Immigration From Oriental Countries.

One of the best articles ever published on the Oriental question in its relation to this country was that published yesterday, written by Professor Paul Clyde of Ohio State University and a native son of British Columbia. He has laid bare all the facts and the article, if read, will do away with many misapprehensions in regard to Japanese immigration. We commend it to any who are interested in the question.

Speedy Settlement Not Very Likely.

While there are reports of a speedy settlement of the big strike in the Old Country, these may be taken as meaning little. Neither side has yet felt the pinch of the strike, so it is not likely a settlement will be made just yet. Of course it is possible and may happen, but the history of strikes is that there is seldom any chance of a settlement within a few weeks after commencement. When the first enthusiasm begins to wane on both sides, then they are more willing to listen to reason.

Specimens Of Fish Prove Interesting.

When the Great West Life party was here recently, the members visited the Cold Storage plant and were much interested in some specimens of unusual fish that were on exhibition there. So much were they struck with these specimens that they mentioned it in the official account of their visit which was published in booklet form afterwards. Visitors like to see something unusual.

That naturally leads up to the question of preserving such specimens and placing them on view where they may be seen by visitors without encroaching on private premises. A biological station is being built here which it is to be assumed will be open to the public and where it is hoped such specimens will be on view. If it is not they should be placed in the museum collection.

At present the museum collection is housed in the Bank of Commerce. This is by courtesy of the management. Unfortunately it is not open all day and many visitors are unable to see the collection. Those who have done so are particularly interested in it.

Many local people have not yet seen the Indian curios and other things on display there. Those who have not done so should make a point of calling at the bank and looking them over.

Some Day Will Find Home For Collection.

Some day it is hoped a permanent home will be found for the museum collection. When it is found possible to build a new library the museum might well be an important part of it and could be under the same general management. Specimens for it have come in well and a very creditable start has been made.

Cost Of Advice To Police Commissioners.

The cost of getting legal advice incurred by the police commissioners, it is assumed, will be borne by them. The people of Prince Rupert can hardly be expected to pay the expenses of a legal quibble between the city council and the police board.

Various institutions in the city this year asked for donations but they were refused and others were cut so hard that they find it difficult to get along. Then comes the police commission and spends this money which might have been theirs in securing legal advice in order to keep themselves in office. The opinion on the street is that they want the job very badly or they would not make so much fuss about it.

Busy salmon season is about to start--trolling in progress and spring gill netters starting --big power tug damaged

Four canneries are already operating on the Skeena River—Balmoral and Inverness which are mild curing spring salmon and Claxton and Sunnyside which are canning. All other canneries on the river and, indeed in the entire district, are well advanced with preparations for what is expected will be one of the most intensive fishing seasons on record and which will commence in full with the opening of sockeye fishing next month. Already the full quota of licenses has been taken up and, if more fishermen are engaged by the canneries, it is understood that the department will chop another nine hours off the weekly open season. Two canneries which have not operated for the past season or two will be in action again this year—the Prince Rupert Cannery at Tucks Inlet which will be run by the Somerville Canning Co. and the B.C. Packers cannery at Dominion in the Skeena slough. Gill net fishing for sprats in the Skeena River will be on in full swing next week, a few boats being already in operation.

The trollers, representing several hundred boats are fishing at Warke Canal, Dundas Island, Hippo Island and other points. With the herring run over, the spring salmon have disappeared from Butler Cove and the most of the trollers which have been operating there have moved to Dundas Island and Hippo Island. The run cannot be said to have been very large yet but the packers are bringing in fish regularly and the Fish Exchange 17c for reds and 3c for whites have been the prevailing prices. Other salmon, not sold on the Exchange, finds its way to the canneries and the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. for canning, mild curing and freezing.

George Frizzell's Laura F., which has been tied up since last October, will be placed in commission again next week to make her regular twice-a-week service to the Skeena River canneries. She will go into use again this season with a 42-50 Regal engine in place of the former 60 h.p. Winton marine motor. Recently Bob Frizzell has been running the Eleanor Mac to the Skeena River in the Frizzell interests. Next week Bob will join the fisheries patrol power boat Heron for the season and Commodore George Frizzell it is expected will take over active command of the Laura F.

For the past two months a party of four Japanese have been fishing halibut just off Oceanic cannery on the outside of Smith Island with such success that, if the fish keep up and the prices remain favorable, they may abandon the usual calling of gill netting this season. They have been selling their catch to the local retail trade. It is the first time that halibut have been caught on so large a scale in such close in waters.

Capt. W. J. Thomas has his power boat Viner up the Skeena River buying and packing salmon for the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co.

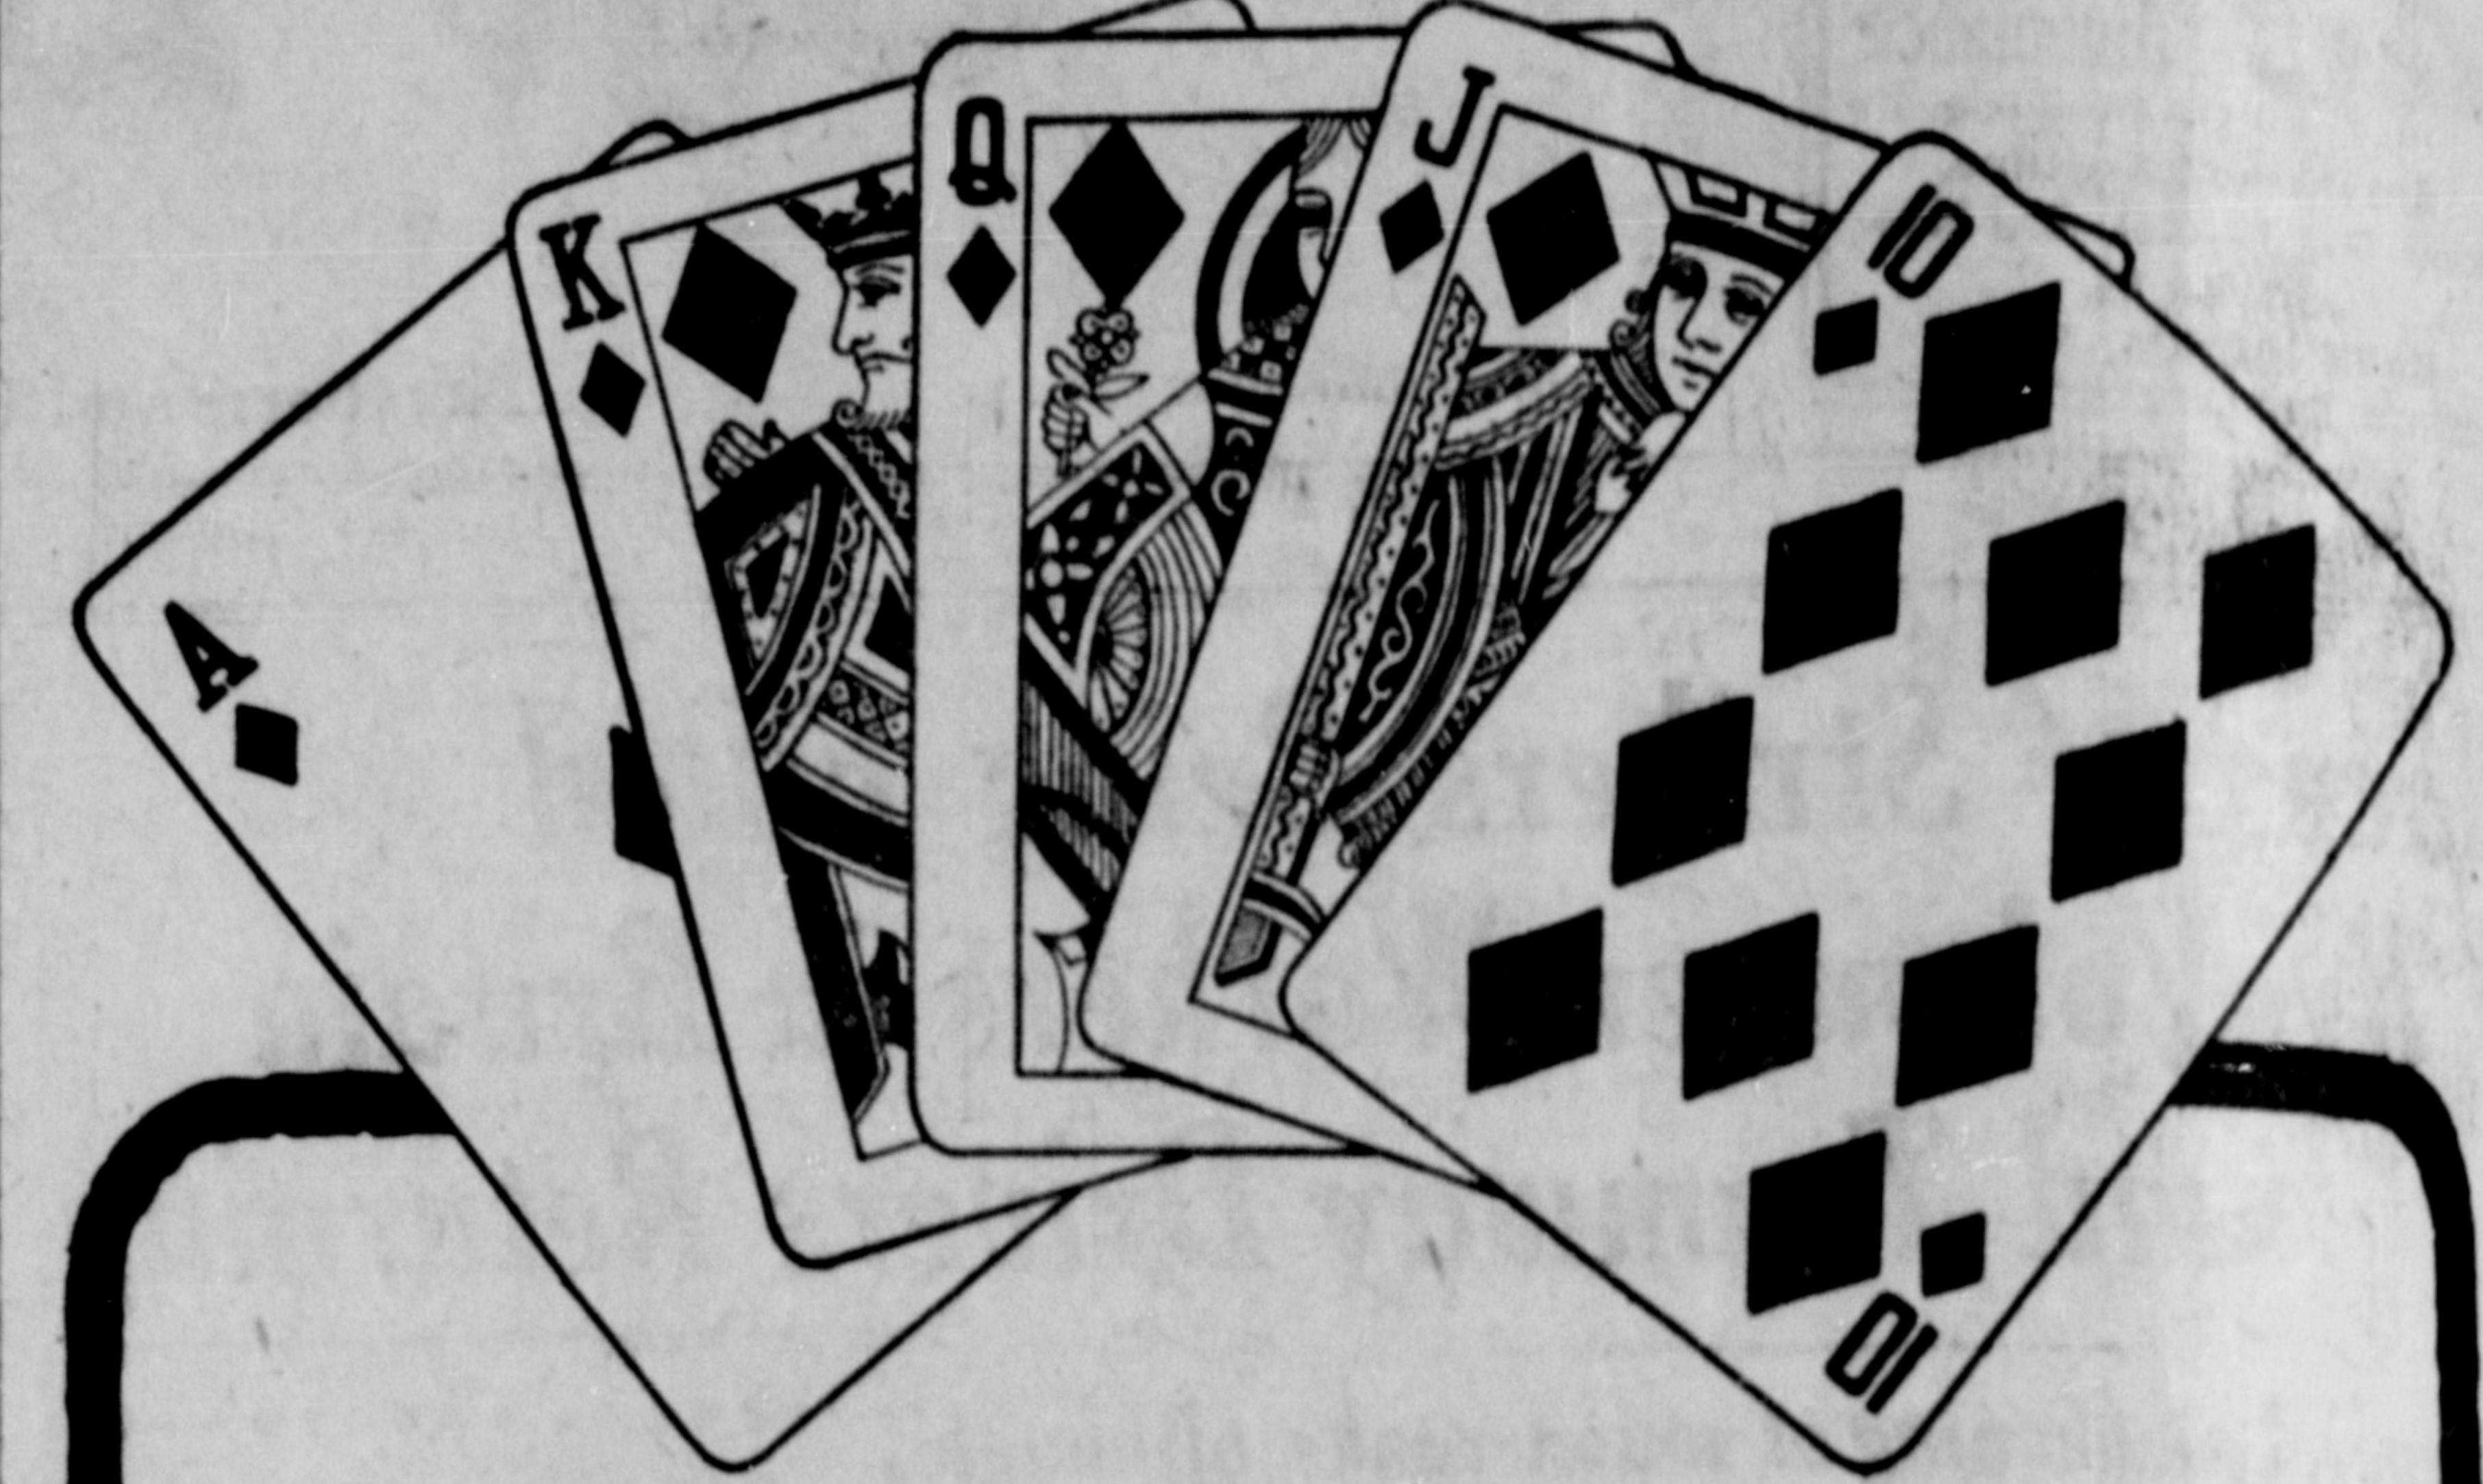

Government Wharf Work

With a week or so still being required by John Currie & Son to finish their substructure work at the government wharf, it will probably be a month before the biological station and Bacon Fisheries warehouse, for which Mitchell & Currie have the contract, will commence to take shape. In the meantime, Jim Bacon is "carrying on" his smoking operations, etc., under considerable difficulties in quarters necessarily made somewhat inconvenient through the wharf decking having been torn up on all sides.

The halibut schooner Nautilus, Capt. H. Wall of Smith Island, has been outfitting this week for trolling and left yesterday for Dundas Island.

The keel for a 40-foot seine boat was laid this week at the Suga Ways for F. Fujimoto of Westview. The vessel will be powered with a 20 h.p. Standard motor.

Vessels going up on the Ward Ways during the past week for painting and minor work have
