BOOSTING PEACE RIVER

COAL DEPOSITS. The general manager of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company is boosting the Peace River coal deposits and doubtless this will be an added reason for Fisher. Elsie Finley. William Fidler, proceeding soon with the Peace River Railway and especially with giving an outlet to the Pacific Coast. However, it must also be remembered that Telkwa has one of the finest coat deposits in British Columbia. This field has already been drilled and tested and has been found very valuable. It is not very far from the railway but it cannot be developed until rails are laid to it. This coal would be much more suitable for export or bunkering purposes as it is much nearer the Morgan, Kami Miwa, Jack Nelson, May coast than the Peace River coal. The reasonable thing seems to be to get those coal fields developed as soon as possible. The market which the Peace River Oral Ross, Rena Scherk, Margaret Sie coal would supply is already well taken care of by the Alberta mines now oper-

ARTHUR MEIGHEN AND

CONSERVATIVE LEADERSHIP.

Discussing Arthur Meighen and the Conservative leadership the Vancouver Morning Star says:

"He has now lost three general elections in succession and for the second time has been rejected by his own constituents. This is not because of any lack of ability or of the slightest distrust of him as a statesman. It is safe to say that no public man of the day stands higher in the respect of, the. Canadian public for sheer integrity and honesty of purpose than Mr. Meighen. But the Conservative leader, as the Morning Star has noted on previous occasions, lacks gave an interesting talk on Education a certain magnetism, a dash of the genius for handling men which distinguished Having regard to the fact that refresh-Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Few Canadain public men have ments were to be served after possessed it in the same degree as they-our own Sir Richard McBride might be speech Mr. Mann stated that he would mentioned as one who had it in large measure-but, on the other hand, few who hace risen to the first rank have done so in spite of so notable a lack of it as ha handleapped Mr. Meighen.

"In the circumstances the question of the Conservative leadership has been raised within the party itself. It is a matter entirely for the party to decide. It may be remarked, however, that it is one thing to believe that a better leader might be found, but quite another to lay hands on him."

EFFECT OF FUSHION MAKES FOR STABILITY.

The number of straight Liberals returned on Tuesday is approximately the same as at the 1921 election, says the Edmonton Journal. If Mr. King could depend upon them only, he would not have an assured majority and would have to carry on under much the same conditions as in the parliament before last. During the lifetime of that body he could not tell when some question would arise of mind that would put him in a minority, and when he dissolved it he stated that his object was to secure relief from this uncertainty.

In the next parliament his position will however, be very different. It will contain eleven or twelve members who were brought into the field by the fusion of Liberal and Progressive interests. They may be regarded as Liberals to all tents and purposes and with their support Mr. King will be able to dely any possible combination among the other elements. He has thus attained the object at which he was aiming when he appealed to the country in 1925. Provided that he does not sustain reverses at byelections or meet with defections in the campaign just closed, his tenure should be secure until another dissolution. This is not likely to come for another four years at least.

HIGH IDEALS

The present system tends to the demands of modern civilization, from the practical point of view.

Mr. Mann closed by reminding his hearers that scholastic attainment of menus itself was not the only aim of education nor the only guarantee of successin its fullest and richest sense-in life and made a plea that all should recognize that a clear conscience, the re sult of a clean life was vital. The speaker was thanked for his excellent address and after the singing of the National Anthem all adjourned to the Domestic Science rooms where refreshments were served.
