

EVERYONE GOES EPSOM RACES

Great Metropolitan is to be Run Tomorrow: Some of the Favorites For Big Event

LONDON, April 19. — Epsom Downs tomorrow will once again be the centre of the British turf world, with the running of the spring handicaps, the Great Metropolitan Stakes on April 20 and the City and Suburban on April 21. At the end of the month the first two classics of the season at Turf Headquarters will command the stage, but before then many thousands will enjoy the popular "double" at Epsom.

Entries for the features of the Epsom Spring Meeting are considered quite up to the standard of three-quarters of a century. For the City and Suburban, a mile and a quarter, some of the best of last season's classic candidates are nominated, with top weight of 129 pounds allotted to H. H. Aga Khan's Zionist, Zionist, a highly bred horse, was second in the Lincolnshire Handicap last month and second in last year's Derby. His Majesty's Runnymede is not the least among the four-year-olds entered for the shorter handicap. Other entrants who figured in last season's classic fields are Lord Derby's Conquistador, to carry 116, the Aga Khan's the Sirdar, 124, Masked Marvel 128, St. Bevan 116 and Warminster 113.

Carries Top Weight

In the Great Metropolitan, two and a quarter miles, Cloudbank, with a good record last season, is to carry top weight of 131 pounds. Confirmation, winner of the Queen's Prize at Kempton on Easter Monday, is allotted 118, and Brisi, winner of the Great Metropolitan last year, 117. Labadens is allotted 106 and Forseti 128.

The Great Metropolitan Stakes is of three sovereigns each, with 600 sovereigns added, while for the City and Suburban, 1,000 sovereigns are added to the sweepstakes of three sovereigns each.

Victory of Outsider

After the remarkable performances in the two great races already run during the past few weeks, turf followers are more uncertain than ever of their choices. The Lincolnshire and Grand National, however, both were fine performances from the spectators' standpoint, even if the victory of King of Clubs, a 100-to-one shot, in the Lincoln upset calculations of the betting element. This year's Grand National was one of the best of the long series, though many were disappointed when Old Tay Bridge, gallant old steeplechaser, was beaten on the flat by Jack Horner, a 25-to-one outsider. John Anthony on Old Tay Bridge furnished the thousands of spectators with the finest sample of cross-country riding since he himself went over the course in 1911, but, as last year, after leading at the last jump, Old Tay Bridge was beaten by a horse that finished faster on the flat.

SPORT CHAT

Prince Rupert has no public gymnasium. Anox has one. The Granby News, published at the smelter town, carried the following comment appreciative of the institution in its last number:

"More and more as each winter passes the place filled by the gymnasium in our community life attests to the wisdom of those who were instrumental in having it built. Owing to the many uses to which it is put, one cannot help but wonder how the days and nights were spent when work and sleep were over with, and that third eight hours came 'around and had to be 'put in' somehow. There were pictures, of course, several nights a week; an occasional dance, with a concert now and then, which undoubtedly gave satisfaction to some. Others, while fortune smiled on them at least, would attend the daily and nightly gatherings in certain quarters where the bulk of the pay check was but a transitory possession in the hands of the many. But even the majority of those but excitement hunters and seekers after amusement in an effort to forget the job for a few hours would have welcomed other diversions and have been better satisfied: while there were a great many others to whom these things did not appeal.

"With the building of the gymnasium, however, new interests were created for some and latent ones came to life again in others and the more or less regular plaint of "nothin' doin' in Anox" soon became a memory. Building the gymnasium, even if no, as complete as everybody might wish, was a good move, as there were a big percentage of athletically-inclined young fellows in the camp, more probably than in most places of a like nature and size; and they were particularly interested in sports where youth and speed would count for everything. While any place could be used for physical jerks, there is not much attraction for the young in this manner of exercising; it was floor space they wanted, the rush of the basketball, the burst of speed, the clash of bodies, the chance to win in athletic competitions that sought expression.

"Youth must be served. Difference of opinion makes horse racing," a saying of Mark Twain's, which is applicable to all competitive sports as well. The spectators have their favorites and they follow the fortunes of their choice, expressing themselves through the fullness of open lungs and pay for the privilege and are pleased because it is so, especially those who back the winners. All of which is mighty good, for the participation in sports makes for clean living on the part of all engaged. There cannot be too much of it, winter or summer, although there is a considerable tendency among high school girls and boys to neglect their studies for various games, especially basketball. Over-indulgence in anything is a mistake; there should be reason in all things; but the body should come first after all; for what's the good of learning if it isn't fastened to a trunk capable of using it to the best advantage?"

DANCE AT TELKWA VERY SUCCESSFUL

Citizens' Affair on Friday Night Proved Unique and Enjoyable

TELKWA, April 19. — Great credit is due to Archie Mapleton and Tommy Smith for the very splendid manner in which they handled the citizens' dance on Friday night last. The crepe paper decorations—which no one can arrange just like Tommy—and the gay Japanese lanterns gave the hall the prettiest appearance which even the most casual observer could not help but notice. Great care had been given to the selection of music and many old favorites found their way on to the long and well played program of dances. Bill Cauldwell's orchestra was at its best, and the addition of a saxophone played by Bert Wilson of Smithers was greatly appreciated. The best refreshments served about 11.30 were much enjoyed.

A large crowd turned out from Smithers as well as others from Round Lake, Walcott and Woodmere. When at 3 a.m. the orchestra played the last waltz everyone went home with the idea that that dance was the best yet.

Miss Mary MacKnight of Round Lake was a weekend visitor in Telkwa.

A number of their friends enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bourzon on Wednesday last when they entertained at home. Prizes were won by Mrs. T. M. Owens and M. T. Berger, consolations going to Mrs. G. Timmermeister and W. W. Noonan.

Rev. Mr. Gibson held service in Telkwa on Sunday morning and for the first time, in the afternoon he preached at the Quick school. The latter service was very encouraging to Mr. Gibson and in future he will preach at Woodmere Round Lake and Quick once a month.

After spending many months with her brother and sister-in-law, Constable and Mrs. A. Fairbairn, Miss Jessie Fairbairn left on Sunday morning's train for Edmonton.

While driving in from near the Morden ranch on Thursday last J. P. Wheeler had an accident. The car was overturned, and Mr. Swift who was with him was very badly bruised and shaken up.

After spending several days in town with the local police, Inspector Aeland returned to Prince Rupert on Sunday's train.
