LECTURE YESTERDAY WESTHOLME THEATRE

Speaker Deals With Current Topics' Connection With Second Coming.

That a great change is taking place in the affairs of men at the present time and mankind, nationally and internationally, is utterly at sea, their high ideals being impossible of accomplishment as far as human ability and sagacity are concerned, was declared by A. J. Eshleman of New York, who spoke last night in the Westholme Theatre, under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association. Mr. Eshleman declared that the people's plea for governments that would give untrammelled justice and tenderness was in vain. The gods of war, gold and selfishness were taking their toll from the people with contemptuous interest and the Bible Students considered conditions as they existed as incontrovertible proof that the time had come for the King Immortal to take control of earth's affairs, bringing order out of chaos and relief to a sin-weary and distressed humanity.

Freud Cameron presided at the meeting and piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. A. Ness.
