BIG MERGERS ARE FASHION OF DAY.

Big-mergers are the fashion of the day. An attempt is being made to control the wheat market of the world through the pools. Europe has arranged a merger of a great many of the steel plants with the object of controlling the output and thus insuring a steady market. Everywhere this merging of interests is going on and seems likely to continue. People are learning to handle bigger business every day and it seems as if eventually there will be little room for the small operator in any line.

On a previous occasion we ventured the opinion that if Socialism ever becomes practical it will be through the merging of interests and the training of men to handle them. The elimination of competition is the first step in that direction but there are many dangers by the way and it is doubtful if there is any nation yet able to handle national business with continued success.

POWER OF ENDURANCE GREAT IN WOMEN.

Miss Mary Warburton, an English nurse, was lost in the Hope Mountains on August 25 and was found this week alive and able to tell her story. Snow fell while she was out and she had practically no food. The nights were cold and the sun blazed down on her during the day. Most men would have succumbed but Miss Warburton clung to life tenaciously. She was given up as dead weeks ago, yet she did not die.

OPPOSITION PAPER ON POLITICAL SITUATION.

The Edmonton Journal, a newspaper that supported the Conservative party at the last general election has this to say of the present situation:

After being put out of office for less than three months, Mackenzie King is once more installed as prime minister of Canada. He returns to power under conditions that are very different from those that prevailed during his previous tenure. Last year he appealed for a majority on which he could rely and found himself, after the vote had been taken, in a much weaker position than before. But by the election of two weeks ago his desire has been realized.

Any doubt which may have existed over the attitude towards his administration of the Liberal-Progressives has been dispelled by Mr. Forke's entrance into the cabinet as their representative. The members of that group from Manitoba, where they are most numerous, met last week and approved of his acceptance of a portfolio. Certain stipulations were made, the exact nature of which has not been divulged. But whatever they were, Mr. King must have agreed to them.

With a dependable though small majority at their back, over all the other parliamentary elements, it is open to the premier and his cabinet, colleagues to give the country that stable and efficient government that it requires. They will be under no necessity, for the sake of conciliating those not represented in the ministry, of adopting policies against which their own judgment pronounces or of sacrificing others that they are anxious to put into effect. With a clear mandate to govern, their responsibility is complete.

Canada is at a stage when courage and foresightedness on the part of the men in control at Ottawa will count for a great deal in enhancing its progress. Much reasonable doubt exists as to whether in some respects the new government will measure up to its opportunities. But that its record will soon put an end to this must be the hope of the mass of Canadians, to whom the interests of the Dominion are of vastly more concern than those of any party.

THE PARADE OF FASHION WHERE STYLES ARE BORN

LONDON, October 2.—Changes are taking place continually in the world of fashion. Fall styles are now in evidence and there is a decided tendency to revert to the types of a few years ago. Among the fall novelties are:

Reversible coats that are black on one side for day wear and colored on the other for evenings.

Dainty "teddies" of gold thread to be worn under gold frocks. (Teddies are known to the English Miss as "camibackers").

Tea frocks with detachable capes. Nightcases with two pockets, one for pyjamas and the other for a night-dress.

Fluff fans made from a cock feather dipped in red for the top while the bottom is made from the leg fluff of the bird; they are hand sewn and dipped in gold.

RUBBER GOLF JUMPER

The newest golfing suits have in addition to the woollen jumper and skirt, a rubber jumper which has been prepared for play in wet weather.

SNAKE BRACELETS

Curving snake bracelets that can be worn around the neck, on the arm above the elbow or circling the ankle are a novelty which has just reached London. Rubies, amethysts, sapphires, or emeralds gleam on Eve's head. Gold horseshoe bracelets also are being worn, studded with silver nails.

TOP KNOTS FOR HATS

The so-called "buttonhole" flower, now being worn everywhere but in the title position, has been promoted to the highest point of fashion can attain. It is an amusing and striking feature of the new turban hats and is made from the same fabric as the hat it trims. The satin-faced, duvetyne turban is drawn tightly around the head to a point on the crown where it is surmounted by the "buttonhole" flower. The top knot is usually in a contrasting shade and is repeated in the shoulder flange.

CRINOLINES STYLISH AGAIN

English evening frocks are being lined with stiff muslin, giving them a decidedly crinoline effect.

BUTTONED DRESSES ARE BACK

The growing revolt of English women against frocks without fastenings has brought the "button-down-the-back" dress to the fore again. A number of the new autumn models display buttons and buttonholes. The designers have been kind to downtrodden husbands, however, and have cunningly arranged to give the modern woman the benefit of fastenings without the inconvenience of the old style.

GIRDLES OF GLASS

Girdles of blown glass are the latest in the London woman's fashionable autumn wear. These girdles are made in lengths of two or three feet and are of the most exquisite coloring. They have hundreds of minute strands the thickness of ordinary silk embroidery cotton and have a similar lustre.

WOMEN'S TOP HATS

Silk top hats are now being worn by the fashionable London women. Thus the headgear of the Victorian dandy has been borrowed by his grand-daughter. She has improved on it however, with a colored ribbon with a buckle in front.

SEQUINS PREDOMINATE

This is to be a year of sequins in English society. Entire dresses are being shown at the fall fashion displays covered with glittering silver discs. Evening cloaks of the new wine-colored velvet are ornamented with designs of sequins finished with diamante centres as large as the Koh-i-noor diamond in size and brilliancy. Few dresses, indeed, are seen without being finished somewhere with crystals and pearls, silver or gold.

CALF SKIN BAGS SHOWN

Women's handbags, made from the skins of still-born calves, were a novelty shown at the annual Holland Park Fashion Exhibition for the London trade. Exquisitely soft in colorings and beautifully appointed, the bags are expected to be in great demand this winter to match fur coats.

MANNISH FASHIONS

One English dress designer has evolved an evening dress for women only slightly less mannish than man's own formal attire, while at the other side of the argument there is a noticeable increase in favor for the picture frock.

GERMANS SCAN SHOES

Artistic and attractive footwear will form a more important part of the German society lady's personal adornment this winter than ever before, according to fashion experts. In pre-war days and during the inflation period German shoes were notorious for their clumsiness.

Snakeskin and lizard skin shoes will be in vogue, as will also chevreau and silk shoes with insects of pepla leather. For evening wear, the fashionable lady will don shoes of brocade adorned with hand embroidery in various colors and with luxurious buckles in the form of rosettes or butterflies.

THE MAN IN THE MOON
says:

The first game in the world series was played today. I wonder they never asked me to play.

Prince Rupert had a record month for sunshine in September and a sunfish was caught at Skidegate Inlet. If we could only catch our sunshine and keep it what a happy people we should be!

Now that Mussolini and Chamberlain have got together, I suppose the British Government will be trying some fascist stunts.

If Almee was looking for publicity, it seems to me she attained her end. She is the best advertiser I know outside of Tex Rickard and she pays about the same price.

Gold is probably the root of all evil for the miners have to dig deep enough to get it.

"Rotten" is a common expression used in politics to indicate disapproval of the other party's actions.

If every man has his price it must be remembered that every woman has her figure.

After going to some of the dances in town it is easy to understand why the Dutch wear wooden shoes.

Some are born lucky, others would have been lucky, not to have been born.

A hick town is a place where a woman prides herself on the number of operations.

HIGHER PRICES FOR MUSKRAT SKINS AT NEW YORK AUCTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A new record price for southern muskrat skins was established at the opening of the eleventh annual fall auction of raw furs here yesterday. The best "tops" sold at $2.26 each, which was about $2.00 more than the same skins would have brought a few years ago. The good demand for them and the small quantity offered were held responsible for the high prices paid which averaged ten per cent higher than at the spring sale of the New York auction company. Best northern muskrat advanced ten per cent and
