SMALL PARK LOOKS ATTRACTIVE.

A prominent visitor to the city who was driving around enjoying the sights of Prince Rupert was very much impressed with the view of McClymont Park at the corner of McBride Street and hesitant upon the life's threshold! "Let- funds collected in the period of Selfeleventh Avenue. The green sward and the Gyro apparatus and ing I dare not wait upon I would." With Denial are used to maintain these serwading pool give it a very attractive appearance and indicate that the faith, nowever, of a grain of mustard vices. From the beginning the Army the people here are intrested in the welfare of the young people and in providing for other than the gross material needs of the community.

In most cities to the south a good deal of money is spent on parks and gardens. In one notable case a small city taxes itself melt into the sea. two dollars a head for every man, woman and child in order to keep up the parks. They consider it a good investment and they make a fine showing.

Now that the city has commenced the work and that it is securing the co-operation of the railway company, it is probable that the work will be extended gradually until it is possible to show visitors that Prince Rupert is not located in the area of perpetual snows but is a city with great possibilities.

When you visit a store you get about all you pay for. If you pay a low price you get a cheap article.

NOISE IS NOT ONLY MEANS OF EXPRESSION.

The Toronto Star says editorially: 'A Toronto lady having won a ten thousand dollar prize for the best novel against twelve hundred competitors from all over the continent, the Hamilton Spectator asks whether Toronto will be as enthusiastic over the achievement of this writer as over George Young who won the great swimming race.

"In Toronto there are several Torontos," the Star continues. "While the great throngs that welcome our athletes home do not turn out to cheer for those who make notable discoveries in medical science, or who achieve triumph in fiction, these do not passs un welcomed or unacclaimed. In quieter ways their home city greets them. They get the approval they prize. And quieter though it is. it is enduring. The scientist is great only while he continues to excel others."

Things are not always what they seem and it is a good thing for some people that they are not.

TOO GREATLY IMPRESSED TO CLAP OR SHOUT.

What is true of Toronto is true also of other places. It is not always the loud demonstration that indicates the true feelings of the people. Take as an example a concert in any large city. humorist or clown is likely to get a large response from the audience. There are times, however, when the hearts of those present are deeply touched by some appealing music and they carry home with stars first sang together for joy." What Aid. Dybhavn and Ald. Montgomery. them the memory of the song or musical selection and it remains with them for many a day and has an effect on their lives and actions.

People too often mistake the frantic yells of the noisy throng for the real voice of the people.

General election announcements are starting early. There will probably be many dozen yet before the Legislature is dissolved.

MANY GOOD CANADIANS NOT BORN HERE.

The other day a Prince Rupert man, visiting in Oregon, was asked what was his country. The reply was "I am a Canadian, born in England." The inquirer looked curiously at him as if he were him where we know he is sure to be some new and hitherto undiscovered species. Yet he was perfectly found. CCHRIST THE LORD OMNIPOTENT REIGNETH: ALL HAIL! ALL HAIL!"

(By Rev. J. R. Frizell, B.A., LL.B., First Presbyterian Church)

Story has it that Columbus set sail from Spain in search of a shorter road to India, but found a continent. We are often nonplussed by life's surprises. We find what we do not expect and the hand, that, pulsating with the power expect what we do not find. What a of Omnipotence, touched the eyes of the tragedy it would have been had these blind man and they opened, and lifted gentle Galilean women found the tomb the damsel from the bed of deathas they had left it. They expected to "Oh. death where is they sting? Oh see a seal intact, they found a broken grave where is thy victory?" Christ the one. They came to see a lifeless Christ, Lord's Omnipatent reigneth. "All Hail! they found a living one. The came to All Hail!" view a body, they met a spirit.

"Life is real, life is earnest, And the grave is not its goal, Dust thou art, to dust returnest.

Was not spoken of the soul." The subject is "An Easter Greeting." the scene, an "Empty Tomb; the text, "All hail!" Matt. 28: 9.

This greeting comes ringing down the isles of time like the chimes of an ethereal bell, swinging from the belfrey of heaven.

Let us stand close to the two Marys and make a mental note of what the

WHAT MARYS FOUND

(1) They found the stone rolled way. Mountains are not barriers in the pathway of Omnipotence. He rolls back the sea. His storms sweep towns and cities from the face of the earth. and plough passages through the thickest forest. But the storms of life, the doubts, the fears, the mountains of difficulty, how they cause us to stand see God's saints move mountains, clouds has sought to feed the hungry, to profade away upon the horizon, the blackest night is shot through and through with starlight, and icy leviathans rising up in the path of the faith-filled mariner

(2) The seal broken! Before and behind us, and on every side we face sealed mysteries; sin, pain, death. The doors are locked and the keys are lost. Then we lost faith, because we appear to be hemmed in. We will not trust, because we cannot see the other side Many a man has kept locked within the walls of his heart sealed secrets, because of love and pride. Many a woman hides away some injury, and while her heart aches she faces the world with a smile. Many a mother pays the penalty for her wandering boy, trusts him to the uttermost, and when he falls into an untimely grave takes her stand by bier like the angel with the flaming sword, to guard him from all slander.

"Silence," says Carlyle, "is deep eternity, speech is shallow as time. One day God will pull aside the veil and I allow us to pass into the Holy of Holies where we shall understand the mystery of his redeeming love and death, and taste the glory that excells.

Speaking of Lazarus, Tennyson writes: "Behole a man raised up by Christ, The rest remaineth unrevealed.

He told it not, something sealed The lips of that evengelist."

Sealed doors, sealed hearts, sealed lips (3) The tomb empty! Empty did we say? Ah, no, filled with the invisible presence of Christ, the fragrance of his memory, the shadow of his person, the glory of his victory, the splendor of his prepared by representatives of the visible. "All Hail!" a greeting from the risen Christ. Could it be established as an historical fact that Jesus never rose from the dead, then the whole structure upon which our Christianity is founded would come tumbling to the ground with a crash. I am not here, but risen. As God's sun rises over the eastern horizon gladdening the heart of nature and causing her to smile, suddenly the seal breaks, the stone rolls away, and the Son of Righteousness rises over sin and death with healing in his wings. "All Hail!" fretful and troubled souls; be of good cheer! the chains of death are napped as threads. "The wages of sin is death," but death hath no power over the sinless. No longer is man called upon to go groping in the darkness and uncertainty of the past. "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

SALVATION ARMY SELF-DENIAL WEEK

For Purpose of Raising Money for Unusually Heavy Demands

The announcement is made from the headquarters of the Salvation Army that the annual period of Self-Denial in the organization will occur during the secthis period the officers of the army are asked to give up the use of tea. coffee, butter or some other articles of food and from this and other sources to make a special contribution to Army funds. All the soldiers and officers of the Army look forward to this period in the year and make preparations for service beyond the ordinary at that time. The service which the Salvation Army vide homes for the homeless, to care for the unfortunate, and in general to ninister to all in distress. In Canada it has discharged these duties on a large scale in cities and towns from coast to coast and each year it is asked to assume new responsibilities to meet pressing needs. None of the money collectin Canada is used in Army work in the Mother Country. The Army in Britain sends money to all countries and receives for the work at home from

During the past few years the demands made on the Salvation Army in Western Canada have been unusually heavy, and the organization has un taken responsibilities in all the provinces, including British Columbia. effort in connection with Self Denial it is hoped that money may be provided to cover, at least in part, son of these large undertakings.
