

Gift Umbrellas

Nobody would think of presenting anybody with an umbrella unless it was at least a fairly good one.

To be acceptable at all—to be worth giving or receiving, an umbrella should cost at least $5.00.

And when there is that much to be spent, the really wise person will see our stock.

Some as low as $2.00. Pure silk in colors around $10.00.

DISPUTE OVER LONDON PUBS.

On One Side of Street They Stay Open One Hour Longer Than on Other

LONDON, March 26—Canadian Press Despatch.—For another year at least the discrepancy in the hours of closing of public houses in the West End of London is to continue. The Marylebone justices have decided to maintain the present hours—namely week-days 11 to 3 and 5 to 10, Sundays 12 to 2 and 7 to 10.

This means that public houses on one side of Oxford Street close at ten while houses on the other side remain open until eleven. The ten o'clock houses have strenuously petitioned to be granted the extra hour, on the ground that it is expedient to have uniformity. The eleven o'clock houses would not particularly object to their rivals being on the same footing as themselves, for they admit that when ten o'clock comes there is a sudden exodus from one side of the street to the other, and a large class of the migrants are not the best class of customer. Residents complain also of the disorder occasioned in the ten o'clock district by the incursion of gangs of more or less sodden looters in search of more liquor. These, it is asserted, often intimidate bartenders into serving them when there is every justification to refuse them. Advocates of the ten o'clock rule declare that closing at this hour is beneficial to children and workers living in the district. It is urged that the Sunday evening closing time should be nine. When the chairman announced the decision to maintain the ten o'clock rule a woman licensee excitedly addressed the bench. "If you realized the seething discontent that faces us when we return to our houses you would sympathize with us, and grant the alteration which members of the public are justly entitled to," she declared.

CONSERVATION OF WILD LIFE IN CANADA IS COMMENDED BY LADY

MONTREAL, March 25.—"We should be proud of the work that our government is doing toward the conservation of wild life in Canada," said Miss Louise Murphy in addressing the Montreal Graduate Nurses Association on Canadian birds. "The wild life of the world is disappearing, but we have eleven national parks which are really succeeding in conserving ours." Illustrating her remarks with lantern slides and original songs from her book, "Sweet Canada," Miss Murphy said its title came from the call of the white-throated sparrow of the Laurentians. In the garden of her Montreal residence on Summerhill Avenue, the speaker herself had twenty-four different species of birds nesting last summer.

CHALLENGE IS GIVEN FOR HEILBRONER CUP

A challenge has been issued by a joint team from the High School and the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve to shoot against a team from the First B.C. Regiment for the Heilbronner Cup now held by the Regiment. The match will take place tonight at the miniature ranges.

Tongue Was Coated Bad Taste In Mouth Every Morning

Mrs. J. R. Adams, Assiniboia, Sask., writes:—"For months I was troubled with a coated tongue, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning.

One day I saw where your Milburn's LAXA-LIVER PILLS were advertised for just such a condition as mine, so I went at once and bought three vials of them, but after using one-and-a-half, all my troubles disappeared."

For 32 years Laxa-Liver Pills have been put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GIRLS RETURN FROM ANYOX

Win Both Games But Only After Close Contest

PLEASED WITH TRIP

After a pleasant excursion to Anyox for a return series of games with the Mine Club for the ladies' basketball championship of Northern British Columbia, the first of which they won by 22 to 12 and the second by 12 to 11, the Maple Leaf basketball team of this city returned home on the steamer Prince George this morning. The last game, which was played on Wednesday, was the closest of the entire series and proved to be a good light contest all the way through although both teams were showing signs of fatigue after a very active week in which four games were played, the first two being here, all of which were won by the Maple Leafs. The Wednesday night ladies' game was only one feature of a big basketball night in the smelter town. Besides it, there were play-offs for Senior and Intermediate league championships, the Gophers winning over the Mine in the Senior game and the High School over the Concentrator in the Intermediate. These, as well as the ladies' game, were refereed by Dan McLeod, who gave entire satisfaction.

The local girls speak in terms of highest appreciation of the splendid reception that was accorded them at Anyox. There was a big dance at the Mine Hall on Tuesday night given by the Mine girls in honor of the locals and on Wednesday night the teams were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin. In addition to the social functions, the local girls were taken through the mine, smelter and concentrator all of which establishments proved very interesting to them.

J. D. Wells, the well known Usk mining man, arrived from the interior on this morning's train and proceeded by the steamer Prince George to Vancouver on a brief business trip.

ST. ANDREW'S WHIST WINNERS

Defeated War Veterans Last Night While Moose Lost to Oddfellows

By defeating the Great War Veterans 6 to 3 last night while the Moose were beaten 5 to 4 by the Oddfellows, the St. Andrew's Society emerged champions of the men's section of the Fraternal Whist League and will play off next week with the Daughters of England, ladies champions, next week for the city championship.

The results of last night's games were as follows:
Oddfellows, 5; Moose, 4.
Knights of Columbus, 5; Elks, 4.
St. Andrew's, 6; Great War Veterans, 3.

The final standing for the season of the men's section is as follows:

SPORT CHAT

In last year's Cambridge-Oxford rowing contest Cambridge started with a stroke of 34 and Oxford 33. The latter jumped into the lead and at the first quarter-mile was a quarter of a length ahead. Cambridge very soon overtook its rivals and at the mile post was leading by about three lengths. At Hammersmith Bridge, nearly two miles from the starting point, Cambridge led by more than 100 yards, and this lead had been increased to 120 yards when the Oxford crew was forced to quit on account of its boat being water-logged. Thereafter Cambridge rowed alone until the full distance of 4 1/4 miles had been covered. The extreme unfavorable conditions under which last year's race was rowed led observers to recall some interesting past experiences along a similar line.

In 1912, when the race was set for March 30, the Cambridge boat sank near Harrods, about a mile and a half from Putney, while the Oxford eight had to bail the water out of their boat before entering Chiswick Reach a mile further on. The umpires declared it no race and it was arranged that the race should be rowed on April 1. Oxford then won by six lengths. Away back in 1859 there was a sensational race between Oxford and Cambridge. Some idea of the conditions on that occasion follows: Oxford won in 24 minutes, 20 seconds, and Cambridge sank. On that memorable day Putney Reach was a veritable sea, and the Cambridge boat shipped water all the way down until it finally sank beneath the waves on passing Barnes Bridge, about a mile from the finishing point. Oxford paddled home in a sinking state.

The first race over the present course, which took place in 1815, also has a prominent place in the inter-university boat race chronicles. In that year the race was rowed with the thermometer registering 12 degrees of frost and ice was floating in the Thames. Previous to the 1925 race there was an epidemic of influenza and both crews were affected by it. Oxford suffered more than Cambridge from sickness and some last-minute changes in the Oxford crew became necessary. The first of the long series of boat races between the two universities was rowed in 1829 but the annual contests were not instituted until some years later.
