British Guiana Girl Finds West Friendly
EDMONTON (CP)—Eighteen-year-old Sylvia Mohan did not think she would like an overcoat. Now she's glad she has one.
The shy, soft-spoken girl changed her mind after arriving in Edmonton from British Guiana to attend the University of Alberta. She was accustomed to temperatures no lower than 65 degrees above zero. She found Edmonton a little chilly for her.
"At home we wear cotton dresses all year round," she told a reporter.
But apart from the weather she found nothing chilly about Edmonton.
"British Guiana is noted for hospitality," she said, "but here the people are just as friendly."
Miss Mohan said that Pembina Hall, the women's residence at the University, is "just like living with your own family."
Co-education also is new to her. At home she attended elementary and high school in a convent.
MAY BECOME DOCTOR
A first-year arts student, Miss Mohan may go into medicine. There is a shortage in British Guiana of doctors specializing in women's diseases.
"She found social conventions in Alberta strange. In British Guiana women, especially those of good families, are much more reserved. A few may enter business or the professions but only after they are married."
Sylvia also noted the absence here of strong class distinctions. In British Guiana a girl may have dates but only if the boy is from her own social class.
Georgetown, the capital, is located in flat country and she likes the view of Edmonton from the banks of the North Saskatchewan which runs in a 100-foot-deep valley through the Alberta capital.
In Georgetown the climate is tropical and alligators are frequent sights in the creeks and rivers.
"They never attack you unless you disturb them first," Miss Mohan said.

New Husoy Home Scene of Shower for Bride-to-Be
A surprise bridal shower was held by Mrs. Foster Husoy, Mrs. Jack Eby and Miss Rosalee Thain at the new Husoy home on Fourth Avenue East for Miss Marnie Bulger.
The Rupert-born bride-elect will marry Mr. Gordon Poffenroth in Vancouver early in November.
The evening was spent playing court whist. The winners were Mrs. R. L. Jones, first prize; Miss Daisy Ardern, second prize; and Miss Bulger won the booby prize, a very fitting gift, comprising a set of measuring spoons.
Gifts were presented in a large basket tastefully decorated with pink and white crepe paper streamers. Paper flowers and leaves were tucked around the edge. The basket contained many useful gifts for a bright kitchen.
Refreshments were served by the joint hostesses.
A cake, beautifully decorated by Mrs. A. Husoy, was cut by Miss Bulger. A border of roses and leaves and the words "Best Wishes Marnie" adorned the cake.
Guests included Mrs. D. Barclay, Miss Kaye Nickerson, Mrs. E. Dawes, Mrs. T. Jerstad, Mrs. R. L. Jones, Mrs. R. C. Haugan, Mrs. P. Peterson, Mrs. B. Bussey, Mrs. A. Husoy, Mrs. S. Alexander, and the Misses Nina Youngman, Pat Berry, Daisy Ardern, Jessie Potterton and Magny Bjornere.
Those sending gifts but unable to attend were Miss Diane Kenney, Miss Watson, Mrs. Dowther and Miss Lillian Smith.

Air Cadets See Officers Perform Drill
Air Cadets watched their commanding officer, Dick Garrett, give a session of drill to his fellow officers at their meeting Tuesday in the Armories.
The drill was for the benefit of the cadets to show them how veteran air force officers still retain their basic training.
Adjutant Ned McNeil reported that an orderly room has been established, all cadets have been measured for their uniforms, and a recreational program is being drawn up in addition to lectures and drill.
The projection equipment will soon be set up so that films can be shown.
Norm Haywood gave a lecture on navigation. Others present included Bill Bryant and Chaplain Father Rayner.
