Right and Freedom of Nation Challenged by Trades Union Congress Says Government

No hope of avoiding general strike; offers of help pouring in from all over country; troops at Liverpool

REPUDIATION ASKED FROM UNIONS

LONDON, May 3.—The action of the Labor Congress in calling a general strike and other overt actions involves a challenge to constitutional right and the freedom of the nation, declares the government in a statement issued by them this morning. "The government therefore, if it is to continue negotiations, must require from the Trades Union Congress both repudiation of the actions referred to that have already taken place and immediate unconditional withdrawal of the instructions for a general strike."

Any hope of avoiding a general strike that hung upon Sunday's negotiations between the Government and the Trade Union Congress vanished at one o'clock this morning when it was officially announced that negotiations had broken down. The Government immediately issued a statement refusing to resume them unless Congress withdrew other overt acts which the Government describes as "challenging constitutional right and the freedom of the nation."

No Excitement

A government spokesman, talking to newspapermen this afternoon said: "News from the country is eminently satisfactory. There is no excitement and everything is normal. Offers of services are pouring in from all over the country."

One thousand troops were landed at Liverpool today and proceeded to the famous Aintree race course where they are being held in readiness to move to any part of Lancashire at a moment's notice.

EDITORIAL GREAT STRUGGLE

SETTLEMENT BASIS CAN BE REACHED IS OPINION OF LABOR

There is a great struggle going on in Great Britain, the culmination of an agitation which has grown out of the war and the hard times which followed it.

Owing to competition from Germany and other European nations, to the disarmament program under which the building of warships has been curtailed, and to other industrial causes, British industries have suffered greatly and there has been a growing feeling of unrest in the country. This has made it possible for labor leaders to issue the general strike order at the week end.

The present outlook is not a pleasant one. While the despatches arriving here are brief, they convey the idea that much may be hidden below the surface and that developments may be rapid. No one knows what tomorrow may bring forth. Whatever happens is bound to have a powerful effect on this continent and especially on Canada.

Another Million and Half Men Expected to Join the Million and Quarter Strikers

LONDON, May 3.—Unless the unforeseen happens it is expected that another million and a half men will cease work at midnight and join the million and a quarter miners who are idle.

Premier Baldwin told Parliament this afternoon that a continuance of the coal subsidy to the coal industry was out of the question.

The strike situation cast a pall of gloom over the financial district, although, according to responsible railway authorities, it is not likely that the whole train service will cease, if the threatened general strike becomes effective.

On the other hand it is stated both by members of the National Railways' Union and the Society of Locomotive Engineers that they will obey the strike call to a man but have offered to run food trains.

Premier Baldwin Places Strike Position Before Parliament in Address

Declares nearer civil war than ever before in centuries; pleads for reopening of negotiations by opposition leaders

LONDON, May 3.—Premier Baldwin told Parliament today that labor leaders by ordering a general strike were threatening the base of orderly government and were nearer proclaiming civil war than Britain had been before for centuries.

"The only light heard in the country today are those who either envy or hate us because they see the whole of democratic freedom entering a course which, if successful, can only substitute tyranny," the Premier declared. "It is not wages that are in peril but freedom of our very constitution."

J. H. Thomas, who followed, pleaded for the reopening of negotiations.

Lloyd George joined him and said he believed the House should agree to limited continuance of the coal subsidy. "Not two per cent of the people would vote for revolution," he said. "This situation is not revolution but a plain economic dispute in which justice is wanted."

Inquiries Made Regarding Coal Development Near Telkwa and Possibility of Securing Market

Stating that he is interested in the development of a large tract of coal lands on the Morice River near Telkwa and is anxious to secure certain data on the possibilities of marketing, etc., Alexander Cunningham, M.E., of the Combustion Control Co., New York City, has written the Prince Rupert Board of Trade seeking the following information:

- What is the tonnage of coal received at Prince Rupert from Vancouver Island and what is the selling price of same?
- What is the price of fuel oil and quantity used by the railroad and for bunkering vessels?
- What would be the freight rate on coal from Prince Rupert to Vancouver?

4. What facilities have you for loading coal cargo into ships?

5. In the event of our developing the mines referred to, what assistance would the Prince Rupert Board of Trade give in opening a campaign to get the railroad to burn coal instead of oil in its locomotives?

The communication states that should the mines on the Morice River be opened up, it is expected there would be an expenditure of $2,000,000 and estimates show that coal should be delivered in Prince Rupert for about $1.50 per ton.

Board's Reply

The secretary of the Board of Trade has answered that 19,000 tons of coal is consumed annually by residences and small industries in the city of Prince Rupert and that the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. uses 8,354 tons and the dry dock 1,000 tons and, in addition to this 75,000 tons is used in Alaska. Mine run coal from Vancouver Island is sold to the dealers for $10 per ton. Figures are also given by the board as to the retail price of fuel oil here though information is not available as to the price paid by the railway company. The project of coal bunkers here, the reply states, is being worked upon. The Board gives assurance that $4.50 per ton coal here will capture the market although there is little likelihood of the railway company being induced to use it on account of the price paid by the railway company. The Board also suggests the possibility that the Granby Co. might become a purchaser of coal produced in this district.
