The Parade of Fashion

BOBBED FURS.

Bobbed very short and even shaved hair has come to furs. Parisian women, not content with retaining the bob on their own heads, have extended it to their furs.

The season's vogue shows all kinds of fur pelts, shaved and treated, used for coats and as trimmings. Furriers have resorted to dyeing and are bringing out grey and ancient looking lamb and mole rejuvenated in youthful tints of henna, brown and gold.

Fox fur and lynx seem to be the only two which have escaped the furriers' shears. They are being used by the fashion makers as trimming for short haired fur coats, thus presenting the novelty of fur trimmed with fur.

OLD JEWELS IN VOGUE

Queen Mary has started a vogue for old jewelry and Mayfair already has begun to produce some of the heirlooms that have been tucked away in lavender and old lace for years.

During her holiday at Balmoral, the Queen spent considerable time examining a quantity of old fashioned jewelry she possesses. She decided to have some of it reset and otherwise remodelled in modern fashion. The unique pieces will be retained in their present form and worn, thus making the vogue more secure.

CONSERVATIVE "PARTY" DRESS

Black dresses were in the majority at the reception and ball in connection with a meeting of the British Conservative Party. Dame Caroline Bridgeman, however, wore a lovely gray gown and a diamond band around her hair. Lady Elveden wore a satin gown in a beautiful shade of apricot. One of the most striking figures was Lady Herbert Cory, who came out in a black and silver sequin frock and very long diamond earrings. A pink and black nixon frock and another gown of gold lace with an enormous gold flower at the shoulder were additional features.

BLACK SHOES DISAPPEAR

Mauve, rose, pale blue, gold and silver, were the predominating colors in women's shoes seen at the exposition of the "Paris Leather Week." Black shoes were greatly in the minority.

The exposition represented firms from Germany, Scandinavia, Great Britain, France and the United States.

For street and afternoon wear two distinct trends were noticed—one toward very simple models in snakeskin, the other being strapless models in three and four pastel combinations with cubistic designs.

The shoes are solid built and unmarred by open work.

MOLESKIN "PULL-ON" HATS

Moleskin hats are the big autumn mode in Mayfair. Almost every other woman is seen wearing what is casually referred to as a "pull-on" hat, with a tiny brim and full tummy crown, all made from the finest fur. Many of them wear moleskin coats to match the hats.

BALL ROOM DECORATIONS

The "little season" brought out some new ideas in ball room decorating along Bond Street. Square mirrors framed with moss are being featured. The moss keeps fresh for several weeks and can be retimmed with fresh flowers as often as desired.

SUITABLE WEDDING GIFTS

Wedding presents follow no fixed fashion these days but usually are as variable as other wedding fashions. The Duchess of Devonshire gave a diamond pendant to Lady Katherine Beresford on the occasion of her marriage to David Darnley. The bride's mother presented a radio set to the bridegroom. A mink coat and jewelry were presents of Lady Susan Darnley to the bride. The grand parents of the bride gave her a canteen of silver.
