Do It Now; Don't Put Off.

"Do it now" is a good maxim in business and in every other walk of life. Putting off is always dangerous. Anything that is possible to do now should be done, for the morrow will have all kinds of duties of which we do not think.

Of course there are many duties that cannot be done now. Often work has to be done according to its relative importance. There are many exceptions to the rule but it is also true that many duties are put off that might be done at once and the putting off results in a gradual slackening of speed and is a cause of general inefficiency.

Strikes Are War Of Industrial Nature.

Strikes are war. While only a few people usually lose their lives in a big strike, there is pretty much the same bitterness engendered as between two countries at war with each other. The scars take years to remove and often are never cleared away.

The despatches yesterday stated that the general strike has been declared illegal. The strikers are outlaws. If, however, half the country is on strike, what can be done about it? There is so much illegality always about a strike that a decision of a judge does not make much difference.

Strikers Always Resent Military.

Strikers always resent the presence of military forces. When strikers upset buses, break the engines and forcibly stop people going to and from their work, no objection is made, but when military forces or armed police are used to correct these illegal actions, there is always an outcry against them. It is very much like what happened during the great war. At that time every little incident was seized on by either side to show what barbarians the others were. It was war, and this and every strike is war. It may not be as bitter as war between countries but in degree it is similar. People are influenced, not by the righteousness of the cause so much as by a desire for their side to win.

Welcome Visitors At All Times.

Let us all get together and welcome the visitors who are coming tomorrow. We may not belong to the order. We may not even agree with what they stand for, but let us forget these things and remember only that they are our guests and that we as citizens of Prince Rupert are the hosts.

We do not get many conventions or gatherings of outside people in this city. We are only just beginning to feel our feet. The way to get established is to extend a friendly hand to all and especially to those who come here to spend a little time and to enjoy our hospitality. Later we shall have the hospital convention here and as we become more important we may expect to have other larger and more important gatherings.

We cannot all be mystic shriners but we can join with the local members in helping to entertain the guests.

Definite Date For Taking Over Elevator.

A definite date for the taking over of the Prince Rupert elevator by the wheat pool has been set and we now know what to look forward to. It means that everything will be in readiness for grain to be shipped this way at the opening of the next season. That, perhaps, is all we could expect in view of the preparations that are necessary before cargoes can be loaded here. It will give time for arrangements to be made for lining the ships and for any other work that is needed.

HOW HERRING GET TO TABLE

Millions Caught Every Year and Millions Lose Lives in Every Stage of Development

KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands, May 12. — An expedition of naturalists is investigating from here the greatest of natural mysteries—how a herring ever gets to the dinner table.

Englishmen are almost reared on herrings. They have them as appetizers for breakfast, and then as white bait, (small fish) and pickled, smoked, broiled, or fried. They are always obtainable at even the small restaurants.

Millions of herring are caught, eaten and relished every year. But scientists know that many more millions rarely ever pass the spawn age, and equal millions never get to adolescence, yet they travel in such numbers that they have been known to stop a steamship.

Prey of All Others

They are the prey of all other fish and human beings from the cradle to the stomach; and yet they are the pests of their own world. What the expedition of the Royal Zoological Institute wants to solve is the problem of how these creatures form the breakfast, lunch and dinner for fish life and homosapiens, and yet are found in such robust numbers.

The expedition has spent two years investigating the habits and trials of the herring in their "aima water," the Orkney Island and adjacent wet spaces.

The scientists have learned there are enough father and mother herrings to lay billions of spawn each year. This spawn is awaited by millions of fish, mostly greedy codfish, who fatten and float themselves on the choice savor that is provided. The codfish, jelly fish, and many other varieties get their substance for weeks by sucking the herring spawn from the rocks and other places in which they nestle.

Despite these marauders, the adhesive eggs survive the incubation period and produce teeming masses of tiny thread-like fishes.

Acres of Fish

The scientists found other fish life chasing the herring into the beach or any other place of safety. At times acres of the small herrings were seen, big splashes accounting for the codfish and other pursuers, and the little splashes the escaping herrings.

Man starts the catch while the herrings are in the minnowage, epicurically called whitebait. What ravishes the sea life makes at this time has not been accurately discovered, but dozens of herrings in various stages of digestion were found in cod and mackerel caught by the expedition. Even up to the time when the herring is large enough to stay in a net, the other fish swim about waiting for them to drop over the side of the trawler.

All things work against the herring. It becomes the prey of the trawler more easily than any other fish; for the trawler is led directly to the herring shoals by the other and larger fish.

CONSERVATIVE PARTY AFFAIRS IN EDMONTON IN BETTER CONDITION

(Edmonton Journal)

Anyone who has been inclined to depreciate the Conservative party as a force in Alberta affairs would, if he were present at last night's convention, have come away with his opinions regarding it very much altered.

The gathering was a large one, drawn from the most varied elements in the community and it was marked by unity, earnestness and confidence to an exceptional degree. The new spirit which has been infused into this political body by Mr. McGillivray, since he has assumed the leadership and brought to his duties such ability and energy, was clearly manifest.

Shriners and candidates from the district to attend the ceremonial to be held here tomorrow and Friday have commenced to arrive in the city and boats and trains during the next 24 hours will bring in many more.

Among those who will arrive in the city on this afternoon's train will be Dr. G. H. Hankinson, W. S. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Orchard and H. G. Olsen of Smithers and H. McBain and Mr. Peck of Prince George.

G. A. Gray, W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Champion and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. H. Darling of Anyox will arrive tomorrow night by the steamer Prince George.

G. A. MacDonald and A. J. Buttner are coming in from the Skeena River by gasboat and J. Field Strang is already here from Sunnyside. Gilbert Campbell has arrived from Port Clements.

The main body of nobles including the Vancouver drill team and the Gizeh Temple Band as well as other initiates from the south will arrive on the steamer Prince Rupert, Capt. D. Donald, which is due at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The party coming on the steamer includes 127 men and 51 ladies. There will also be a few picked up at Alert Bay and Ocean Falls.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

says:

You can tell a Prince Rupert man because he complains of the weather.

THE first third of a man's life is spent deciding what he wants, the second third getting it and the final third wondering what he is going to do with it.

MEN are like a broken kneed horse. They walk, stumble and sometimes fall.

THEY say it was a Prince Rupert woman who looked every night under her bed to see if there was a man there and at last in desperation she bought twin beds in order to double her chances.

THE worst thing about being Premier is that there's no chance for promotion.

A SUPERCHILOUS visitor from the south was wandering up Third Avenue the other day when a resident politely asked him if he was seeing the town? "No," was the reply. "I'm looking for it."

DUE to the wires being down, the world was cut off from Prince Rupert the other day. Yet it kept moving.
