day----deer and bird hunting is going strong---boatbuilding mooted

In accordance with the terms of the International Fisheries treaty, the halibut close season came into effect last Monday, November 15, and will be operative until February 15. It is believed that the last halibut boat of the season has by today marketed its catch at this port. If there are any more, and it is believed by some that there may yet be one or two, they will be small and will not affect the total for the year. Based on computations that have been recorded regularly during the season in the Waterfront Whiffs, and which will shortly be corrected, the total landings at Prince Rupert; for the season up to yesterday were * 26,312,900 pounds of which American boats brought 19,924,200 pounds and
