HORRIBLE MURDER AT PORT ESSINGTON

CELEBRATION YESTERDAY PROVED SUCCESSFUL ESPECIALLY EVENING EVENT

Horrible Murder of Teacher at Port Essington on Sunday One of Most Brutal Known in North

Miss Loretta Ghisholm, aged 24, school teacher at Port Essington, on Sunday last, fell victim to one of the most atrocious murder attacks ever recorded in the history of this district. Attempt having been apparently made to outrage the young woman, she was brutally beaten. The back of her head was crushed, her jaw and nose broken, chest crushed causing internal injuries and moss had been packed down her throat, mouth, apparently to silence her outcries.

About 9.30 on Sunday morning, the young woman left the house where she was boarding for a walk. She stated that she would be back in about an hour in time for breakfast before going to church. When she failed to return alarm was felt and search parties were instituted about noon. The searching continued throughout the afternoon, evening and night until about six o'clock yesterday morning when the shocking discovery was made. Off the sawmill trail and about a mile and a half from the town, the body was found lying in the bush.

Yesterday morning, the headquarters of the provincial police here was communicated with and a party of officers headed by Inspector Spiller proceeded to Port Essington. The body was brought to the city last night, also an Indian suspected of having been involved in the crime. Chief A. McNeill was left at Port Essington to continue investigations.

An inquest will be held before Deputy Coroner J. R. Tannock as soon as full evidence to be presented in connection with the case has been assembled. The remains are in the hands of the B.C. Undertakers.

Miss Ghisholm had been teaching three years, the first at Tatalrose, south of Francois Lake, the second at Wisteria on Ootsa Lake, and the present year at Port Essington. Her parents live at Eburne where sisters also live. Following her first year of teaching, she took a year at the university and secured her first class certificate.

Speaking of Miss Ghisholm this morning, Inspector Fraser said she was a teacher of ability and high character—"a real lady." Naturally he was much distressed over the horrible crime and on hearing of it he proceeded at once to get in touch with friends of his in Vancouver who would communicate the sad news to the parents.

Last night the news of the horror spread rapidly in the city and today is the chief topic of conversation in and around the city.

More Police Going
Inspector Spiller stated this morning that additional police were being sent to Port Essington to aid in the search for the murderer of Miss Ghisholm. So far as can be gathered unofficially, little progress has so far been made owing to the difficult conditions obtaining at the scene.

There are living permanently at Port Essington about eighty Indians and a number of Japanese and whites and the work on the canneries in preparation for the opening of the season is just beginning. As the season advances the number of Indians and others increases.

G. R. Bancroft of The Pacific Mines Ltd., arrived in the city on the Cardena this morning and will proceed East by tomorrow's train.

May Queen Was Crowned Amid Appropriate Ceremonies at the Exhibition Hall Last Evening

A large crowd of 1,400 adults and children paid admission to the exhibition hall last evening to attend the May festival and jilney that brought the Victoria Day celebration under the auspices of the Fair Board and the Elks' Lodge to a fitting conclusion. Featuring the evening's proceedings were the coronation ceremonies and maypole dancing, the program having been under the capable direction of Mrs. David Thomson whose efforts were fully rewarded in the success that attended the event.

First came the crowning of Miss May Ness as Queen of the May, the scene taking place on the raised platform which had been beautifully decorated, the setting being indeed charming.

The crowning was performed by Miss Myra Kinsler, last year's queen. The maids of honor were Misses Oral Ross and Linnea Hanson while dainty indeed were little Gerry Mann, trainbearer; Betty Brown, crown bearer; Ellen Moore, sceptre bearer, and Margaret Fritz, standard bearer. The costumes were of the Cape Greenaway style and lent much to the color of the ceremonies.

The pretty Maypole Dance then took place, this again reflecting credit on the skill of Mrs. Thomson. The little girls taking part were Ann Kirkendall, Audrey Parkin, Nancy Brown, Edith Kerwin, Muriel Walker, Beatrice Berner, Jean Scott, Elizabeth Wilson, Maxine Heilbronner, Myrtle Ross, Mary Evans, Enid Morris, Edna Ireland, Dorothy Fraser, Hilda Murray, Peggy Smith, Nelda Hilditch and Lucille Brooksbank. Miss Agnes Donaldson was accompanist. After the dance, each of the little girls participating was presented with a box of chocolates by the Queen.

Other items on the program, which would have been a good deal more extensive had it not been for illness among those who were to have taken part, were an Irish Jig by Miss Elizabeth MacLeod and a Sailor's Hornpipe by Miss Edna Ireland, both of which were particularly well executed with Mrs. R. P. Ponder accompanying.

In connection with the general arrangements for the program, Mrs. Thomson was given invaluable assistance by Miss S. A. Mills.

Prizes won on the sports' field during the afternoon were presented by the Queen and then the jilney dance started and was in full swing until 1 o'clock in the morning, music being by Arthur's Orchestra.

W. D. Vance, president of the Fair Board, was chairman of the evening's proceedings and was assisted by members of the Fair Board and Elks' Lodge generally.

All his private engagements were placed aside following the morning round so that he might cover the full course during the afternoon and when he left for the special train which is carrying him East on his last official trip through Canada, he cast a last longing look towards the beautiful home green and remarked that it had been one of the most enjoyable days of his life and the course one of the finest he had ever seen.
