Bodies Frightfully Mangled in Gasoline Explosion When Tanker Goes Up and 25 Lose Their Lives

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, April 12.—A terrific explosion aboard a tanker in the Gulf of Venezuela harbor here took a toll of 25 lives yesterday and injured eight people seriously. For a time it also threatened other shipping.

Two members of the ship's crew are missing and it is believed some are among the debris.

The tanker had a cargo of about 50,000 barrels of gasoline and was lying at the docks of the Gulf Refining Co. at the time of the explosion.

Twenty-two of the dead have not been identified. The bodies are badly mangled and identification in many cases is virtually impossible. Several bodies were hurled hundreds of feet into the air. It may yet prove that the list of dead is greater than reported.

The disaster is the third of a similar nature within the past 72 hours. Others occurred in the Mississippi River Thursday resulting in an undetermined number of people losing their lives, probably 33.

Property damage is confined to the tanker. The seamen were trapped as they slept and were burned to death. The men met their fate in a cauldron of boiling gasoline.

Uncrowned King of a Happy Valley

ONE OF LIEUT GOV BRUCE'S INDIAN FRIENDS

man, if you want to get on in this country, shed that coat."

Mr. Bruce must have obeyed instructions, for he has been "getting on" until his recent appointment seems to be as near the top as any Canadian could ever be. And, coincident with his own development, has come about the development of the Windermere Valley in British Columbia, where he has made his home for some years. Mining interests first took him, back in 1889, to the upper reaches of the Columbia River, where he commenced operations on the Sitting Bull claim on Boulder Creek, a tributary of Horse Thief Creek, near the spectacular Lake of the Hanging Glaciers. Later he left this for a new claim called Paradise, from which has sprung the appellation Happy Valley. The village of Windermere, on the eastern side of Lake Windermere, was the first to take root, and here Mr. Bruce settled. He built a bungalow, and planted a garden, garden which today is a riot of exquisite flowers, a regular flower show for those visitors at the Canadian Pacific Bungalow camp opened a year or so ago a short distance along the lake shore from the Bruce estate. Not only did this indefatigable gardener plant lovely flowers in his garden, but realizing the difficulties of keeping miners at their jobs, he planted fresh vegetables in sufficient quantities for his men to have a diet of fresh vegetables instead of a diet of tin cans. His ores are mined with never a strike.

Luther Burbank was wonderful personality, his telepathic and healing powers setting him apart from his fellows

SANTA ROSA, Calif., April 12—Luther Burbank, wizard of the plant world, scientist, sociologist and psychic, died at his home here early Sunday morning aged 77 years, after two weeks' illness attributed to nervous exhaustion which was complicated by a heart attack. The age of the famous scientist together with his inability to assimilate anything but a limited quantity of nourishment proved a handicap to the physicians who were attending him. He sank into a comatose condition early Saturday night and did not recover consciousness, passing away in his sleep early yesterday.

It was only a few weeks ago that Mr. Burbank gave an address during the service at the Congregational Church following an interview in which he had stated some very radical views in regard to life after death and the immortality of the soul.

Weird Qualities

A man of very strong personality and with psychic qualities, Burbank had the power of healing and of sending and receiving mental messages, which set him apart from his fellows and made him almost weird. In a magazine article written a few years ago he told how he discovered that he had these powers and what use he made of them. He declared that there were certain people with whom he constantly communicated mentally and the messages never failed. If he wanted them he simply sent a mental message and they came. In regard to healing, his fame at one time in this respect became so great that people came from far and near to get cured. He did not encourage them, however, and did not consider this part of his life work.
