So Much Doing That Old Timer Thinks It's Time to Move.

SKIDEGATE, June 24. - The correspondent of the Daily News at Skidegate had a visit from one of the old timers the other day. He was lamenting that it was time for him to move because things were getting too civilized for him around the Inlet. There were too many industries starting up, too many people coming in. He could hear the cannery and logging camp whistles every morning. noon and evening. The geese and ducks were getting wild and the cheechakos from the cities were invading the clam beaches. Everything around the Inlet was humming-new buildings going up, new roads being built. Indeed, it was time for the old timer to move so he was going to the west coast of Queen Charlotte Islands; the last stand of the frontiersnan, where the ducks and geese dentitud and where one can shoot greatly admired. rams with a wooden gun.

SKIDEGATE NARROWS.

vides Graham and Moresby Islands of the Queen Charlotte group, is a body of water about 28 miles long. Midway through this channel is what is known as Skidegate Narrows. There are we such narrows-the east narnows and west narrows-about two miles apart. At low tide it is impossible for small boats to go through these narrows as they practically go dry.

There is no body of water in Northern B.C. where there is more traffic than there is in Skidegate Narrows. It is used by the New England Fish Co. Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., B.C.
