Mackenzie King Says He Stands for the British Constitution, a Free Self-Governing Nation

ROBB BUDGET IS UNDER FIRE

Premier Meighen Speaks at Wayside Station on Way West and Talks Finance

CHALLENGES LEGALITY

Mr. King challenged the legality of the present government's actions. "When the whole matter is understood it will be found that the whole business of this government is as illegal and fraudulent as it is possible to be. The Government in carrying on after it had been refused supply by the House of Commons is as serious a contravention of constitutional rights as can be found in British history. Yet Mr. Meighen had declared that it was all 'foam and froth.'"

Mackenzie King said at the outset of his remarks on the constitution addressed to those who called themselves Conservatives: "Because a condition has arisen which would not appeal to or be approved of by those who called themselves Conservatives, I appeal, not to Tories, who believe only in their own right to rule. These persons differ from Conservatives who had reverence for the constitution and laws of the country and parliamentary procedure which has come down through generations from the Old land."

"I challenge any man or woman in Canada to point to any word or action of mine which may in any way be reflected on the honesty and sincerity of purpose of Lord Byng," declared Mr. King. He paused to allow anyone to take up the challenge and then expressed a hope that a section of the press would take that as an answer to their statement regarding his relations with His Excellency.

LIBERAL PARTY BRITISH

"What the Liberal party is standing for today is British constitutional practice," declared the Liberal leader. "That's all, because we want to see this country remain British. One thing we have in common throughout the British Empire is the constitution under which we live."

EXPLOSION AT PAPER MILL

Seven Men Injured Yesterday Afternoon and One Seriously Hurt

That a big explosion occurred at the Ocean Falls paper plant yesterday afternoon when a modern paper making machine, which had just been installed, exploded, injuring seven men. Alex Morris, one of the injured, being in a serious condition and may die as the result of injuries received, was the word brought to the city by Bill Murray, who returned with the local football team on the Prince Rupert this morning.

The explosion occurred just prior to a change in the shift of workmen. Had the accident happened a few minutes later twenty men would have been around the machinery. It is thought the explosion was the result of the steam pressure in the boiler being too high.

Heavy pieces of machinery were buried through the roof and considerable damage was done to surrounding property.

STOCKS PROVE CHANGEABLE

General Motors Drops in Spite of Big Dividend Announcement.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Sharp reaction in stock prices greeted an unexpected increase in the Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate today. Initial losses, mostly on active issues, ranged from one to five points, but before long a score of stocks sold from three to ten points lower. The reaction embraced practically the entire list, including General Motors, whose directors last evening declared a fifty per cent stock dividend. That stock dropped as much as seven points, but before the market closed a good demand for investment issues helped the prices all around.

Three Elephants Taken But One Again Escapes; Watching Crowds Cheer

Lured from liberty by a woman with an apple in the wilds of the Kootenay forests and taken into custody

Granbrook, Aug. 13.—Only one of the five circus elephants that escaped here five days ago is now at large. He was captured, but later escaped. Details of the capture of the animals has been received from the district where they had been taken into custody.

Like Sampson, the huge pachyderms succumbed to the lure of a woman and their fall from liberty was due, as in Adam's case, to a love for apples. It seems that the Kootenay Indians had taken a prominent part in the hunt on horseback and it was due to the sagacity of an old woman and several companions that the trio was captured, one of which subsequently escaped. Coming unexpectedly upon the animals, the squaw detached herself from her companions and approached the elephants with an offering of apples, which was readily accepted. More apples were brought and finally the old klootchman managed to tie together the front feet of the beasts.

Some Indians then rode to Cranbrook and returned with the circus men who brought the fettered elephant to town, and the other two followed of their own accord.

While being loaded into freight cars, one of the big creatures suddenly bolted to the open, when the crowd set up a roar of cheers.

One car of the special circus train is detained here, according to company officials, as a guarantee to the authorities that the escaped elephants will not be abandoned by their owners.

HUGE RUN OF PINK SALMON

Masset Inlet Not Only Supplying Canneries There But Many Others

That more pink salmon are being taken in Massett Inlet this year than ever before is the word brought today from the Queen Charlotte Islands. Not only are the canneries there working day and night in order to handle the huge supply, but load after load of the fish are being taken to Wales Island cannery, to the two canneries here and to a number of others that are buying there.

Among the latest boats to be pressed into the service as salmon packers is the Inez H., owned by the Ness Brothers.

THE PUBLICLY EXPRESSED OPINION OF A CONSERVATIVE

"In my view the whole of this western movement should be directed to the port of Vancouver; and all public monies expended upon the Pacific coast should be expended there. There never was a more grossly flagrant instance of expenditure of public monies for purely political purposes than the building of the electric power at Prince Rupert by the Liberal government."
