KETCHIKAN ASKING RIGHT TO FISH BAIT
Would Have Season For That Purpose Always Open and Takes Action Accordingly
KETCHIKAN, Feb. 1. — The Commercial Club has endorsed the proposal to have fishing for bait in Alaskan waters always open, and wired their representative at Washington accordingly.
The bait situation in South-eastern Alaska was described as acute with less than 50 per cent of the necessary bait frozen. The committee reported a shortage of herring in the areas now open to fishing.
John R. Beagle read a letter to the members of the club in which he advocated an increase in the cold storage facilities in Ketchikan. A committee including John R. Beagle, Milton Daly and Alfred Howe was appointed to look into the matter.
The fishing trap regulations for 1926 were discussed at the meeting. Everett Paup, J. R. Heckman and A. W. Brindle were appointed as a committee to make investigation of the regulations and to report their findings to the Commercial Club.
The committee appointed at a recent meeting to investigate all bills presented to Congress affecting the Alaska fishing situation reported that House of Representatives Bill number 6451, recommending unlimited seasons for the catching of herring for bait, was the only one which should be indorsed.

C. Lin to Apply to Lease Land.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS
PRE-EMPTIONS
Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.
Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emption is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.
Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 8,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 5,000 feet per acre east of that Range.
Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made in printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.
Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.
For more detailed information see the Bulletin "How to Pre-empt Land."
PURCHASE
Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price for first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."
MILL, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.
HOMESITE LEASES
Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.
LEASES
For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.
GRAZING
Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partly free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

ILLEGAL LIQUOR SELLING IS CHARGE BEING TRIED AT POLICE COURT TODAY.

business by merely putting a tag on the bottle to the effect that the liquor was for export only. The suggestion was one that could only be laughed at. The idea of export business was to receive orders from a foreign country and fill those orders by shipping to the consignees. Was that done in this case?
Irregularities
Mr. Patmore then went on to point out "a dozen and one irregularities" in connection with the case. According to evidence, the hour of the delivery and the name of the consignee was wrong. While the card on the exhibit gave one name, there was another name on the report turned in to the government. Under such circumstances, what was to prevent a man carrying the bottle to any place in the city and there consuming its contents? Did the defence suggest that it was entitled to carry on any such business? The return to the government, Mr. Patmore dubbed as "absolutely false and fraudulent." If such methods were allowed, there was nothing to prevent any citizen from going into such a store and buying a bottle of liquor and having it entered up against any American boat? What was to prevent all illegal sales in Prince Rupert being covered up in such a manner? Could any less bona-fide export shipment than this be imagined? The case bristled with irregularities from start to finish. Mr. Patmore declared, in asking the magistrate to put the accused on its defence.
Mr. Gonzales contended that it was not up to the defence to answer questions as to irregular returns. It was up to the crown to prove that there had been an illegal sale.
Magistrate McLymont decided that the defence should submit its evidence.

Defence Evidence
The first witness for the defence was A. R. Hunter of the customs staff. His evidence was that the Resolute was an American boat and had cleared for outside B.C. on November 17. Under cross-examination, Mr. Hunter admitted that the Resolute was not a common carrier.
R. A. Mitchell, taxi driver, told of driving Audahl to the Consolidated Exporters' premises. It was customary for him to take shipments from the Consolidated Exporters which paid for the deliveries.
Under cross-examination, Mitchell maintained that, in spite of the fact that he had not actually delivered the bottle in question, he had presented a bill the next day and had been paid $1 by the Consolidated Exporters. He had also collected from Audahl for the run to the Consolidated Exporters. He also admitted that he had attempted to collect from the detectives after Audahl had been taken to the police station. Mitchell said he had never bought any liquor at the Consolidated Exporters nor had heard of anyone else doing so.
As F. G. Pyle, accountant for the Consolidated Exporters, was called to the stand, one of the spectators was ejected from court for making faces and laughing. Mr. Pyle went at some detail into the system employed by the company in selling, invoicing and delivering its goods. It was customary to group purchases made by all members of one American boat into one invoice made out to the captain. This system had been shown him by J. J. Walsh, Liquor Board inspector.

Discrepancies Admitted
Under cross-examination, Mr. Pyle said it was not customary to put down shipments to several boats under the name of one boat. Further examined by Mr. Patmore he admitted, however, three instances where this had been done. These he stated had been pure mistakes. Mr. Pyle said he had never seen any resident of Prince Rupert come in and make purchases. He made no such sale except in one case which the detectives had witnessed. It was customary to take verbal declarations as to the nationality of the customers when in doubt. The consignees were not always the persons to whom the liquor was sold. Witness admitted discrepancies in the government reports.
The last witness this morning was J. J. Walsh, formerly inspector for the Liquor Control
