Seven Norwegian members of the party said they would likely organize another Arctic expedition with the aid of Ellsworth, who is Amundsen's financial backer.

Amundsen expressed himself as "virtually certain" that there was no land on the route which was followed by the Norge. One hundred thousand square miles of icy wastes occasionally broken by open water had been seen on the trip, he said. Meighen Being Called Upon Today to Assume Leadership at Ottawa

Resignation of Liberal administration follows refusal of Governor to grant dissolution of House

OTTAWA, June 28.—The administration of Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King has resigned and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservatives, was called to the Government House this afternoon to confer with the Governor General with a view to forming a new government.

Premier King today announced the resignation of the government and advised the Governor General to dissolve the House which, however, Baron Byng declined to do.

At the sitting of the House, which lasted only a few minutes this afternoon and which followed a meeting of the King cabinet, Premier King, in announcing the resignation of the government, made the following statement: "I have a very important announcement to make before proceeding further. Public interest demands the dissolution of this House of Commons, and as Prime Minister, I so advised His Excellency, the Governor General, shortly before noon. His Excellency having declined to accept my advice to grant dissolution to which I believe, under British practice, we are entitled, I immediately tendered the resignation of the government which His Excellency has been graciously pleased to accept. Under the cir-umstances, as one of the members of this House, I move that the House now adjourn."

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen rose to make a statement but, as the motion to adjourn carried, he did not complete his remarks. When the House rose, Mr. Meighen and the Conservative members of the customs committee were loudly cheered. Mr. Meighen declined to make any statement for the present, immediately going into conference with his followers.

The remaining business of the session will probably be wound up in quick order.
