FEARS OF MR. GUTHRIE.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie is afraid that the ties of Empire may be weakened by the definition given at London of the position in which the self-governing Dominions stand in relation to the conduct of foreign policy.

Then why the alarm? If the Dominions have actually "enjoyed for many years," the status which they are now officially declared to possess, where is the danger that they will proceed to drift toward secession?

YOUTH NOT AT PREMIUM IN TRAIL.

In at least one place in the world youth and good looks are not at a premium any longer, it appears, for the school board of Trail has announced that henceforth these will constitute a bar to engagement in the filling of vacancies on the teaching staff.

IS PROHIBITION GOING OUT?

Ontario has spoken. After ten years' trial of the law known as the O.F.A., the citizens of Ontario, by an overwhelming verdict, have declared in favor of a measure of government control in dealing with the liquor question.

Canada, from Quebec on the Atlantic, to British Columbia on the Pacific, is now working under various systems of government control of liquor.

Will it ever extend south over the international line?—Edmonton Bulletin.

LESS SCOLDING AND MORE ACTION.

You scold your children too much. You make too many assertions that you never carry out. You scold so much that the children pay no attention to your requests—then you wonder why.

Time and again you threaten severe and prompt punishment for a certain action you have forbidden, but you never carry out your threats, so they are not alarmed at your sputtering talk.

And the worst of it is that they are getting more and more disobedient and ill-behaved and you are more and more ashamed of them.

If you would talk less and make them feel the punishment in such a way that it would sink into their thoughts, you might get results.

Some children loiter and stay at the home of a neighbor instead of going directly home, because they expect a scolding.

Parents should realize that all children do annoying things. Expecting that things will happen that should not, is half the battle toward overcoming them.

And don't scold, ACT.—Selected.

PRINCE'S MORGANATIC WIFE LOSES ACTION AGAINST HUSBAND

PARIS, Dec. 9.—Zizi Lambrino has lost her court fight against former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania, seeking to establish the status of the six-year-old son Mircea, born of their morganatic marriage.

The case two weeks ago ruled today that it was incompetent to pass on the dispute between these two Rumanians and assessed the posts against Madame Lambrino.

There is a story in the news about a college athlete who dedicated a book of poems to a lady friend, who promptly married him. You might hastily judge that the poet did not deserve such treatment, but then you have not seen those poems.

YOUNGEST M.P. WILL REPLY TO THRONE SPEECH

LOUIS AUGER, OF PRESCOTT, TO PITCH FIRST BALL FOR LIBERALS

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—Louis Auger, member of the house of commons for Prescott county, Ontario, will move the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the house of commons tomorrow when the pre-Christmas session gets under way.

The seconder of the address this year will be Evan Macpherson, member for Portage La Prairie, whose particular claim to fame in Liberal circles is that he defeated Right Hon. Arthur Meighen in the September election, and was undoubtedly one of the contributing causes to the retirement of the former Conservative chieftain from public life.

The opening meeting for the season of the High School literary society was held last evening. A varied and interesting program was presented.

Miss Barbara Tulloch, and Miss Mildred Brenton reached the city this morning from California en route home to Winnipeg.

Lieut.-Colonel Percy A. Guthrie, officer commanding the 236th Battalion (The Killdees Regiment), will be in the city next week and will deliver an address under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society on the war.

CLARA BUTT CLAIMS JAZZ ON DOWNGRADE

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Jazz has passed the zenith of public favor, says Dame Clara Butt, and is now on the down grade.

The famous opera singer, however, does not condemn jazz altogether. "Of its type some of it is really clever," she declared, "and I do not altogether condemn jazz because it has at least had the effect of making English dancing popular. I do contend, though, that jazz now is most assuredly on the wane."

"Who's to blame for measles?" says a headline. As if everybody didn't know it is always the neighbor's kids.

TO ENCOURAGE IMMIGRATION

TWO-POUND FARE WILL RESULT IN INFUX OF BRITISHERS TO CANADA SAYS OFFICIAL

MONTREAL, Dec. 9.—The institution of the two pound rate, following upon the report of the Imperial Conference, is bound to result in some increase in British emigration said C. J. Smith, vice-president of the Canadian National Rys., who arrived in Montreal from London yesterday.

"The fact of the matter" said Mr. Smith, "is that we cannot expect to get all our British emigrants from people actively engaged on the land in Great Britain for they represent a small fraction of the population and they are also perhaps, the only class of workers who are indispensable and among whom there is no unemployment and small desire to migrate. But in the towns and in the cities there are thousands of able-bodied men who would come to Canada under the two pound rate. Not "down and outs" and "unemployables" but citizens of the best type, honest, industrious, intelligent, adaptable, who, in the circumstances which oppress Great Britain today, through no fault of their own, are unable to face the prospect of having to pay approximately $125 each for the fare. Extension of the two pound rate to cover these men, besides permitting the migration of thousands of desirable settlers, would encourage the migration of people with small capital, whose means would otherwise be dissipated in paying the fares of themselves and their families."

SUITED FOR SETTLEMENT "I am not sure that I quite like the term "inexperienced men" said Mr. Smith, "for, among those who are classified, are men used to hard work, able to drive and care for horses and in every way suited for land settlement."

"Yet half of our Canadian farmers were born and bred in towns. Migrant, experienced Englishmen, who landed in this country, comparatively speaking without a cent, have won the highest awards for wheat and scores of farmers in Canada openly prefer "inexperienced" townsmen of the right type who, they say, have nothing to unlearn are more adaptable, and possess more initiative and ambition to succeed."

"An important sidelight on the question of inexperienced men," continued Mr. Smith, "is afforded by the correspondence course in Canadian farming which our department of colonization started two years ago. Some people will smile at the idea of teaching farming by mail but the fact remains that, of the hundreds of men who have taken this course before going to Canada and whom we have settled on the land, not one has complained or been the subject of complaint. The course does not pretend to turn them into practical agriculturists which would be impossible and absurd, but it gives these men an understanding of fundamental principles, making allowances for different parts of the country. More important still it gives them the right mental attitude towards farm work. The course also acts in a selective way for only the first type of migrant will go to the trouble of preparing himself for a life in a new country by undertaking a four months' course of spare time study."

"Canada wants men like these and it is our intention to make a bigger drive than ever in bringing this course to their notice," Mr. Smith said. "A good deal has been done in Europe in encouraging tourists, freight and express business and emigration, new offices have been opened in Paris and Gothenburg, Sweden, an enterprise which has been much appreciated, especially in France, where the needs of Canadians in Paris and of tourists from both sides of the Atlantic, have been given special attention. Among those who have complimented the company in respect to the Paris office have been H.R.H. the Prince of Wales."

SATISFACTORY FEATURE "Another satisfactory feature," Mr. Smith declared, "is the way in which the type of service which now characterizes the Canadian National Railways, is becoming known in Great Britain where Sir Henry Thornton's railway administration is regarded with the highest admiration."
