CHURCH SOCIAL AT ESSINGTON

Addresses Given by Natives Proved Very Interesting and Instructive

PORT ESSINGTON, Jan. 8. — The young people of the United Church Sunday School entertained their parents and friends recently at a social at which Rev. W. H. Pierce presided, and a most enjoyable entertainment was given, as well as addresses by natives. The singing by the young folk was excellent, one of the school boys, Willie Spalding, presiding at the organ. Refreshments were served from 7 to 8 o'clock and a special donation of fruit bread by the Prince Rupert Bakery was much appreciated.

Native Speeches

There were three speeches by the natives. Chief Simon Wallace spoke of social life amongst the natives in the olden days. It was then customary for all to go into the woods, each one taking his own food. No one was allowed to partake of his own. No one was admitted into the circle unless he brought food along. Should one arrive empty handed, he was compelled to return, feeling greatly discouraged and, as he left, a song was sung to shame him. Comparing the present social with that of the old life, he considered that much improvement had been made. "In this social, instead of eating dried berries, sea-weed, etc., you have brought us good bread and cakes, tea, milk, and sugar."

Church Work

Mark Bolton said "My speech tonight will not be a funny one. It will deal with Church work. Fifty-four years ago the Methodist church established this mission here at Port Essington. Several missionaries and teachers have been sent during that time. Some have died. Now, the name "Methodist" has gone, and we are called "The United Church of Canada," and this is the first public service given in this church since the name was changed. We are not disappointed with the change. This is a large gathering and the fact of both whites and Indians being present, shows a friendly spirit. I urge all you young people to do your utmost to help yourselves and endeavor to do everything in your power to help the church."

Benjamin Brown spoke on the value of education. He urged the young people to work hard, and obtain all the knowledge possible. He, himself, had missed many good opportunities while young, and was now sorry.

Their former day school teacher, Miss Noble, who was present, surprised her old pupils by giving them a fish-pond which they all enjoyed.

The last surprise of all which was quite unexpected, was a visit from Santa Claus. He presented each child with a gift and box of candy. After the singing of "God Save Our King" all dispersed feeling thoroughly happy.

NEVER MIND WORRYING ABOUT VANCOUVER BUT HUSTLE FOR BUSINESS

That was Advice Given Members of Rotary Club by Speaker Yesterday Afternoon

Yesterday afternoon a pinch hit address was given by H. F. Pullen to the Rotary Club in which he urged members to forget to knock Vancouver but instead of doing so to keep busy upholding the cause of Prince Rupert. It was a natural thing, he said, for individuals to work for themselves in business, in professions or in sports, so it was up to each city to work for itself. There may easily be co-operation when both Vancouver and Prince Rupert were ready to handle grain which was now going east. By uniting their forces they would strengthen their cause.

The speaker told of his recent efforts to interest grain men in Prince Rupert and of the desirability of every person being a missionary for his own town. He said he found Vancouver people intensely interested in the northern port and ready to co-operate in any possible manner as long as it did not conflict with their own business interests.

During his visit to the south he visited and inspected one of the Dominion Government elevators now operated by the Harbor Commission and saw how the grain was loaded, dried, cleaned and sacked. None of the elevators were working to capacity and it was only by educating the people of the prairies in regard to the western route that the coast ports would get the business which was rightfully theirs.

WINTER TRAVELLERS COMING THIS WAY

Extra Sleeper was Brought in on This Morning's Train from the East

Winter excursionists, the travelers being mainly farmers from the prairies coming to the Pacific Coast on holiday bent, are commencing to come this way. Business of this nature being handled today necessitated an extra sleeper being placed on the passenger train that arrived from the East this morning. The most of the excursionists proceeded south on the steamer Prince Rupert.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

S. M. Newton and M. P. McCaffery are in the field for the 1926 mayoralty. Mr. McCaffery announced himself some weeks ago and Mr. Newton came out today.

A disastrous fire wiped out several buildings in the east end of Prince George last night. It is reported that three lives were lost but no details as yet are available.

The city council went on record last night as opposed to a charter being given the B.C. Telephone Co. by the federal government.

CATHOLIC CLUB AT SMITHERS HOLDS AN ENJOYABLE BRIDGE

SMITHERS, Jan. 8.—Another very enjoyable evening was spent at the Catholic Club rooms on Tuesday night on the occasion of their monthly whist and bridge drive. Those in attendance made up six tables of whist and seven of bridge and after more than three hours of delightful play the winners were:

Whist: Mrs. J. Connery and J. Senkpiel first and Mrs. F. Johnston and Geo. Orchard second.

Bridge: Mrs. G. H. Wall and H. G. Windt first and Mrs. S. P. Bennett and L. B. Warner second.

As usual dainty refreshments were served following the cards.

LESLIE WARDLE WAS VICTIM OF ACCIDENT

It was Leslie Wardle, a well known and popular young employee of the Pacific Mills at Ocean Falls, who lost his life in the plant last week. The circumstances of Wardle's death were both tragic and horrible. He was drawn into a machine known as a beater which is used for crushing waste material into pulp and, by the time the machine was stopped, his life had been crushed out. The lower part of his body was mangled to a pulp.

Wardle, who is 18 years of age, was an athlete. He took several prizes at Bella Coola sports last year.

SPORT CHAT

Ernie Nevers, famous Stanford University grid star, who recently made his debut in professional sport, has been signed on with the St. Louis National League baseball team by George Sisler. Something to the amount of four figures it is believed was involved in the deal which brought Nevers to the Browns.

The action of John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, in signing on practically no new players for the 1926 season is puzzling the eastern baseball world. This is something new for the veteran baseball trader and the impression is general in New York that he has either conceded the 1926 to the Pittsburg Pirates, who beat him last year, or has a big deal in prospect.

Joop Leit, Dutch heavyweight pugilist, is a singer as well as a boxer. After punishing an opponent, Billy Prestage, so severely in Nottingham, England, last week that the latter was forced to give up in the second round, Leip regaled the ringside patrons with operatic airs and so pleased were they that none of them thought to ask the management for their money back because the bout had ended so abruptly.
