Wheat Pool Sought to Get Control of Elevator at Prince Rupert Recently

VANCOUVER, March 3.—James Robinson, member of the Board of Grain Commissioners, at a session of the Western Development and Unity League stated that control of the new government elevator at Prince Rupert was sought by the wheat pool of Western Canada and refused by the government.

Frank Walker, a farmer of Fort Saskatchewan and former member of the Alberta Legislature, appealed for the elimination of all "artificial obstructions" from the western grain route. He declared: "Give the grain growers of Alberta and Saskatchewan the same good service and dispatch given over the eastern grain export route and Pacific coast ports will get the bulk of the prairie grain."

Closure is Carried by House of Commons by Majority of 13 Ending Six Weeks of Obstruction

OTTAWA, March 3.—The government majority in the House of Commons was increased yesterday to thirteen when the vote on the motion to close the debate was taken. All Progressives and independents voted with the government, the figures being 108 to 95. This ends the six weeks' debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, by continuing which until now the opposition refused to give Mackenzie King an adjournment long enough to permit of his reorganizing his cabinet during a proposed recess. Now there is barely two weeks left, not long enough to hold elections or take any action which might possibly weaken the government temporarily. If two or three elections were called it would mean that the government would be two or three votes short in the House until after it was over.

General Opinion Favor Admission of Germany to League of Nations

OTTAWA, March 3.—In reply to a question by Sir George Perley in the House of Commons as to the attitude of the government in regard to the admission to the League of Nations and also the permanent seats at the council to other countries, acting government leader, Hon. Ernest Lapointe replied that he thought the general opinion favored the admission of Germany and giving to her a seat on the council.

With regard to the admission of Spain, Brazil and Poland, he did not think it opportune that the government should announce its attitude until formal application for seats had been made.

Save Money and Patronize Canadian Ports by Shipping Grain to Vancouver or Rupert

That is the Advice Given the Prairie Farmers by the Edmonton Bulletin in an Interesting Editorial Article

There are two good reasons why grain should be shipped out by Vancouver or Prince Rupert, according to the Edmonton Bulletin. One is that by shipping that way Canadian ports are used instead of American; and the other is that the farmers on the prairies make money by shipping west rather than east. Both are valid reasons, and facts and figures are quoted by the Alberta paper to prove that what it says is true. Here is the article:

Some years ago a committee of the Senate, after investigating the trade, reported that two-thirds of the grain shipped from Canada passed through the United States and was shipped from ports in that country. That condition held until the close of the fiscal year ending with March, 1923. Of the 1922 crop more than 91,000,000 bushels were shipped from Canadian ports, but more than 159,000,000 bushels went out of United States ports.

Change Occurs

The following year showed a marked change in the grain movement. For the year ending with March, 1924, more Canadian grain went out of Canadian ports than went out of United States ports; 140 million bushels via Canadian routes against 139 million via United States routes. Not only so. Despite the larger amount of grain exported from Canada, the amount passing through United States channels was twenty million bushels less than the year before; while the Canadian ports handled 49 million bushels more.

For the year ending with March of last year the showing was not quite so good, but still decidedly good in comparison with the records for years previous to 1924. Of the crop marketed during the shipping season a year ago, 119 million bushels went through Canadian channels, against 126 million bushels over United States routes. While the balance was against Canadian routes, it was not at all serious in comparison with former years. Taking the two last years together, approximately as much Canadian grain has gone out of Canadian ports as out of United States ports.

NEWTON DEFENDS PRINCE RUPERT

Says Grain Can be Hauled Here as Economically as to Vancouver

VANCOUVER, March 3.—Denying the opinion expressed by Mayor Harvie of Lethbridge at the conference yesterday, that politics was involved in the placing of the Government elevator at Prince Rupert, 200 miles further from the plant section than Vancouver, Mayor Newton said the port warranted the plant being built, as railway grades permitted the hauling of grain there as economically as to Vancouver.
