are above reproach. It is safe to assume that whatever has been wrong with the Customs department, to which Mr. Euler has been appointed, ern Canada and also in the United will be straightened out as far as is humanly possible. Efficient and honest ad- States. She was in Brantford, Ont... ministration can be expected from Mr. Euler. He has been most successful in his In that city she met Miss Minnie Wark, own line of manifacturing and should bring to thedepartment of trade and commerce a wide knowledge of markets and how to obtain and to hold them. It is true little low tariff sentiment is brought to the cabinet by Mr. Euler and Mr. Malcolm. Mr. Euler is frankly a protectionist and it is not likely that Mr. Mai- peg for a time. That they are men of that type of mind is shown by the fact that both Mr. Euler and Mr. Malcolm were sympathetic at Ottawa to the West's right to retain the Crows Nest rates. They helped fight the West's battle to maintain its statutory rate position and in this connection deserve a Western tribute. Mr. Euler is one of the foremost advocates of public ownership of railways and can be depended upon at all times to see that the Canadian National is given fair treatment.

REPRESENTATION FROM THE WEST.

The West's cabinet representation has been increased since the last parplament by the addition of Mr. Forke of Brandon. Mr. Forke has integrity, parliamentary experience, and horse sense. His knowledge of the West is practical and thorough. As head of the Immigration department he should be particularly effective in promoting successful colonization. Mr. Dunning revealed his grasp of the railway situation in the late Parliament and can be expected to rank as one of the strong men of the cabinet. The country is fortunate in having Mr. Dunning in charge of the railway portfolio instead of Mr. Black of Halifax, the aged head of a private shipping firm and the open enemy of the Crows Nest rates. Looking back at it from this distance, it seems remarkable how Mr. Meighen chen, they were soon extinguished by still suffering from the same illness with ever eame to select Mr. Black as his minister of railways.

Peter Heenan of Kenora, a former locomotive engineer and a vigorous advocate both at Toronto and Ottawa of the development of the north country, has been given the portfolio of Labor. This is pretty much of a surprise. Mr. Heenan has had parliamentary experience both at Toronto and Ottawa and was the joint candidate in the last election of the Liberal, Labor and Progressive parties in his riding. It is probable that the butk of Canadian labor will be satisfied with his paper and curtains were burned. appointment.

Hon. P. Veniot, the new postmaster-general, is a former premier of New Brunswick and an administrator of capacity. Mr. Rinfret of Montreal, secretary of state, is regarded as a comer among the French-Canadian members. He is the editor of a Montreal daily newspaper and an orator of gifts. The portfolio GOLDBLOOM IS BACK of defence has not been filled. According to reports Mr. King is trying to make a place for Col. J. L. Ralston, a Halifax lawyer who was defeated on September 14. Colonel Raiston had experience overseas and is regarded by his fellow Nova Scotians as a man of unusual capacity. He would add strength to the cabinet if his election could be secured.

The new cabinet may be said to be too large. It is probable that a cabinet of twelve men could handle the country's business just as well as a cabinet of eighteen, but no prime minister has been able to bring about a material reduction in cabinet numbers. Geographical conditions and political exigencies appear to dominate when the selections are being made. However, the number of men in the cabinet is not as important as the way they perform. A fine opportunity for broad-visioned, forceful and energetic administration is spread out before Mr. King and his new advisors. The country is giving them a fair show and the country will judge them by their works.

Prices

Wm. Goldbloom has returned from his fall tour of the eastern fur markets and has come back with large orders to fill. including every kind of fur available. TICI By going direct to the fur manufacturers, Goldbloom gets the ultimate price for furs in the raw amounting to some 15 per cent over the ordinary prices. This benefit he is able to pass on to the trappers, who, as in previous seasons, will do well this year to "see Goldbloom first," before disposing of their "Squaredeal" Goldbloom under the above mentioned circumstances is enabled to pay more for the furs he buys than anyone else. So "see Goldbloom first" means something if you have furs to sell.

Mr. Goldbloom also brought back with him some of the newest fashions in fur coats and other garments and by wise purchasing, is able to offer these for sale at thirty per cent under the ordinary prices. And Goldbloom gives a guarantee with every article he sells. Ladies are specially invited to inspect this new season's display.-Advt.

F you are a constant user of Carnation Milk, you already KNOW. But if you are not, then we say, sincerely and confidently, that a treat is in store for you.

The label is red and white.

For you will get wonderful results in cooking with Carnation Milk. For baking, for sauces and gravies, for puddings and frozen desserts, Carnation is unsurpassed.

It is fine in coffee, too; and with fruits and cereals. Then, especially, will you appreciate Carnation's creamy-delicate taste and color - and its economy cuts cream bills in three.

Treat yourself to the goodness which has made Carnation the world's leading brand of evaporated milk.

Your grocer sells Carnation. Be sure to ask for it.

BREAD PUDDING-2 cups Carnation Milk diluted with 2 cups hot water, 1/8 cup sugar, 1 tsp. vanilla or 1/2 tsp. grated nutmeg, 1/4 cup melted butter, 2 cups stale bread crumbs, 2 eggs, 1/2 tsp. salt. Prepare crumbs by grating on a coarse grater. Soak the bread crumbs in the hot diluted milk. Beat eggs slightly, add the sugar, salt, and vanilla to the soaked crumbs; stir until well blended. Pour into an oiled pudding dish, set in a pan of water and bake in an oven of 300° F. About one hour is required for baking. This serves eight.
