Muzz Patrick Really Works Hockey Field

VANCOUVER — Nobody ever accused the Patrick family of not working at hockey. And least of all Muzz, son of Lester, brother of Lynn, nephew of Frank, Guy and Stan.

Muzz not only is majority stockholder in Tacoma Rockets of the Western Hockey League. He also manages and coaches them. He also manages the Tacoma Arena. And sells ads and writes stories for his hockey program. And runs the Pacific Northwest Agency for a manufacturer of hockey sticks.

Muzz recently appeared on a Seattle television show to talk about hockey. He used a blackboard to outline a "typically thrilling play which all Americans would love to see."

Asked about the show what kind of play he was describing with his confusion of chalk lines, arrows and dots, Muzz confided: "Nobody down here understands the game, so I tried to show something which Americans might recognize. Actually, it was a football play—the only one I remember from my high school days, a cross-buck."

Last season, Tacoma drew scarcely 60,000 customers. This year, Muzz started out by handing around a bucketful of free passes, hoping this would attract paying customers to later games. Hardly anybody would come even on the passes.

Muzz isn't too down-hearted about all this. "We're still operating and I've still got my shirt—or most of it," he says.

Demand For Newspaper to Rise in West

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Demand for newspaper will increase twice as fast in the western part of Canada and the United States as it will in the rest of North America in the next decade, Stanford Research Institute predicts.

By 1961 the west will need 35 per cent more newspaper than it uses now, the institute reported in a study made for a group of newspaper publishers.

United States consumption of newspaper for the 10-year period probably will increase by about 18 per cent, the report said.

DEAL, England (CP)—Decorating the bar of his public house in this Kent town was Tom Hayward's latest catch — a crab measuring nearly 12 inches and weighing nine pounds.

Textbooks Can't Replace Judgment in Bidding

The textbooks on bidding tell you exactly what to bid—provided you have the hand shown in the textbook. Usually, you don't. Then you have to use your best judgment.

What do you bid with Mrs. Keen's hand in today's deal after your partner opens the bidding with one spade? Three spades? It's not quite the type of hand for this bid and you really should have at least four of partner's suit. . . . Two spades? You're too strong for that. . . . Two no trump? Not so good, since you're wide open in two suits.

Your best bet is to make a waiting bid in one of the minor suits. Partner must rebid, so you're sure to have a chance to make a strong bid on the second round. Mrs. Keen was on the right track with her two-club bid and while I have no serious criticism of that call, I much prefer a two-diamond bid. The reason is that it is more specific as to the location of your principal high card strength.

Mr. Champion had to make a beautiful play to bring home 10 tricks at spades. Mr. Abel opened the eight of clubs and Mr. Meek was permitted to hold the
