Election Seems Only Solution.

The Mackenzie King government has resigned and Meighan has been called upon to form an administration at Ottawa. The Progressives, after obtaining all they wanted from the Liberal regime, have bitten the hand that fed them, for it was their defection that brought about the crisis which provoked Mackenzie King to submit the resignation of his government after his request for dissolution had been denied by the Governor General. Just as the Liberals depended on the support of the Progressives and others to retain control in the House so will the Conservatives have to do if they decide to take over the reins of government. They cannot hope to hold the support of the Progressives any more than the Liberals were able to do. True, they might take over and hold the administration for the time being if the House now prorogued without any further contentious business coming up but, in parliamentary session, they could hardly expect to retain control.

The situation has indeed come to an impasse. Any party to remain in control must continue to pander to the irresponsible group of Progressives. The air must be cleared and, while even an election might not improve the situation, it seems about the only recourse. It is safe to predict that there will be another federal contest within a twelve-month and it is at least to be hoped that, however it may go, either one of the major parties will have a working majority. It is impossible for anyone to carry on under present conditions.

Much Grain to be Shipped Here.

The announcement by George McIvor, general manager of the wheat pool, that it is the intention to ship ten or fifteen million bushels of grain through the Prince Rupert elevator this year is welcome news. That will mean that fifty or so freight vessels will have to come here to pick up cargo. It will be the largest shipping movement in the history of the city. These ships will bring business to the port and, together with the staff of the elevator, will make conditions much improved during the winter. And, at that, it will probably be only the starting of still greater things in commercial development for this port.

Prohibition May Be Presidential Issue.

Politicians of both the great parties in the United States, Republican and Democrat, are worried over the numerous signs that the wet and dry issue is going to have a foremost place in the 1928 presidential campaign. Many of them would like to thrust it aside, but the signs are increasing that it will be impossible to do so.

Should the 1928 campaign resolve itself largely into a wet and dry fight it would be embarrassing to most of the leaders. Raising of this issue will inevitably tend to throw other issues into the eclipse. If the prohibition controversy becomes hot, all the important economic issues are likely to be completely overshadowed.

The fact that Senator Borah of Idaho has lately come out in support of the drys against the idea of a referendum on prohibition is interpreted as meaning he is a presidential aspirant and is playing for the support of the drys, including the Anti-Saloon League and kindred organizations. President Coolidge lately has taken a course which many believe is intended to solidify himself with the drys.

Governor Al Smith of New York just now is looming up as the man most likely to get the Democratic nomination for President in 1928. He is an avowed wet. Should he be named, a Republican nominee who had the support of the drys throughout the country would be in a strong position to win if the contention of the drys is true that the country on a test would be overwhelmingly for prohibition.

In any event, the manoeuvres of political leaders of both parties, particularly presidential aspirants, on the liquor question from now on are going to be watched with keenness. The liquor question is looming up to a degree that was unknown in 1924 or 1920 or, indeed, in any presidential campaign year heretofore.

High Marks

"It may be asked," said Mr. Fraser, "whether these candidates from outside points usually meet with success. In reply I would say that usually the candidate who is anxious to succeed does so in spite of everything. For instance last year a girl of 15 at an outside point, Muriel Crawford, of Stewart, made a total of 860 marks on matriculation, one of the highest in the province, and the highest in this inspectorate."

SMITHERS

M. E. LeBlanc of Seattle, joint owner with A. S. Millar and other local men in several mining properties in the district, arrived in town Thursday evening and is looking over the claims he is interested in and planning further development work with his partners.

The Telkwa baseball team accompanied by a bunch of red hot fans motored over to Smithers on Thursday evening for another twilight game of ball with the local nine. The play was fast and snappy, keeping the large crowd of rooters keyed to a high pitch throughout the game. The local boys were victorious by a score of nine to six.

Mrs. J. Roberts left for her home in Prince George on Friday after a couple of weeks' visit with friends in town. She was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Marjorie Roberts, teacher of the Dredford school.

Miss Mary Fawcett, teacher of the junior grades at the local school, left for her home in Vancouver on Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barrett were visitors in town on Friday and Saturday. Mr. Barrett reports the crops in his district are now looking good, although the spring was backward, making the growth slow until the warm weather of the past few days came along and everything is now forging ahead. Mr. Barrett also comments on the caterpillar pest, there being countless millions of them working in the Barrell and Houston sections. The poplar trees for miles are stripped of every vestige of green leaf.

Philip J. Job of Vancouver arrived in Smithers Friday to commence another season's development work on the Mount Evelyn

Still Enjoying Life at 84

Thanks To That Wonderful Remedy

Mrs. F. H. Miller, 1843-11th Ave. East, Vancouver, B.C., writes: "Five years ago my husband suffered terribly with severe attacks of palpitation of the heart and smothering spells, and two doctors stated that he could not possibly live six months."

A friend recommended Milburn's H. and N. Pills, with the result that my husband is still enjoying life at the age of 84 years.

He has improved so wonderfully that he can now climb the stairs without having those awful pains in his heart."
