Justweds to Live in Smithers Following Southern Honeymoon

A beautiful wedding was solemnized in the First United Church last Thursday when Evelyn Doreen McNab became the bride of Donald Wellington Trew of Smithers. The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. L. G. Sieber.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Charles McNab of Prince Rupert and the late Mrs. McNab. Groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Trew of New Westminster.

Approaching the altar, on the arm of her father, the bride was gowned in white rayon with nylon net-over-satin, complete with floor-length veil and lace cap adorned with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Bridal attendants were Miss Retta Long and Miss Helen Strachan, niece of the bride. Miss Long wore a gown of sheer mauve nylon and floral head-dress and also carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Miss Strachan was gowned in rose sheer crepe, floral head-dress and also carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Best man was Mr. David McNab, brother of the bride. Ushers were Mr. John Strachan, the bride's brother-in-law, and Mr. Robert McNab, another brother. Music was supplied by Mr. Henry Pluym and Mrs. W. Crawford sang "Because."

Reception was held in the Canadian Legion auditorium where the bride's aunt, wearing navy blue sheer and a corsage of yellow carnations, joined the groom's mother in receiving the guests. Mrs. Trew wore gold taffeta with blue velvet trimming, and a corsage of pale blue carnations.

Telegrams of congratulations were received from Sault Ste. Marie, California, Vancouver, McBride, and Smithers. Toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Sieber, responded to by the groom and a toast to the bridesmaids was proposed by the best man, Mr. Dave McNab.

Music at the reception was provided by Dyke McMillan at the piano.

The couple will reside in Smithers where the groom is stationed with the Canadian

Flowers From Feathers to Help Turkey Prices

LONDON — One way to lower the price of Christmas turkey, British housewives are told, is to buy flowers made from feathers.

Farmers, especially turkey breeders, are selling feathers as a by-product to cut production costs. If sales are brisk, turkeys may cost less at Christmas.

The flowers-from-feathers idea results in some life-like designs. For instance, there is a vase of lilies made from "satins," the long soft feathers from a goose's under-wing. These have "leaves" of dyed satins and stems and pistils of turkey quills.

A realistic butterfly made from pheasant feathers adds a final touch. Sprays, posies, hat ornaments, head-dresses and buttonholes can be teamed with anemones, carnations, tulips, daisies and asters, all derived from the farm-yard.

Evening capes are also being made from feathers. One is fashioned in bronze turkey co- quilles that gleam under ball- room lights. Each feather is stitched by hand to a firm base and a matching hat is available for restaurant wear.

"Ye ken that Captain Ball is a verra astute mon an' the way he sees it, puttin' a wee bit bye for the future is the only sensible way to operate if ye dinna want to wurrk all your life. Well a mon never gets any younger, ye ken, so I maun follow the Captain's advice. Ye might say it cuts down on my activities in port... but as I said before, a mon disna get any younger. An' I never heard that settin' a wee bit bye for agin' ever harmed the highly benefishul effects o' Duggan's Dew o' Kirkintilloch!"

Francis G. Peddie, Barrister

"We all play many parts... but few of us ever play a role more important than that of the Good Provider. My own everyday role of lawyer constantly brings home to me the importance of providing for the future. And I know of no other way of doing it than some form of saving. Putting something by against tomorrow is the hallmark of the Good Provider... and the good citizen."

Thomas Craig
"Like I was tellin' the boys, the saving habit just comes natural to farmers. Not the stingy, saving for saving's sake kind, but the healthy saving for a purpose... Take the way we save our corn stalks—chop 'em up and put 'em in the silo—then 'long about late winter, we start withdrawin'—to feed and fatten our cattle for the spring markets... Same thing happens every day 'round the farm. It's the natural, sensible thing to do."

Socrates
"Wherein lies man's happiness? ... Then, what gives freedom from worry? ... Well, what creates confidence in the future? You're tired of my questions? ... That has happened before; so let me give you an answer for a change... the simple practice of thrift creates confidence in the future, freedom from worry and a greater degree of happiness."

Canada Savings Bonds

7th SERIES NOW ON SALE

"In my experience everybody really wants to put something by to be able to fulfill some cherished wish later, to make life easier when our hairs get grey, or to be ready for any unforeseen but urgent need for funds.

For the average man and woman, it seems to me that Canada Savings Bonds furnish just about as convenient a method for saving as is available.

There is a mighty lot of truth in the old saying 'Money burns a hole in the pocket' but if you put your cash into Savings Bonds, it puts both you and it out of temptation.

There is only one thing that I like about Savings Bonds more than another and that is that you can get your money out of them at a moment's notice without any fuss or without a penny's loss on your investment.

In my opinion there is no better way to save than with Canada Savings Bonds."

GET THE SAVINGS BOND HABIT!
