Hope For Success Selling P.G.E.

It is to be hoped Premier Oliver will succeed in selling the P.G.E. with the help of land grants from the governments concerned. These lands are at present unused and the railways will settle them much more rapidly than will the province or the Dominion government. While the best thing that could happen, it would seem, would be for one of the big railway systems to operate the road, the next best plan would be for some private company to take it over and pay themselves for their trouble out of the lands to be opened up. However, we rather doubt the ability of Premier Oliver to persuade anyone that it would be a good investment. We hope he can and that the purchasers will make a good thing of it.

Learning To Swim Important To All.

Several lives have been lost this year because of inability to swim. Boys and girls grow up in a place highly favored like this and go out into life without being able to keep themselves from sinking if they fall into the water. It's a pitiful condition. It is difficult to understand the mentality of a boy or girl who does not yearn to get into the water and of a parent who refuses to aid in the satisfying of that urge. Many lads from inland points learned to swim in a dirty creek or a stagnant slough. Water they craved and nothing could stop them. Here things are too easy. We have a fine swimming pool with fair dressing rooms and all the conditions suitable to swimming and yet there are those who fail to take advantage of the opportunity. This seems foolish on their part.

Value Of Health Must Not Be Forgotten.

One of the greatest things in the world is good health. Most of us are born with fairly strong bodies but we do not always treat them right. We forget that they are important and we do things which we know are likely to injure them. Some of us eat too much, others drink too much. Others do not take proper exercise, while breathing and the supply of fresh air are both neglected.

Without a strong body it is difficult to do one's work well and physical discomfort is apt to react in mental discomfort. A condition of happiness helps keep the body in good condition, so the cultivation of a happy disposition is something worth while both because of its effect on ourselves and also because it is more pleasant for others.

Greatness Consists In Actions, Not Words.

Greatness consists in actions, not words. Sometimes also it consists in refraining from action. Often it is harder to hold back than to do something. Once a teacher tried to illustrate this by telling his pupils that if struck on the cheek, the noble thing to do was not to up with the fist and hit back but to turn the other cheek and suggest perhaps he would like to hit that, too. Possibly the illustration is a little far fetched but the lesson is that self-control is necessary, is indeed the first thing for a young man to learn.

Games As A Factor In Controlling Self.

Games are very important in teaching a boy or girl self-control. When games cease to do that they cease to be of value. Football, lacrosse, and other sports in which there is team work and in which self-restraint has to be practiced to insure success are the most valuable. As long as the players keep their tempers and play the game like men they are learning lessons in self-control which will last throughout life.

STEWART MINES MAKE PROGRESS

Spokane Paper Tells of Work Being Done There in Letter From Field Correspondent

A special field correspondent of Northwest Mining Service of Spokane writing in the most recent issue from Stewart says: The main cross-cut tunnel of the B.C. Silver Company's property, adjoining the Premier Mine on the north, is expected shortly to open up two more parallel veins which have been strongly indicated by diamond drilling. Concurrently with this work the development of the high-grade ore shoot by up-raising is being prosecuted vigorously. A month ago it was conservatively estimated that in this ore body alone there was now in sight more than one million dollars.

B.C. Silver is consequently looking better than ever, although some time must elapse before it can be put on a regular dividend paying basis. It is the most extensively and deeply developed property, as well as the best equipped, in the whole Portland Canal District, with the single exception of the Premier Mine.

Premier's New Ore-Shoot

Drifting and cross-cutting on the No. 2 level of the Premier has demonstrated conclusively that the new high grade ore body does not exist on that level. It now proves that the shoot of high grade being opened up on the No. 1 level is an off-shoot or fault displacement from the parent ore body. One hundred feet of drifting will bring the new workings on the No. 1 level into old worked out stopes. No. 1 level will begin shortly. As the situation now stands there is a good body of ore available above and probably for some distance below the No. 1 level in the new shoot. Although it is not a separate ore body and does not persist to great depth, it is an important asset.

Early in the present month production of the mine will be somewhere between 400 or 500 tons a day, utilizing to the utmost the enlarged capacity of mill, power plant and tramway. Earnings for some time in the future are consequently likely to show a material increase over those of the last half year or so.

Big Missouri Promising

Although I have not yet had an opportunity of examining the Big Missouri, I am informed on all hands that it has every earmark of a real mine, under progressive management. Although the Big Missouri was turned down by the Premier people, it is the general impression here that they made a mistake.

To Acquire Indian Mines

Engineers in the employ of the Premier Company are constantly examining properties and are now reported to have gotten good results from their recent sampling of the Indian Mines Company's property. A deal for that property is now being negotiated and it seems certain that one will eventually be closed by which the Premier will take over the development and operation of the Indian group. It is located a short distance north of the Premier and on the opposite side of the valley.

Dunwell is doing well and looks like a safe speculation at its present price. Many unusually good speculative opportunities are now to be found in this district and it is confidently expected that others will be disclosed as a result of this season's work.

single and more uniform enforcement. It would be more easy to trace fugitives and there would be relief always at hand when required.

"The question, however," Col. McMullin concluded "is entirely up to the council to decide. I have not come here to ask you to make the change but merely to give you such information as you may desire."

Ald. Jos. Greer inquired, if it were decided to make the change, could the provincial police absorb members of the present city

Absorb Local Force

Col. McMullin replied that, while he could make no definite promise at this time, it was possible that the local men might be absorbed in the provincial force and stationed somewhere else. He felt that it would be better to make an entire change here.

Ald. Perry inquired specifically regarding the chief and Col. McMullin replied that he thought he could safely say that the chief would be taken in.

Ald. Brown asked if the city police station would be used by the provincial police. Col. McMullin replied in the affirmative stating that the city would, of course, be required to pay for water, light, fuel and phone as it did at present.

Mayor Newton brought up the question as to whether six men would be sufficient to police the city. It had often been complained that the present city force was not large enough. Col. McMullin, in answer to this, said that the staff of the district office here would always be available if necessary.

Aldermen's Views

After asking some questions as to what other cities in the province had already made the change, Ald. Casey expressed the opinion that no other thriving and growing city in the province such as Prince Rupert had yet transferred its police authority.

Ald. Stephens felt that it was a step in the right direction to make the change. There were too many police forces in the city and there would be a saving by combination.

Stating that the city stood to save money at a time when it was desirable to save every dollar possible and expressing the belief that the city would be better policed by making the change, Ald. Brown moved that an agreement be entered into with the provincial government to police the city along the lines set out by Col. McMullin. The motion was seconded by Ald. Perry.

City Solicitor Jones enquired as to the term of such an agreement, Col. McMullin replying that it was customary to make it for one year subject to three months' notice thereafter.

Flying in Public Face

In moving an amendment that the question be put to a plebiscite of the people, Ald. Casey stated that he was in no way ready to submit a right that was vested in the people to a foreign authority without first consulting the people. The city was presuming to give away a privilege that the people had long fought for and for some time enjoyed. As to the financial side of the question, he could see no guarantee that a saving would be effected. It was all supposition. By making the change proposed, the city would be going backwards and resolving itself into an autocracy. He did not believe the change would be in accordance with popular sentiment. Before making a step so reactionary and drastic, the mover and seconded he felt would be well advised to give the people the opportunity of expressing themselves. Instead of flying in the face of public opinion and selling the liberty of the people without consulting them, he moved that a plebiscite on the question be taken at the earliest possible date.

Ald. Larsen seconded the amendment.

Mayor Opposes

Mayor Newton stated that he wished to re-echo every statement of Ald. Casey as his own "honest-to-God convictions." He failed to see where there was to
