GRAIN LOADING RECORD FOR COAST

CITY AND CENTRAL INTERIOR IS IN GRIP OF COLD SPELL

Local Elevator Puts 5,400 Tons of Wheat on Boat in Six Hours

Bank line freighter will get away tonight or tomorrow morning---Ypres Maru goes on berth tomorrow night---wheat coming steadily

What is considered to have been a Pacific Coast time record end of last week which culminated in for loading grain was achieved on Saturday at the Wheat Pool's ele- her death. She was but fourteen years rator here when 5,400 tons of wheat was loaded into the Bank Line of age. freighter in six hours. Such a record also compares favorably with anything that has ever been done at the Lake or Atlantic coast ports. While there were some delays in getting the Yoseric ready for loading, excellent time has been made in pouring the grain into the wessel and she will finish loading tonight, clearing tonight or tomorhow morning for the United Kingdom or continent.

stroyed at Squaw Harbor in a gale described by cld timers as the heaviest in Fears that the storm which has raged since Wednesday over the Aleutian Islands and the Alaskan peninsula has done even more considerable damage were roused here after an unsuccessful effort lasting 24 hours to communicate with the north by radio.

WAITING FOR WORD Since 6 o'clock Saturday night, no word was received from the powerful naval station at Dutch Harbor which usually is in hourly communication with navy headquarters here. Attempts to communicate with U.S. Commissioner Driffield who maintains a private station at Unga on the peninsula were fruitless. The last message received from Driffield was on Saturday which said "Wind swamped small boats, blown fishing schooners on beach, tore shingles from housetops."
