CANADIAN FISH IS FINEST ON CONTINENT

Difficulty is With Cooks Who do Not Know How to Prepare it

HAMILTON, March 24.— The Hamilton Spectator says editorially:—Mrs. Evelene Spencer declares Canadian fish to be "the finest on the continent," and she is an expert and knows. She also said that cured Nova Scotia fish were extremely popular in the United States, by reason of the fact that no other place could do the curing so well as that province. Yet Canadians, for the most part, neglect this source of healthful food, in spite of the "Eat More Fish" campaigns and other government efforts. Why is it? Mrs. Spencer gives some reasons, and they are most interesting. One is that the average Canadian housewife does not know how to cook fish properly. It is an art that has been mastered by Europeans and Asiatics, and that is why fish is so much more popular with these people. And men always insist on the proper "tools for cooking" Mrs. Spencer remarks significantly.

On that day the Lord Bishop of London, the Right Rev. A. F. Winnington-Ingram, D.D., expects to be in Victoria and will assist in the cornerstone ceremonies.

The Bishop of Columbia has invited the Primate of the Anglican Church in Canada, the Most Rev. S. P. Matheson, Archbishop of Rupertsland, to be present on the occasion. Question of Oriental Shipments Through This Port is Again Discussed

MATTER OF SPEED

Encouragement Needed to Make Success of Enterprise it is Stated

VANCOUVER, March 25.—The amalgamation of the big Japanese steamship lines under the control of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, which is now in process and will be completed in a few months, brings up again the suggestion that the big Japanese line would, with a little government and railway encouragement, put on some of their fast liners to operate a service between Yokohama and New York via Prince Rupert and the Canadian National Railways.

It is pointed out here that by that route at least a day could be gained in the delivery of silk at the eastern market and possibly a day and a half if the railway line out of Prince Rupert were put in good shape. Bonded goods could be sent through from the East and this would help provide return freights on the grain trains that will be shipping through the northern port soon.

The Tenyo Maru is the first ship transferred to the big company under the new arrangement and each ship as it arrives in Yokohama is transferred to the new management.

The Diet is now considering granting a subsidy to the big company, which will include the building of four big motorships of 17,000 tons each making a speed of 19 knots. These ships operating through Prince Rupert could beat anything put on by any other company by any other route.
